ACQUITS BROWNE ON SECOND TRIAL

Jury After Taking 27 Ballots Frees the Legislator of the Charge of Bribery.

FOUR VOTED TO CONVICT.

Lack of Confidence in C. A. White, State's Star Witness, Causes Them to Change.

WILSON TRIAL TO PROCEED.

Disbelief in the testimony of Legislators White and Beckemeyer, confessed accomplices "tarred with the same stick," led the Lee O'Neil Browne jury yesterday afternoon to acquit the Democratic minority leader of the charge of paying White $1,000 to vote for William Lorimer for United States senator. Agreement was reached on the twenty-seventh ballot, and at 2:50 p. m. the verdict was read in court after the jurors had been out since 5:30 p. m. of Thursday—21 hours and 20 minutes.

"We simply could not place enough credence in the story of White to send a man to the penitentiary," was the gist of statements by Foreman Thomas F. Hanlon and his fellow jurors.

The first ballot after the jurors retired Thursday evening was on the question whether they should ballot for a verdict. Having decided "yes," the first slips went into a hat, the result being eight for acquittal to four for conviction. The division was exactly the reverse of the unchanged balloting on the first trial of Browne, when eight voted for conviction and four stood to the end for acquittal.

Eight Ballots First Night.

Eight ballots in all were taken Thursday night, and on each the division was the same—eight to four. Satisfied that the deadlock could not be broken, the jurors went to sleep. The four who at this stage favored conviction were Foreman Hanlon, who is sales manager of the Waterbury [illegible] company; Alexander D. Skinger, employed by the London Guarantee company; John J. Lyng, a Clybourn avenue street car conductor, and George H. Foss, shipping clerk with the Val Blatz Brewing company.

The men who at first voted to acquit were:

HUGO H. KUHL, credit department American Steel and Wire company;

MICHAEL N. KLENZ, clerk with Montgomery Ward & Co.;

W. G. MEGAN, engineer;

GRANT McCUTCHEON, employe Adams Express company;

ALBERT E. PETERS, sailmaker;

OTTO ROEHM, stenographer;

A. J. SHALLBETTER, locomotive engineer;

OWEN J. WILLIAMS, employe of the Hammond Packing company.

Four Gradually Won Over.

Up early yesterday morning, the jurors after breakfast resumed voting and found there had been no change over night. The first of the four to join the majority favoring acquittal was Mr. Lyng, who went over on the twelfth ballot, making the division nine to three. Three ballots later, Mr. Foss also reversed his position and voted for setting Browne free.

For four more ballots the result was ten to two, until at 10:30 a. m., Foreman Hanlon joined the ten and voted for acquittal, although he had been a stout advocate of conviction. Mr. Skinger, however, refused for some time longer to "come into camp and make it unanimous." In all twenty-six ballots were taken before luncheon.

Only one ballot was necessary in the afternoon. In the meanwhile Mr. Skinger had been won over. Word was sent to Judge Kersten at 2:30 p. m. that a verdict had been reached and he at once went into the court room from his chambers. At the same time, Attorney Charles E. Erbstein of the defense, who was nearby, was informed and he telephoned to defendant Browne to come over from the Briggs house.

Crowd Hears Verdict Read.

The news of a verdict spread rapidly through the Criminal Court building. State's Attorney Wayman hurried in and was followed so quickly by a throng that even before the defendant had arrived in a taxicab the courtroom was filled. Rumors were equally divided between conviction and acquittal.

"Have you agreed on a verdict?" asked Judge Kersten.

"We have," the jurors replied in chorus.

"Hand it to the clerk to be read."

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Lee O'Neil Browne, not guilty," read Clerk Charles Schmidt, from a typewritten sheet, below which were signed the names of the jurors beginning with Foreman Hanlon.

From the Lorimer-Browne men outside the railing there came an outburst of applause. Judge Kersten immediately ordered the courtroom cleared of the demonstrators, several of whom had been seized by bailiffs. None was placed in custody for his breach of court etiquette, however.

Browne Thanks Jury.

As soon as the verdict was read, Attorney Erbstein, who had been tightly gripping Browne's right hand, jumped to his feet and congratulated his client, whose face was a-wrinkle with smiles of jubilation. Asking the court's permission, Browne hurried to the jury box to thank his liberators. Erbstein seized a telegraph blank and wrote out a message addressed to Theodore Roosevelt, Cincinnati, containing the single word "Delighted," which he signed and sent out by a messenger.

A telephone message informed Attorney P. H. O'Donnell of the defense, and he hurried to tell Senator Lorimer, who was attending a meeting of the directors of his La Salle Street National bank. A slip with the words "not guilty" was taken into the directors' room and read by Mr. Lorimer, who then

OUST GRAFTERS, IS CRY OF DENEEN

Governor in Lorimer District Asks Voters to Purge the State of Disgrace.

MAKES THREE ADDRESSES.

"Not Always Innocent When Found Not Guilty," Comment on Browne Verdict.

PLEADS FOR DIRECT PRIMARY.

BY GOVERNOR DENEEN.

Not all men are innocent who have been found not guilty.

The only issue in this primary campaign is the grave responsibility of cleaning out the job lot of Republican "jackpotters" from the Illinois legislature. The Democrats must perform that duty within their own ranks.

Republican traitors engineered the bipartisan house organization and made possible the jackpot.

Gov. Deneen fired the foregoing shots into the ranks of the Lorimer-Shurtleff Republicans in three sections of Chicago last night.

His most bitter denunciation of the "jackpot" gang was delivered in the heart of the so-called Lorimer territory, near the convergence of the Twelfth, Thirteenth, and Thirty-fourth wards. Two thousand men in Pilsen park at Twenty-sixth and Albany streets enthusiastically cheered the words

"Under present conditions," he continued, "the most important issue now confronting the people of this state is the cleansing of our legislature. This is the duty which lies, first of all, at the door of the Illinois electorate, and if this is ignored the spectacle presented by our last general assembly is likely to be repeated in our next.

"What better opportunity could be asked by the men who, in the last general assembly betrayed both party and public [illegible] the attitude of some of the associations which in times of political agitation like this, spring up and seek to occupy the center of the stage with their special issues and to urge the voters to support candidates, regardless of every other consideration, according to their attitude upon those issues.

Criticises Private Organizations.

"What can be expected of the struggle to cleanse our legislature of grafters, jackpotters and bribers, of the enemies of public and representatives of private interests, those quasi-public officers who are the purchasable element in our general assembly, when organizations which champion the anti-saloon issue or the saloon issue, the civil service issue, the osteopathic issue, the medical issue or other special issues, urge the voters of Illinois to support such candidates for the general assembly as may pledge themselves to vote 'right' on these questions, regardless of any other consideration or of personal, political or moral fitness.

"There can be no complaint because a man supports a candidate who favors the issue which he considers most important, provided that candidate is an honest man and will deal fairly and honestly with other public interests and questions. But certainly no man can justify voting for a candidate who favors the issue in which he is chiefly interested, when he knows from the candidate's record that he is a dishonest man and will act dishonestly toward the state and its interests in other matters.

"Oust Those Who Disgrace State."

"In my opinion the question before us at this election, which should never be lost sight of by the advocates of any special issue, however meritorious in itself, is the question of restoring public confidence in the Illinois legislature.

"First of all, let us get rid of the legislators who have disgraced our state. We can do this only by united action, by joining hands and working together for this one purpose toward the common end of cleansing our general assembly and our political life of undesirables.

"In this way only, I believe, we can successfully fight the corruption which has manifested itself in our legislature. The multiplication of issues simply diverts attention from this main issue and leads to the dissipation and frittering away of our energy in different directions, while the enemies of honest government slip in between."

Against Old Crowd.

The governor made demand that no one of the sitting Republican members of the legislature from that territory be renominated.

These are the Republican legislators who fell within the range of Gov. Deneen's attack: Senator Charles E. Cruikshank; Representatives Charles A. Schumacher, Thirty-fourth ward; Thomas Curran, Tenth ward; David E. Shanahan, Fifth ward; Edward J. Smejkal, Nineteenth ward.

"What I have said applies to every one of them. They are not Republicans. They ought to be candidates either as Democrats, near Democrats, or independents. They have no business to pose as Republicans. What you southwest side Republicans should do is to get Republican legislators who can stay Republicans for six months."

Scores Caucus Bolters.

The governor brought a great crowd of First and Second warders to their feet at Central Music hall, Twenty-second street and Wabash avenue, when he piled up denunciation after denunciation upon the caucus bolters of the last session who made Shurtleff speaker and Lorimer senator.

Francis P. Brady, the organization candidate for senator in the First district, was the special candidate picked out for support whom the governor recommended in the First ward meeting. Edward H. Green and Noble B. Judah, house candidates, received his specific approval.

CHANLER JILTED AND POOR

Once Millionaire Now Has $20 a Month from Cavalieri.

WIFE HAS THE FORTUNE.

Russian Prince Figures in Parting of Singer and New Yorker.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Robert Winthrop Chanler, who last June was a millionaire, is now a pensioner on $20 a month allowed him by his wife, Lina Cavalieri. His dream of love has been shattered.

The former sheriff of Dutchess county, artist, society man, and politician, and the grand opera queen, "the most beautiful woman in the world," have parted forever. Cavalieri has Chanler's entire fortune and he is in America penniless.

Many of the details were learned today through friends of Chanler in this city. How Chanler was duped by the singer, how she got him to transfer his property to her, how she flouted him after the marriage, and her escapades with a Russian nobleman since the wedding are matters of common knowledge among certain Americans now in Europe.

Love at First Sight.

It was in the spring of 1909 that Chanler, not long before she sailed after her grand opera season here, fell in love with Lina Cavalieri. From the moment he set eyes on her the grandson of John Jacob Astor lived with one object in view, to make her his wife.

For twelve months the millionaire courted Cavalieri. She played him along, now sending him to the seventh heaven of rapture with hope and then plunging him to the lowest depths of despair.

All this time Prince Dolgorouki, one of the richest noblemen in Russia, was an ardent suitor of Cavalieri. Because of his assiduous attentions, the prima donna blew hot and cold for Chanler. As day after day, he asked her to marry him, she put him off, taking care not to decline him, but not wanting to accept him when there was a possibility that she would land the Russian, whom she is said to have loved as much as Chanler loved her.

Then in March of this year, with other famous grand opera singers Cavalieri sailed for Europe from New York, having promised Chanler she would decide on April 15 whether or not she would marry him.

Gets "Yes" by Cablegram.

On that day Chanler walked around with his head in the clouds. He had received the following cablegram:

PARIS, April 15, 1910.—Robert Chanler, New York: I will accept your proposition of marriage on my return to New York next season. Much friendship and love. Answer by cable.
LINA CAVALIERI.

Chanler, almost beside himself with joy, sent the following in reply:

Mme. Lina Cavalieri, Paris: I accept your proposition. It is a long wait, but wise.
ROBERT W. CHANLER.

But Mme. Cavalieri had not decided she would marry Chanler until she was satisfied she could not marry Prince Dolgorouki. Soon after she arrived in Paris she went to St. Petersburg. The object of this trip was not generally known until a few weeks ago.

Czar Refuses His Consent.

It is against the law for functionaries of the court of the czar of Russia to marry without the consent of their imperial master. Prince Dolgorouki has an enormous fortune. If he married without the consent of the czar all of this would be forfeited.

So the prima donna went to St. Petersburg to try to get the consent of the czar to the wedding. She did not succeed.

The fair Lina and the prince were the principals in a heartrending and tearful parting and she returned to Paris. On April 15, as she had promised, she cabled Chanler that she would marry him.

The talk of the wedding naturally brought on negotiations concerning the amount that would be settled on madame.

A French notary and an English solicitor, Cavalieri's representatives, called on Chanler and began to ply him with questions concerning his financial standing. At their behest he went into details concerning his fortune.

Four days before the wedding, which took place on June 18, Madame Lina sent for Chanler. Then she made with him one of the strangest prenuptial arrangements ever heard of.

Tells Story of Her Life.

In the first place the singer told the story [illegible] she became the pet of certain men of the great world of Paris, her only rival being Cleo de Merode. Then she told of her life, of those who had wined her and dined her and had loaded her with jewels, fine gowns, thousand and one things so dear to the heart of a professional beauty—a woman who must get rich before she gets old. Chanler heard all of this, but he was so filled with a desire to possess Cavalieri that it did not disturb him.

Then she told him how the father of her 16 year old son was known only to a few persons and not to the son himself. She made as one of the conditions of her marrying Chanler that he should sign a statement acknowledging this boy as his son. The New Yorker, crazed with love for the operatic star, was willing to do even this. But friends in Rome whom Mme. Cavalieri consulted, advised against this.

Then, on the third day before the wedding, the English solicitor and the French notary reappeared, bringing with them formidable legal documents.

Gives Up All He Possesses.

Chanler signed the documents and transferred everything he possessed, even his interest in the alimony fund, to the prima donna.

On June 18 of this year "La Belle Lina" and "Sheriff Bob" were married. Lina and Chanler then settled down to what Chanler thought was going to be the happiest existence man ever knew.

But two or three days afterwards the bridegroom began to see things in a different light. One morning the fair Lina, who now controlled the purse strings, announced that thereafter Chanler would be allowed each month 100 francs or $20. She agreed to board and lodge him, but out of his $20 he was to pay his valet and was to buy his clothes.

"It is time for you to get to work and earn your living, anyway," she told him. Chanler got to work.

Once married to the New Yorker and in possession of all his property, Cavalieri communicated with Prince Dolgorouki and he rushed across Europe to her side, where he has been ever since. When the Russian appeared on the scene Chanler had to take a back seat. He was only Cavalieri's husband.

Flouted Even in Hospital.

Then Mme. Cavalieri became ill and there was an operation for appendicitis. At the hospital Chanler was only tolerated by the singer. It was Dolgorouki who was welcomed. Chanler's friends say that on a number of occasions he would call to see his wife and when he got into her room he would find Prince Dolgourki sitting on the foot of her bed, laughing and chatting with her.

When Cavalieri left the hospital she went to Cobourg, near Trouville. Her son, her brother Orestes, Prince Dolgorouki, and several maids accompanied her. Chanler followed a few days later and when he found Prince Dolgorouki there he gave up in disgust. His return to America followed.

COMPUTES WEIGHT OF EARTH TO BE SEVEN TRILLION TONS.

Physics Expert of City College in New York Finishes Experiments with Delicate Apparatus.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Investigator Wetsel of the physics department at the City college has just finished a series of experiments by which he computed the weight of the earth to be seven trillion tons.

Wetsel's apparatus is so extremely delicate that the experiment had to be carried on entirely after midnight to avoid even the jarring of footfalls in the farthest of the college corridors.

The apparatus will be on public exhibition in the main building of the college tomorrow afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon.

FIRE FRIGHTENS SICK FOLK

NINE PERSONS ARE HURT.

South Water Street District Endangered in Early Morning Blaze.

A panic was caused among the patients in three west side hospitals shortly before midnight last night when fire attacked the barns of the Hebard Express and Van company, 628 South Winchester avenue. The damage was placed at $25,000.

The Frances Willard, the West Side, and the children's ward of the county hospital are in the immediate vicinity and uneasiness was felt by the patients even after the flames were under control.

In the Frances Willard hospital, which is located nearest the burned building, excitement was the highest. Twenty-nine patients were in this institution. Thomas Halpin, a watchman in the west side ball park, ran into the place and was the first to assure the excited patients that there was no danger of the hospital being attacked by the flames. Despite this, every effort was made to remove the patients in the event that the building did catch fire.

At the West Side hospital similar conditions existed. Thirty-five nurses are in training at this institution, and they added to the general confusion that existed for a few minutes after the fire was discovered.

The engine of engine company No. 26 was being driven south in Winchester avenue. When at Van Buren street the motorman of a west bound car evidently failed to hear the approach of the apparatus.

The Injured.

ADAMS, FRANK, 630 South Robey street, an employe of the express company; overcome by smoke.

BEAL, CHARLES, an employe; overcome by smoke while leading horses from the building.

DUNBAR, ROY, 3068 Lexington street; burned about hands by live wire.

HART, CHARLES, member of engine company No. 26; injured about head and shoulders when street car struck steamer.

HARTCEL, CHARLES, 3114 Austin avenue; member of same company, both legs injured in collision.

McCIOKA, HENRY, bruised about body by falling timber.

SHAPIRO, FRANK, 734 Winchester avenue, overcome by smoke.

TIERNEY, THOMAS, 1606 Myrtle street; bruised about body.

Fire in Water Street.

The South Water street commission district was threatened early this morning when fire which is believed to have started on the second floor of a four story brick building at 167 South Water street spread to adjoining buildings on the east and west. Before firemen reached the scene the flames had reached the fourth floor of the building at 167 South Water street. This structure is occupied by the Glauser-Laing company, commission merchants, and W. Brennan, cheese merchants.

9:05 a. m., from steamer No. 17—"All officers of 18 lost. Not one saved." Then followed list of officers, seven in all, who perished.

11 a. m., from steamer No. 17—"Have picked up over thirty of crew. On way to Ludington."

Thirty-three persons were drowned with the sinking of Pere Marquette car ferry No. 18 in midlake thirty miles off Sheboygan, Wis., at 6 to 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The tragedy—one of the most shocking disasters in the years of navigation on Lake Michigan—involved the drowning of thirty-one passengers and members of the crew of the ill fated boat and two members of the crew of car ferry No. 17, a sister vessel. These two died in a heroic attempt to rescue those on the wrecked boat. Of the total number drowned only two were passengers.

Thirty-three others were saved in the face of a heavy sea. All but two or three of these were members of the crew. The others were attachd in some capacity to the boat line.

Salvation in the Wireless.

That the death list is not larger is due to the bravery of the officers and the wireless telegraph operator of the wrecked vessel. All are reported to have stayed at their posts until death called them from their duty.

Repeated calls sent by the wireless operator, S. F. Sezepanek, who lived in Worcester, Mass., brought a half dozen vessels to the scene of the disaster, but none arrived until after No. 18 had gone down. Those saved were found by the rescuers swimming valiantly in the neighborhood of the spot where the boat sank. One man was found floating on a cabin door, to which he had been clinging for more than an hour.

Car ferry No. 18 was making a first regular Ludington-Milwaukee trip since being returned from Chicago, where for eight weeks it had been serving as an excursion vessel running out of that port. During that time it had made two trips daily along the north shore toward Waukegan, carrying thousands of passengers on each trip.

Vessel Called "Seaworthy."

Immediately after being turned over for its new duty at Ludington early in the week the vessel was given "a thorough overhauling by experts and pronounced absolutely seaworthy."

Several members of the Chicago company which had used the vessel during the summer were aboard when the disaster occurred.

The boat was of the usual car ferry construction: its stern cut low to allow freight cars to be shunted aboard from tracks at docks.

Cause of the Disaster.

The cause of the disaster has not been determined officially, but it is known that some of the twenty-nine loaded freight cars which made up of the cargo of the vessel broke loose from their moorings because of the boat's rocking by the heavy sea and started the vessel to swaying and listing.

The immediate cause of the sinking was that the ferry's after water compartment was filled through an open or broken deadlight, which was followed at the last minute by a bursting of bulkheads.

It is probable that the manner in which the cars got loose will never be known. The officers and crew, it is known, made an all night fight to fasten them and then tried to push them overboard to lighten the load. All these men—including captain, mates, and engineer—were drowned.

First Intimation of Trouble.

Leaving Ludington Thursday night at 11:30 o'clock the ferry had good weather for five hours on its course to Milwaukee. At 4:30 o'clock word was sent to Capt. Peter Kilty that his boat was rapidly making water aft and that the pumps were unable to keep even with the inflow.

With full confidence in the stability and seaworthiness of his craft, the veteran car ferry navigator headed his ship with all speed toward Sheboygan on the Wisconsin shore.

The steamer's pumps were worked to their fullest capacity and all the expedients known to a skilled and resourceful mariner were resorted to. Finally realizing the ship was doomed, the captain crowded it to the utmost/limit, hoping to reach shoal water.

Flash Wireless Signals.

At 5 o'clock a. m. it was seen that the peril was grave and the operator was instructed to flash out his call for help.

This was caught by Père Marquette ferries 17 and 20, which were just leaving Milwaukee and Ludington respectively, and they flashed the danger signal and the location of the imperilled vessel to other vessels and also to wireless stations on shore.

Besides the ferries 17 and 20 the life boat Faithful, the tug Peter Reiss, and the lumber barge Neff of Ludington, the tugs Meyer and Welcome of Milwaukee, and a tug from Post Washington were sent to the scene of the disaster.

Pere Marquette ferry No. 17 was the first to arrive near the stricken vessel. It was just too late to reach No. 18 while it was afloat.

Plunges Into the Sea.

As No. 17 drew within view of its sister ship the great black bow of the fleet flagship was seen to rise high into the air. The stern settled swiftly toward the bottom, and with a roar and crash like an explosion the ship shot downward and was lost to view.

So quickly did the steamer take its final plunge that not a man had opportunity to reach one of the six life boats which had been launched and lay alongside the car ferry. When the boat went down every one who could reach the deck ran for the sides and jumped into the lake and the strong swimmers were for the most part able to make their escape.

As the boat went down the roof of the cabin gave way under the force of the terrific air pressure, and with a crash and a roar the cabins and smokestacks shot into the air in every direction, causing death to numbers who might have escaped drowning.

Among the surging waves of Lake Michigan were seen half a hundred men struggling for their lives. Agonizing cries for help rose above the roar of the water.

Suction Carries Many Under.

Irresistibly drawn by a tremendous suction, a score of men could be seen speeding toward the awful vortex of the sinking steamer's revolving wheels, which sealed their doom.

Then began the work of rescue. Lowering one of its lifeboats, containing four sailors, the crew of No. 17 began a work of humanity which marks many of the number as heroes of the highest rank. No sooner had the little lifeboat touched the waves than it was hurled with terrific force against the side of the steel steamer and crushed into a shapeless mass.

Two of the sailors were rescued by those on board, while the other two, Joseph Peterson and R. Jacobson, immediately sank and drowned. After this others of equal courage quickly manned another lifeboat, which was successfully launched.

One Boat Rescues Fourteen.

This boat, in charge of Duncan Milligan of Ludington, did heroic service, and in less than an hour picked up fourteen survivors who were floating about clinging to bits of wreckage.

Meanwhile another lifeboat was manned and joined in the work of rescue. It was a race against time and in the face of great danger more than thirty were saved.

About this time the tug A. A. C. Tessler of Milwaukee, car ferry P. M. No. 20, steamer P. M. No. 6, and a tug from Sheboygan, towing the Sheboygan life saving crew, arrived on the scene. They instituted a thorough search for survivors and bodies and succeeded in picking up seven of the former and eight of the latter.

A fishing vessel from Ludington also aided in the search and found floating three large life rafts, able to carry practically the entire number aboard ferry 18, but there was no one on any of them. This fishing vessel also picked up six bodies, one of them a woman.

Escape of Wheelsman Burke.

Perhaps the most remarkable escape is that of Simon Burke, wheelman, who is said to have been the last man to leave the doomed ship. Burke said:

"I was at the wheel during the whole trouble and really knew little of what occurred. Capt. Kilty came into the wheelhouse only once, about 5 o'clock, and he seemed cool and collected. Because of the water aft the boat steered badly, but I stuck to my post until the last minute, waiting for an order from the captain to leave. This order never came.

"When I realized that the boat at last was sinking I ran out on the bridge with a life preserver which Second Mate Walter Brown had brought me. Dropping to the main deck, I plunged overboard just as the boat disappeared. I must have been in the center of the whirlpool, for I recall being spun around like a top and drawn irresistibly downward, it seemed, for a hundred feet. Then I rose to the surface and had barely time to catch my breath when I went down again and was under for a long time.

"After I rose the second time I seized a piece of the cabin and managed to remain afloat until I was picked up. I know nothing of what caused the accident."

Manager Cochrane Saved.

Seymour B. Cochrane, general manager of the Chicago company which leased the vessel during the summer, had a narrow escape in the wreck. He was saved after floating for longer than an hour on a door.

With Mr. Cochrane were W. H. Cummings, advertising manager for the Chicago Navigation company; J. A. Mack, Bray Drinkwater, and Cabin Boy Prever. These names were furnished by General Manager Cochrane last night over the telephone to his brother, W. H. Cochrane, general manager of the Chicago and South Haven Steamship company, which is affiliated with the Chicago Navigation company.

Cars Founder the Boat.

"It's too long a story to go into details and I am too worn out to talk much," said Cochrane last night, talking over the telephone from Ludington to his brother in Chicago. "The exact cause of the accident is not known, but I understand that the twenty-nine cars of general merchandise which comprised the cargo and which cars were supposed to have been safely anchored to the four tracks of the boat, broke from their fastenings and foundered the boat. But the exact cause may never be known because all the men who knew went down. One of the wheelmen was saved, I am told, but which one I do not know. [He is Simon Burke.] All the rest of the crew went down and they died bravely. They lowered the lifeboats and got the passengers off in safety after it become certain to Capt. Kilty that the craft would sink.

Work Gallantly all Night.

"The officers are the only persons who knew the cause and those poor fellows cannot tell. But whatever the cause, the crew worked gallantly all night attempting to repair. I was asleep on the upper deck at 4 o'clock this morning when I was awakened by calls of the crew:

'Everybody for the life boats. Danger! Danger! Danger! All out! Everybody get up!'

"It was while getting dressed that I heard the crew complain about the hard luck of having worked all night for nothing.

"Sezepanek, the wireless operator, remained at his instrument until the last minute calling for help, and I believe his body will be found there. Constantly he flashed his signal of distress, but it was not picked up for more than two hours after he began the call. Pere Marquette No. 17 was the first to answer the signal of distress. There is no doubt that other boats caught it, but the instruments on our craft did not record their answers.

"Capt. Kilty's body has been recovered and we have aboard Cummings and Mack. Drinkwater and Prever were saved, but how I don't know.

Tears off a Cabin Door.

"Most of the engineer's crew died down in the hold. The boat was about two hours in sinking. When I saw that death by drowning appeared inevitable I tore off a cabin door and plunged away from the boat. I held fast until 7:35, when I was rescued. At the point where the craft went down the water is at least 300 feet deep. I don't know the names of the men who drowned, but all were men who had worked on the boat all summer. The crew numbered thirty-two. I learned that while the craft was sinking. One of them was saved, reducing that loss to thirty-one, and the two men who made the trip over with me makes the total of thirty-three. We had reached Ludington Wednesday afternoon and the railroad officials gave me the proper O. K. when I turned the boat over."

Crew Sacrificed Lives.

"There is no other way of reasoning than to say that the crew sacrificed their lives to save the passengers," said Cochrane after conveying his brother's message to the newspaper men. "The boat was well equipped with life boats and if the members of the crew had not been chock full of manliness they might have saved themselves and let the passengers perish. But, thank goodness, they were not that kind of men. But, just think of it! Isn't that a story in itself? All the crew but one dead and all the passengers but two saved!

"It might be days before we have an accurate list of those who perished. For our passenger business we employed a crew of over 100 men. Most of them reside in Ludington, and the majority of those who quit the employ of the boat are probably at their homes in Ludington. Some of the others have taken employment on other boats. All of them are experienced sailors and have worked on the boat for years. They were thoroughly disciplined, and didn't give up their attempts to save the boat until the last minute."

Steward's Story of It.

Frank J. Young, chief steward of the P. M. car ferry line, in speaking of his experience, said:

"I never saw such a terrible spectacle. I was called about 4:30 a. m. and went on deck partially dressed. As soon as I learned the nature of the trouble I put on a life preserver, in anticipation of the worst, and sought to reassure my men. At the last moment every man on board who could reach the deck was forced to jump overboard and take his chances in the sea.

"I noticed that the roof of the cabins shot into the air as if from an explosion, but this I believe was due to air pressure. I was fortunate in securing a hold on a piece of wreckage and swam about for an hour before being rescued by the lifeboat from No. 17. I have no idea as to what caused the disaster, for at no time was I in communication with any one in the engine room. There was little confusion on board up until the last minute, and all the officers and men displayed great courage."

Cabin Watch Interviewed.

Fred F. Potvin, a young cabin watch, said he called the cooks at 4:30 a. m. and soon afterward the sides of the boat aft seemed to cave in. "The mates then began shoving cars overboard, which was accomplished with great difficulty, because when the wheels dropped off the stern the cars hung stubbornly over the fantail.

Stanley Chubb of Ludington, second porter, was among the survivors. He was in the water only forty-five minutes and said he did not know how far he went down, but it was a long way. When he came up he secured hold on a floating life raft, from where he helplessly watched the drowning of several of his comrades. He said Joe Brezinski, first officer, was struck by a davit and killed just as the final crash came. A. J. Mack, steward, was in a small boat alongside the car ferry and was killed by one of the ferry's davits, which impaled him as the ship went down.

The Return to Ludington.

Ferry No. 17 was the first to reach land after being at the scene of the disaster. With its flag floating at half mast and thousands of anxious watchers waiting at the pier, No. 17 steamed into Ludington harbor last night carrying four dead and thirty-three survivors of No. 18 and the bodies of two of the crew of No. 17, who lost their lives in the work of rescue.

The bodies brought in on this vessel were those of Capt. Peter Kilty, Mrs. Marian Turner, cabinmaid, and N. L. Bertrand, all of Ludington; Albert Mack, steward, of Westfield, N. Y.; William Cummings of the Chicago Navigation company, and Stephen Sezepanek, the wireless operator.

There was a moment of intense silence as the big black steamer went through the piers into Ludington harbor. Then men and women turned upon each other and fought and struggled with insane eagerness to get first tidings of the fate of relatives who went away as members of the crew of the ill fated car ferry.

Three other bodies were taken to Milwaukee on board car ferry No. 20. One of these was the body of Joseph Brezinski of Manitowoc, first mate.

Tells of Call for Help.

"We left Ludington at 5 o'clock in the morning," said Capt. J. G. Crawford of Car Ferry No. 20, which reached Milwaukee at 7:30 o'clock last night.

"We were well out in the lake when we received the wireless call for help from No. 18. I immediately made for the scene of the wreck, arriving there at 10 o'clock. The ferry was entirely out of sight below the water, and nothing remained except the floating wreckage.

"The loose cars on No. 18 had broken the woodwork of the vessel, and their own frames entirely to pieces as they rolled about, and scarcely any of the floating wreckage was larger than matchwood. I put off a boat in charge of the first officer, and after a five hours' search he found the three bodies which we brought with us.

"No. 17 was already on the scene when we reached there, but, owing to the high sea, we were unable to establish communication with it. I have no idea how many survivors or bodies it found.

"I left the wreck at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, there being no signs of any other bodies."

Vessel Beyond Salvage.

Car ferry No. 18 is said to have gone down in sixty fathoms of water, which renders recovery an impossibility. The financial loss will reach $550,000, with insurance in the Lloyds approximating $500,000.

The vessel was constructed a little over five years ago. It was of steel construction, 400 feet long, and had a fifty-eight foot beam. Its capacity was eighty-two freight cars, scattered along four tracks.

Soon after its construction it was inspected by a group of Frenchmen who came here to study American industries. Upon their return to Paris the Frenchmen wrote President William Cotter of the railroad company that it was the highest type of boat construction they had seen on fresh water.

It was a common feat for the boat to safely plow through ten feet of ice. It was considered entirely safe for all purposes, and classed as the best boat the railroad company owns.

Emory Barry and L. B. McKenny, with offices in the Masonic temple, controlled the concessions on the boat during the summer season, and were personally acquainted with nearly every member of the crew. Both eulogized the members of the crew and expressed conviction that the officers gave orders to save the passengers and the boat at any cost.

RECALL'S THE CHICORA'S FATE.

Had it not been for the wireless on Pere Marquette ferryboat No. 18 the vessel's fate might have been similar to that of the steamer Chicora.

The Chicora, a Graham & Morton passenger and freight vessel running between Milwaukee and St. Joseph, left Milwaukee one night late in January, 1895, on its usual trip to St. Joe.

The vessel never arrived in St. Joseph and no sign of it ever was found except one piece of wreckage which it was believed came from the vessel. Steamers and tugs searched the lake for weeks without getting a trace. The vessel carried a crew of twenty-three and one passenger when it left Milwaukee.

CELLS YAWN FOR 23 GARY MEN.

Attorney General's Mandate Directs Mayor Knotts to Commit Saloonkeepers to Jail.

An attorney representing Attorney General Bingham yesterday secured from the Lake county (Ind.) Circuit court writs of mandamus involving Mayor Thomas E. Knotts, Police Chief J. E. Martin, and twenty-three saloonkeepers of Gary, Ind. The mandate directs the mayor to commit to the county jail the saloon men who were found guilty of operating "blind pigs" last fall.

Several months ago the offenders were indicted by the grand jury. Following this they appeared in the mayor's court, pleaded guilty, were fined and sentenced to jail, but the mayor remitted the imprisonment part of it. When their cases came up for trial in the Circuit court the saloon men pleaded previous jeopardy and were discharged.

The attorney general declares that the mayor's "immunity bath" is without avail, however, and that he has no power to remit jail sentences.

SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS HIMSELF, FOLLOWING FAMILY QUARREL.

Michael Heaney, a City Fireman, Wounds Spouse and Ends His Own Life in His Residence.

Following a series of family quarrels, Michael Heaney, a city fireman, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife yesterday and then killed himself. Mrs. Heaney was taken to the St. Anthony of Padua hospital where it was said at night that her recovery is doubtful.

The shooting took place in the Heaney residence, 1361 South Fairfield avenue. Heaney had been absent from his work Thursday and is said to have visited several saloons. He appeared at his engine house, 2246 South Ridgeway avenue, yesterday morning, and seemed morose and talked but little to other members of the company. He remained there a little more than two hours and then suddenly left without telling any-one where or why he was going.

Heaney went directly to his residence, where it is believed that his wife censured him. He got a revolver and she attempted to flee through a rear doorway. Just as she reached the door, however, Heaney fired. The bullet entered her body near the heart. She fell unconscious onto a rear porch. Standing where he had fired at his wife, Heaney shot and killed himself.

Mrs. Louis Jeremy, 1359 Fairfield avenue, whose rear porch adjoins that of the Heaney residence, heard the shooting and rushed to her porch where she saw Mrs. Heaney lying unconscious. She summoned other neighbors, who found the body of Heaney and notified the police.

The three Heaney children, Hazel, 12 years old; Harold, 11 years old, and Edwin, 8 years old, were at school when the tragedy occurred. They became hysterical when they returned at noon and learned of the shooting. They were cared for in the residence of Mrs. Mary Gustafson, 1357 South Fairfield avenue.

HINES MAKES SELF-DEFENSE IN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC.

Lumberman Tells of St. Paul Convention Troubles—Did Not Quit Conservation Committee, He Says.

Edward Hines' own version of his troubles at the national conservation congress in St. Paul was given out yesterday in a letter sent by the lumberman, whose family expects him to return today. Among other things, he said:

"President Baker of the national conservation congress, in naming me as a member of a committee of five to serve as the credentials committee of the congress, did so entirely without my solicitation and without my knowledge; and, as I have since learned, did so for he reason that, knowing my wide acquaintance with the personnel of the different delegations, he felt I would be of considerable value on such credentials committee.

"As the appointment was one entirely within the jurisdiction and control of the president, in no way requiring the recommendation or the approval of the Illinois delegation, and having received no request from President Baker for such withdrawal, and as the suggestion carried with it a threat, I absolutely declined to withdraw; whereupon the Illinois delegation passed a resolution suggesting to the president that he substitute some other name for mine; the president declined to take any action whatsoever on the matter, and I remained on the committee until its work was completed and it was discharged.

"I am pleased to state that no criticism of my appointment was made by any other delegation, so far as is known, while, on the contrary, a large number of delegates objected to my considering resigning under such circumstances, including a number of the officers of the congress."

TAFT HOME TOWN SEES ROOSEVELT

Visitor, Seeming "All In" from Hard Trip, Rests at Home of Daughter.

PRAISE TO PRESIDENT.

Attempt to Have Him Shun "Boss" Cox as He Did Lorimer Is a Failure.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—President Taft's home town took Mr. Roosevelt in today and treated him well. The colonel didn't encounter any signs of hostility and he did not meet a reception to be described as wild. Cincinnati turned out in numbers and Mr. Roosevelt followed out the plans as they had been laid out, that was all.

Mr. Roosevelt took occasion twice in his speech before a big audience in Music hall this afternoon to say a kind word for the president. He spoke on the establishment by congress of a bureau of mines and he referred to the commission appointed by Mr. Taft to look into such matters as the capitalization and stocks of railroads. These things he did not dwell on, but he mentioned them simply to show he was willing to give credit to the president where he believed the administration had done well.

The colonel did not lose an opportunity to further the cause "of the new nationalism." He spoke of it in connection with the regulating of corporations and in regard to conservation. He said he believes the government should have the power to deal with such matters rather than the individual states.

Glad to Meet "Boss" Cox.

Those who tried to stir up trouble for the colonel when they learned that George B. Cox, Republican "boss," Garry Herrmann, and Rud Hynicka had been invited to attend the reception at Congressman Longworth's home failed. Mr. Roosevelt offered no objection to these men calling at the home of his son-in-law. He said he did not place "Boss" Cox in the same category with Lorimer, whom he snubbed yesterday in Chicago.

The colonel expressed the opinion that there is no comparison or similarity between the two men, for Cox does not hold public office and is not under suspicion of any corruption, so far as Mr. Roosevelt knows. He was willing to meet Cox and the others just as he is willing to meet Barnes and the "Old Guard" in New York.

Mr. Roosevelt took up the matter of conservation because he had been discussing the problem of waterways in connection with the work being done on the Ohio. He hoped that at no distant time the national authorities will take up seriously the project for a deep waterway channel from the lakes to the gulf.

"Any such scheme, of course, must be entered into as a genuinely national policy," he said. "You must not develop the Ohio or the Mississippi a little in consideration of also developing the other streams that ought not be developed a little."

See Conflict with Taft.

He declared again that our great rivers and harbors must be dealt with nationally. This is necessary in all conservation work, of which the development of waterways is a feature, Roosevelt explained. This does not fit in with the administration's view, and there were a good many Cincinnati folks who weren't backward in commenting on it.

Mr. Roosevelt came out for a nonpartisan selection of the men to handle the conservation problems.

"At last we have a bureau of mines," said he, "established by congress, a most important bureau. Like the waterways, it must be treated in connection with the development and use of the other natural resources, and President Taft has recently appointed as head of the bureau the best man he possibly could have chosen to fill the place. Mr. Holmes is a man whom I know in connection with his professional work well enough to testify how admirably fit he is for the office, but whom I do not know in any other way well enough even to know what his politics is."

There were slams and jabs at the corporations that are wicked in the typical way which caught the audience. When Mr. Roosevelt said he wanted to see the capitalization of all those great corporations doing an interstate business supervised by the national government he got a hand.

Praise for "Stocks" Committee.

"And I am exceedingly glad," he went on, "that the president has appointed the commission with Mr. Hadley of Yale at the head to look into that question. You find some worthy people who will say, 'O, capitalization, yes; looked into perhaps, but it should be left to the states.' Now if your traffic goes down from Cincinnati to New Orleans, you will be passing through on the edge of a dozen different states. You cannot have the capitalization looked after in each state."

Roosevelt gave the example that he had used before, that of the corporation with offices in New Jersey and operative fields in the west somewhere.

"They are managed in New York, incorporated in New Jersey, and run in the west," was the way he put it.

The colonel took up the rest of his address in treating various evils. He said that he does not think the country is in a bad condition, but that it is a pretty good country. He said he was for the corporations as long as they tend to business. Again he brought out the point that a good many of the evils brought on by the corporations are due to lax laws which allow them to act as they do. The new nationalism is what we need.

Roosevelt Seems "All In."

It was a day of comparative ease for Mr. Roosevelt. He was tired after the day in Chicago and Congressman Longworth tried to make things as quiet as possible. On the platform this afternoon the colonel appeared to be just about all in. His speech lacked the customary fire.

Through the streets of Cincinnati he was whirled in a motor car after breakfast at the Longworth home. On the way up from the station a mounted policeman was thrown from his horse and Mr. Roosevelt went over to him and told him not to pay any attention to a little affair of that sort. The man was not hurt. Inspection of the grounds of the Ohio Valley Industrial exposition before luncheon consumed an hour.

At a luncheon "across the Rhine" Mr. Roosevelt met "Brownie" Burke, mascot of the Cincinnati Reds. The youngster asked the colonel if he'd tell him how to make the Reds win.

"You tell them to hit the ball squarely," replied T. R. smilingly, "and with lots of ginger."

Brownie hustled off to convey the excellent solution of the problem. When he entered Music hall the colonel found it was only partly filled, but the crowd sifted in rapidly and when he was on his feet the auditorium was packed to the doors.

Tonight Mr. Roosevelt dined with Mr. and Mrs. Longworth. He dropped in on grand opera in Music hall, and after that paid a visit to Richelieu hall to say a few words to a labor union and then went home to bed.

CUPID CAUSE OF NEAR RIOT.

Gary, Ind., Jurors Successfully Fight Adjournment of Court for Social Engagements.

There was a near riot in the Gary, Ind., city court, yesterday afternoon, because Special Judge William M. Dunn insisted on adjourning court at 6 o'clock to keep a social engagement in Valparaiso, Ind. He was seconded in his stand by Deputy Prosecutor Clyde Hunter, who wanted to call on a young woman in this city.

"No," protested the twelve jurors, some of them being busy merchants. "We want the case now under consideration finished at once. No adjournment goes with us."

Two young women were informed by long distance telephone that calls for last evening would be postponed.

SHUN MEAT AND OUTWIT AGE

Chicago Vegetarian Society Lauds Its Universal Panacea.

"BUT AVOID THE CRAZE."

Conservative Eating of Grown Things, Says Speaker, Prolongs Life.

If you wish to dodge the undertaker, be a vegetarian.

If you wish to be able to enjoy nature, be a vegetarian.

If you wish to lead a clean life, be a vegetarian.

If you wish to get out of the cosmic mists, be a vegetarian.

And if you wish other things, beautiful and good, be a vegetarian.

The Chicago Vegetarian society met last night in the society room of the Crerar library and it brought to light the above possibilities to the mere man who likes his steak well done or likes it rare.

Should Not "Become Crazed."

The principal speaker was Bruce Calvert, editor of "The Open Road." He asked the vegetarians not to become crazed over the idea.

"Be careful," he warned, "that you do not burn out the fuse. If you allow vegetarianism to gain control of you, you are on the way to mental bankruptcy."

He appealed to the people to throw aside their books and their city amusements and get back to nature. He painted a picture of the woods.

Birds at Dawn Beat Orchestra.

"The singing of the birds at early dawn is sweeter than the music of the Thomas orchestra."

The Rev. Henry S. Clubb of Philadelphia, president of the Vegetarian society of America, said a man could not eat meat and be religious.

NAME OF CITY HALL EMPLOYE IS MENTIONED IN POLICE RAID.

Following Complaint of Patrolman, Four Women Are Held as Inmates of an Alleged Disorderly House.

Names of two men, one a city hall employé and the other a surety company representative, were mentioned mysteriously yesterday in connection with those of four women arrested as inmates of an alleged disorderly house at 2156 West Jackson boulevard.

The place, the first floor of an apartment building, was raided by the Warren avenue police upon complaint of Patrolman P. J. Sweeny, who occupies the second floor. It is in a residence neighborhood, a score of the residents of which are said to be ready to testify against the inmates.

Patrolman Sweeney alleged in court that two months ago the flat was the scene of a "blowout," attended by fifty men and women of questionable character. He declared that the guests caroused all night and kept him and members of his family awake.

Four women and one man were arrested as the result of his complaint. They gave their names as follows:

Mrs. J. C. McManus, 35 years old.
Miss Pearl Cowder, 21 years old.
Miss Anna Watney, 18 years old.
Miss Olga Watney, 17 years old.
Earl Jerolman, 21 years old.

The elder Watney girl, when arraigned before Judge Maxwell at the Desplaines street station, declared that she and her sister had been boarding with Mrs. McManus and were not there for immoral purposes, as alleged. Upon her statement that she wanted time in which to produce character witnesses, a continuance was granted until next Tuesday.

BILLBOARDS ON I. C. DOOMED BY AN ORDER FROM W. L. PARK.

Vice President of Road Is Said to Be Contemplating Plan to Beautify the Right of Way.

The billboard nuisance along the Illinois Central right of way south of the Twelfth street station is to be abolished at once. Following protests from many of the suburban patrons of the road and occupants of dwellings facing the right of way, it was announced yesterday that Vice President W. L. Park had instructed that the billboards be removed.

Notice was served on the advertising company which owns the billboards, canceling its contract. Control of such matters will be retained hereafter by the railroad.

It is stated that Vice President Park long had been opposed to the billboards, but had thus far been prevented by the advertising contract from removing them. While with the Union Pacific, recently, as general superintendent at Omaha, Mr. Park was active in enterprises for beautifying the right of way and station grounds and it is said he intends to pursue the same policy on the Illinois Central's.

WILL SEND GIRL ELOPER HOME.

Father Sends for Young Woman Arrested in Chicago—Youth Will Continue His Journey.

Wedding bells will not ring for Charles Widner and Nona Kirby, the young couple who eloped from Preston, Wash., last Monday and were arrested upon their arrival in Chicago on Thursday. The father of the girl telegraphed Inspector Lavin to send her home, money to purchase a railroad ticket having been forwarded by mail.

Widner, who is 19 years old, will be allowed to continue his journey to Damascus, Va., the home of his parents.

The girl, who is 16 years old, is the daughter of Miller Kirby, a ranchman in Lincoln county, Wash.

CHILDREN'S HAIR

Proper Treatment of the Scalp in Childhood

Much harm results from washing a child's head with the usual soaps and shampoos, as most of them contain too much alkali. This makes the scalp rough and dry, and often leads to a diseased condition which causes the hair to fall out as the child becomes older. Mothers are strongly advised to use Birt's Head Wash, the new antiseptic shampoo that is made of refined neutral soap (containing no free alkali), white of eggs, cocoanut oil, glycerin and salicylic acid. It removes every particle of dirt, all disease germs, and leaves the scalp soft and pink, and the hair vigorous and glossy. A child whose head is kept clean with Birt's Head Wash will never have dandruff, and the hair roots will be kept in such a healthy condition that the hair will not fall out as the years pass. 25c and 50c.

OUST BALLINGER; VERDICT OF FIVE

Four Democrats and Insurgent Madison Make Public Minority Reports.

CLASH IN THE COMMITTEE

Chairman Nelson Walks Out After Effort to Adjourn to Gain Time.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The findings of the Democratic members of the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional committee and a separate report by Congressman Madison of Kansas were made public today after a sharp clash at a meeting of the committee, which was attended only by four Democrats, Mr. Madison, and the chairman, Senator Knute Nelson.

The report of the Democrats upholds in nearly every particular the charges made by Gifford Pinchot and L. R. Glavis against R. A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior. Mr. Ballinger is found to have betrayed his official trust in conspiring with land grabbers and to have been guilty of duplicity toward President Taft. It is held the conspiracy alleged to exist against the secretary had no existence in fact. Finally the reports finds:

"That Richard A. Ballinger has not been true to the trust reposed in him as secretary of the interior, that he is not deserving of public confidence, and that he should be requested by the proper authorities to resign his office."

This report was signed by Senators Fletcher of Florida and Purcell of North Dakota, and Representatives James of Kentucky and Graham of Illinois.

Madison Also Asks Removal.

Mr. Madison's report contained 25,000 words. In brief, he finds the charges made by Glavis and Pinchot are sustained, and that "Mr. Ballinger was not a faithful trustee of the interests of the people." His removal from office is recommended.

The decision of the four Democratic members and Mr. Madison to make the reports public followed a session which was unusual. Three Republican members, Senator Sutherland of Utah and Representatives McCall of Massachusetts and Denby of Michigan refused to attend the meeting. Finally the chairman left the committee room and failed to return.

Mr. Nelson gave notice that a meeting would be held in Chicago on next Tuesday. The Democratic members adjourned to meet again in Washington on Dec. 8.

Representative Ollie M. James of Kentucky, one of the Democratic members, announced that all the Democrats would refuse to attend the meeting of which Senator Nelson gave notice. The Republicans then will be in the same position that the Democratic members and Mr. Madison found themselves today.

Nelson Seeks Delay.

Upon the assembling of the committee, Chairman Nelson said Congressman Denby had arrived, that Congressman Olmstead would arrive this evening, and he had received word that Senator Root could be here next Tuesday.

This would, Mr. Nelson said, bring together eleven of the twelve members of the committee. In view of this, he suggested either of two alternatives, that they agree to meet here next Tuesday, or, as Senator Root can reach Chicago on Monday, that a meeting of the committee be held in Chicago that day instead of here next Tuesday. The chairman said he was anxious to dispose of the matter at the earliest possible moment.

Roll call disclosed that no quorum was present and Senator Nelson said in view of that fact no business could be transacted and he would entertain a motion to adjourn.

Mr. Madison protested against the action of the chairman as arbitrary and unfair and moved that the absent members of the committee be brought in. The four Democrats and Mr. Madison voted in favor. Mr. Nelson did not vote.

The chairman then declined to put a motion of Mr. James that Ivan Bowen be appointed sergeant at arms on the ground that a quorum was not present."

Mr. Madison then moved that the secretary of the committee be directed and empowered to notify the absentees to appear at the committee room at once and that upon their failure to come to arrest and bring them there. The motion was adopted by the five members.

Declines to Execute Arrests.

Secretary Sieman notified Sutherland, McCall, and Denby to appear at the committee room, but declined to execute the order that they be arrested, as under the resolution authorizing the investigation there was no such authority. The three absentees made the following reply:

"In view of the refusal of a minority of the committee on Wednesday to postpone action until the members of the committee known to be coming could arrive at Minneapolis, and their evident purpose to attempt to make the action of a minority the official action of the committee without consideration and their refusal to discuss the evidence at the former meeting, and in view of the fact that at the former meeting they promulgated to the public their decision of the case which had no validity whatever as official action and yet amounted to a conclusive prejudgment of the case as far as said minority were concerned, we insist upon an opportunity for the full membership of the committee to decide the case which was committed to them by law and we must therefore decline the invitation of the gentlemen assembled to meet with them today."

Mr. Madison then offered the following resolution:

"That Mr. Sieman be instructed to communicate to Senator Sutherland and Representatives McCall and Denby that the statement that any member or members of the committee refused to discuss the evidence or issue is absolutely incorrect. If Senator Sutherland and Representatives McCall and Denby had remained in the committee room, as was their duty, we would have then discussed the evidence and today be discussing the evidence if they desired and are willing now to discuss it.

"In view of the fact that they left the room without any request to discuss the evidence, and in view of the fact that the chairman stated that discussion was in order and they did not attempt to discuss the case or indicate a desire to do so, we feel it is their duty now to come into the meeting and deliberate upon the evidence if they desire to discuss it. The members who are present will gladly discuss with them any matter pending before the committee. No report has been formulated and the question of what the report shall contain is a matter now up for deliberation and discussion."

Nelson Insists on Adjourning.

Senator Nelson insisted the only motion for business that could be entertained under parliamentary law was either a motion to adjourn or motions to secure the attendance of the committee. He declared that as the motion just offered related to the matter of securing the attendance of members of the committee, the chair in that view would put the motion. The five members voted for it.

Mr. Madison moved to take a recess, and the motion was seconded by Mr. James. The chairman repeated that there was no quorum and the motion therefore was not in order.

Mr. Madison asked if the chair held that only a motion to adjourn sine die could be considered at this time.

Mr. Nelson said he would not object to some one else putting the motion, but he did not think it in order and he would not himself put it. He based his refusal on the ground that a quorum not being present the only two motions that could be entertained were motions to adjourn and to compel the attendance of absent members.

Chairman Deserts Session.

Mr. Nelson remained until the secretary could deliver the Madison resolution, which was done. The three absentees refused to modify their former communication or add anything to it. Thereupon Mr. Nelson left the room.

The five members continued their deliberations. Secretary Sieman remained in the committee room. Senator Fletcher of Florida was made chairman pro tem. A resolution, offered by Senator Purcell of North Dakota, was then adopted by the five members. It reviewed the incidents of the day and the situation regarding a quorum and concluded:

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that under such circumstances it is the duty of those present to make reports to the congress of their findings in the matters submitted to the committee; that all members of the committee be authorized at any time before the convening of the next session of congress to prepare and file such reports and findings as they desire."

Mr. Graham then moved that the members of the committee be authorized that the findings be given out. Mr. Graham presented the report of the Democrats and it was adopted by a vive voce vote.

Democratic Findings Summarized.

Summarized, the Democratic findings declare that the evidence shows:

That there was no conspiracy against Mr. Ballinger.

That Gifford Pinchot and L. R. Glavis were faithful trustees of the people's interests.

That Mr. Ballinger's conduct on certain occasions was intended to and did have the effect of deceiving the president.

That Mr. Ballinger's action in having "clear listed" the so-called Cunningham Alaskan coal lands and ordering them patented, showed bad faith.

That he advocated a bill to validate Alaskan coal claims alleged to be fraudulent.

That his action in acting as attorney in cases pending in the land office while he was commissioner was reprehensible.

That he helped to force the Cunningham coal claims to a hearing before the government was ready to proceed.

That he encouraged insubordination in the reclamation service and condoned improper official conduct in that connection.

Numerous official acts of Mr. Ballinger are attacked. High praise is given Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, and L. R. Glavis, former chief of field division of the general land office.

Mr. Madison asked leave to file a separate report and findings, which was agreed to.

Conclusions Reached by Madison.

Mr. Madison's conclusions are:

"That the charges made by L. R. Glavis against Secretary Ballinger should be sustained.

"That in the matter of the disposition of the Cunningham coal lands Mr. Ballinger was not a faithful trustee of the interests of the people and did not perform his duty in such a manner as to properly protect such interests.

"That the charges made by Mr. Pinchot should be sustained.

"That Mr. Ballinger's course in the administration of the department of the interior has been characterized by a lack of fidelity to the public interests. That this has been shown in his treatment of the Cunningham coal claims, the restoration of the water power sites to entry without intention to rewithdraw, and in his administration of the reclamation service, the latter resulting in unnecessary humiliation to the director and tending towards the disintegration of the service.

"That Mr. Ballinger has not shown himself to be that character of a friend to the policy of conservation to our natural resources that the man should be who occupies that important post of secretary of the interior in our government, and he should not be retained in that office."

Mr. Madison moved that both reports be filed with Secretary Sieman with instructions to have the same printed and copies filed with the secretary of the senate and the clerk of the house of representatives.

FIND PIN IN GIRL'S APPENDIX; MADE TRIP WITHOUT DAMAGE.

Physician Stamps as Without a Parallel in Medical Records Case from Which Child Recovers.

Physicians at the Provident hospital found a pin in the appendix of a girl. The pin was straight and had traveled through the child's body without damaging any other part. The girl will recover.

Josephine Shoecraft, 6 years old, 3638 Forest avenue, was admitted to the hospital Saturday suffering from appendicitis and an operation was found to be necessary.

When the appendix was taken out Sunday, Dr. U. G. Dailey, who performed the operation, discovered a straight pin, about an inch long had lodged in it, having been there apparently for some time.

The case is considered remarkable because the pin had traveled over fourteen feet through the esophagus, stomach, and bowels without perforating the wall. In most cases where pins have been swallowed the pin has pierced the wall of an intestine and lost itself in the tissues of the body, occasionally causing death.

SHERIFF TALKS WITH DIETZ, BUT DOESN'T SERVE WARRANT.

Keeps Paper in Pocket Under Threat of Death—Goes Back to Winter on Command of Outlaw.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Sheriff Mike Madden of Sawyer county, armed with a warrant to take John F. Dietz, dead or alive, today met Dietz and had a friendly chat with him after going ten miles from Winter through the forests to Cameron dam.

The sheriff told Dietz he had a warrant for him, but Dietz, armed with two automatic revolvers and a rifle, told Sheriff Madden to keep the paper in his pocket.

"If you take it out you are a dead man. You have no business here. Turn about," commanded Dietz, pointing north. "Take that road to Winter. Don't you look around or you are a dead man."

Sheriff Madden obeyed orders and did not stop until he got back to Winter. As he neared the Dietz home one of the Dietz's sons gave the alarm and he reached the home by holding up his hands as he came across the clearing.

District Attorney J. C. Davis at Hayward says he will appeal to Gov. Davidson for troops to take Dietz. A posse of Bert Horrel's friends at Winter have expressed a strong desire to be allowed to go and get Dietz in revenge for the shooting of Horrel, who is now a patient at the Eau Claire hospital.

Sawyer county authorities are puzzled as to how to capture Dietz, whose cabin consists of three rooms, built of heavy logs with lookout windows on every side. It stands on a high knoll. Dietz is provided with fifteen rifles of the latest pattern, ten automatic revolvers, and hundreds of cartridges.

WOMAN SLAYS HER HUSBAND IN STATE'S ATTORNEY'S OFFICE

Foils His Plot to Elope After Reconciliation Following His Release from Jail on Desertion Charge.

Salisbury, Md., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Annie E. Hudson today shot and killed her husband, Tobias Hudson, in the office here of State's Attorney Joseph L. Bailey. Hudson deserted his wife in Cambridge, Md., two months ago, and came here to live with another woman. Mrs. Hudson caused his arrest on Wednesday, but a reconciliation was effected.

Today Mrs. Hudson learned her husband was preparing to leave Salisbury with the other woman. She purchased a revolver at a hardware store and then asked State's Attorney Bailey to have her husband come to his office for a conference.

The Hudsons went into a back room and after a few minutes' angry conversation Hudson started to leave the room, when Mrs. Hudson drew the revolver and shot her husband in the temple. Death resulted an hour later.

Mrs. Hudson married Hudson after her second husband had secured a divorce.

WOMAN DRIVES BURGLARS AWAY

Two burglars who broke into the residence of Mrs. J. Hagenbeck, 3422 Indiana avenue, early yesterday morning, were driven out by Mrs. J. W. Makin, a roomer, who was awakened when one of the burglars lighted a match and held it over her and her husband to find out if they were asleep. Instead of screaming, Mrs. Makin struck at the burglar and he leaped through an open window after giving his companion a warning.

'GREENLAND'S ICY MOUNTAINS' DROPPED FROM NEW HYMNAL.

Storm of Protests Aroused by Action of Episcopal Committee—Movement to Retain It.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The old missionary hymn, "From Geenland's Icy Mountains," has been dropped from the mission hymnal which is to be submitted for approval to the convention of the Episcopal church when it meets in Cincinnati next month.

Since the news reached the regular churchgoing public a little while ago there has been some indignation and surprise expressed. In Brooklyn a movement is being organized by Maj. Henry M. Calvert to obtain the retention of "Greenland's Icy Mountains" in the new book.

In the proposed mission hymnal there are 172 selections, all of which the committee has preferred to one which, since its composition in 1819, has been a slogan of the missionary movement, and which has been adopted by practically every Protestant sect. The objection, it is said, is that, although written by an English bishop, Heber, it emphasizes "natural rather than revealed religion, apostrophizing mountains and winds and waters."

MARRIES AGAIN AT 91 YEARS

Retired Millwright Shatters the Cook County License Record.

WED EARLY IS HIS ADVICE.

"Shun Divorce;" Tells How He Proposed to Woman 47 Years His Junior.

Marry early in life; a wife is the best inspiration a man can have.

Stay married "until death do you part"; divorces are all wrong.

Volney E. Rusco, newly wedded nonagenarian, who established a record yesterday in the marriage license department, gave these as his rules of marital happiness. Mr. Rusco lacks two months of being 92 years old. He applied for a license to marry Miss Helen Conger, 44 years old.

Clerk Salmonson, immediately after the departure of the couple, delved into the archives and announced that all records had been smashed. Eighty-five years had before been the age of the oldest applicant for a marriage license.

Veteran of the Civil War.

Mr. Rusco, who is a veteran of the civil war and a resident of Chicago for sixty years, was born in Waterloo, N. Y., on Nov. 9, 1818. He married at the age of 20, and his first wife lived to celebrate her sixty-seventh anniversary. She died five years ago.

At his residence, 502 Oakley boulevard, Mr. Rusco explained his reason for taking the latest step.

"I grieved a lot over the death of my first wife," he said. "It got to be too lonesome with nothing but my parrot to keep me company. I don't believe in the Robinson Crusoe style of existence as long as you don't live on a deserted isle.

"Since meeting Miss Conger two years ago I felt that we were created for each other. Call it mental waves or psychic suggestion, or whatever you want.

Pops the Question.

"There was no formal proposal. I did not ask her if she would be mine. I knew she would, and she knew I wanted her. I remarked to her the other day:

"'It's about time we were applying for a license,' and she said any time I was ready she was.

"I don't see anything strange about a man of my age marrying. Years don't cut any figure with me. I am strong and in good health and have found the woman I love.

"Outdoor living is great for preserving the health. When I was active in business, I constructed mills and attribute my physical condition to this occupation.

Avoid Love at First Sight.

"I deplore the mania for divorces in this country. The cure is to have men and women marry younger, and at the same time steer clear of love at first sight matches. Once wedded, there should be no parting in this life.

"Divorces are sought too often on trivial grounds. A little domestic spat and hostile attorneys are hired immediately. Usually the troubles could be smoothed over by some reasoning by the husband and wife.

"Instead of being the first thought of married couples, the divorce court should be the last."

HOLD UNKNOWN AS FORGER; SAY HOTELS ARE HIS VICTIMS.

Chicago Police Say They Have Ended Search of a Year in Several Cities—Think Suspect Highly Connected.

A suspected forger for whom the police of several cities have been searching for nearly a year, was arrested yesterday at the Metropole hotel. It is said that more than 100 hotels have been victimized by him, besides a large number of other business concerns.

The prisoner gave the name of Edward Walters. He is about 25 years old. In his room at the Metropole the police found a small printing press, a perforator and other paraphernalia for making the bogus checks.

He admitted to the police that he had operated in different cities, and said he would divulge his identity today. Lieutenant Rohan of the detective bureau is of the opinion that the prisoner is of good family connections.

Among the Chicago hotels said to have been victimized by Walters are the Congress, Great Northern, Wellington, Windsor-Clifton, Lexington and Grand Pacific.

Detectives Lacey and Vaughn of headquarters were called to assist in making the arrest.

AVIATOR INJURED RACING WITH AUTO

Hamilton's Biplane Crashes to Ground in Contest at Sacramento, Cal.

HIS HURTS ARE SERIOUS.

Daring Man-Bird Once Estimated His Many Falls Totaled Five Miles.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 9.—Charles K. Hamilton was seriously injured tonight when his biplane crashed to the ground during a race with an automobile around the fair grounds racetrack.

Hamilton was taken to a local hotel and several physicians were called in consultation. It is believed he is internally injured.

Hamilton has fallen from gliders, balloons, parachutes, and aeroplanes. In all he once estimated, he had probably fallen more than five miles, but his mishaps never shook his nerve and he was always popular with the crowd, which admired his skill and daring.

His most remarkable flight was made this summer, from Governor's Island to Philadelphia and return in the same day, on a time schedule announced in advance.

NOTED AVIATORS TO FLY HERE.

Preliminary to the Chicago-New York aeroplane race for a prize of $25,000, Oct. 8-15, Chicago will haev its greatest aviation meet.

With the sanction of the national council of the Aero Club of America and under the auspices of the New York Times and the Chicago Evening Post, there will be eight days of flights at Hawthorne race track.

Announcement was made last night of the closing of the lease on the old racetrack for the entire period of the aviation meet, Oct. 1 to 8.

Meet to Start Oct. 1.

Under the conditions governing the Chicago-New York race, each entrant must be in this city with his flying machine Oct. 3, and must make trial flights daily until the day of the start. By an arrangement between the promoters and the aviators, some of the latter have agreed to begin their exhibition flights and present various forms of biplane and monoplane competitions at the Hawthorne track on Oct. 1.

Following the suggestions of Glenn H. Curtiss, J. C. Mars and Tod Schriver, many changes will be made in the arrangement of the track and infield at Hawthorne.

Veteran Aviators Are Entered.

Among the veteran aviators who will start in the race are the following:

Glenn H. Curtiss,	Tod Shriver,
James Radley,	J. C. Mars,
Charles G. Harmer,	Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin.
Charles F. Willard,
J. A. D. McCurdy.

The tentative route will be Hammond, Valparaiso, Laporte, South Bend, Goshen, Kendallville, Waterloo, Bryan, Toledo, Sandusky, Loraine, Cleveland, Ashtabula, Conneaut, Erie, Westfield, Fredonia, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, and thence down the Hudson along the route successfully used this year by Aviator Curtiss.

ACQUITS BROWNE ON SECOND TRIAL

Jury, After 27 Ballots, Frees Legislator of Charge of Bribery.

FOUR VOTE TO CONVICT.

Lack of Confidence in the State's Star Witness, However, Causes Change.

tore it up and did not inform his associates until the close of the meeting.

Meanwhile, Lorimer political lieutenants had arrived at the bank, among those who offered their congratulations being Elbridge Hanecy, Congressman W. J. Moxley, County Controller "Jim" Monaghan, and Congressman Lundin.

Plans Political Work.

"I have no comment to make," said Senator Lorimer, "either on the acquittal of Mr. Browne or the action of Theodore Roosevelt and the Hamilton club."

Browne and Attorney Erbstein went to the Briggs house, where one of the first to greet the acquitted man was Representative Robert E. Wilson, who is under indictment on a charge of perjury in Cook county and of conspiracy with Browne in Sangamon county.

"I suppose this lets me out, too," exclaimed Wilson in glee.

However, it was announced in the Criminal Court building that the decision in the Browne case would have no bearing upon the Wilson case, which probably will be tried in the October term. The trial of Browne in Springfield also is on the cards for next month.

"Tomorrow I am going back to La Salle county," said Browne, "to look after my campaign for renomination and reëlection to the legislature. I am going to make a whirlwind fight and feel certain of success. I have had a fair trial, but I feel I owe my freedom largely to the efforts of my attorneys, who have worked night and day."

O'Donnell Offers Explanation.

"Leaving out of consideration the political aspects," said Attorney O'Donnell, "the verdict shows that the jury put no faith in the testimony of a man who confessed he was a paid accomplice. It is bad enough for a man to confess himself a criminal, but payment takes the form of a reward for criminality and the idea is repugnant to any jury. There never was a case where the accuser was so polluted. Not only is the verdict a vindication for Browne, but it should check the imperious will of 'Big Teddy,' who sets himself above the courts.

"I saw Senator Lorimer and he is elated. He is receiving telegrams from all over the state urging him to maintain his dignity and let the people judge."

"The verdict speaks for itself," said State's Attorney Wayman. "The public knows the evidence. I presented the evidence and did everything that a public prosecutor could do. The state of Illinois will reap the benefit of the prosecution regardless of the verdict. I have nothing further to say."

Cost of Trial Is High.

As soon as they received their pay slips from Court Clerk Schmidt the jurors hastened to the office of Criminal Court Clerk Harris, secured their warrants, and then in a body walked over to the county treasurer's office for their pay. Hanlon drew $73, Skinger $72.50, Lyng $72.40, while Elenz and Foss, the last two chosen on the jury, received $44.40 and $44.30, respectively, being $2 a day and mileage.

Witness fees amounted to about $2,000, an average of close to $20 each, while $1,800 was paid to veniremen, of whom 800 were summoned, and the hotel bill came to about $750. From the commencement of the trial on Aug. 1 the county's expense for the thirty-nine days was about $10,000. The cost of the first trial to the county was about the same. The expense for the defense of Browne in the two trials is estimated at between $70,000 and $80,000. One hundred detectives were constantly employed. The cost of stenographic work alone was placed at $6,000. The attorneys' fees are said to have reached above $50,000, more than half of which is believed to have gone to William S. Forrest, the chief lawyer.

Foreman Blames White.

After leaving the court building Foreman Hanlon discussed the verdict.

"Nothing would have pleased me better than to have convicted Browne," he said, "but I could not do it on the evidence of such a man as White. I am disappointed that the state had to depend on that man. I am positive Browne had not a friend on the jury. The 'boys' seemed to me as decent a lot of young men as a man need care to be associated with.

"The state fell down on White's testimony. That was what lost the case against Browne.

"Why, if that man White ever saw the jury it was out of the corner of his eye. He could not sit on the stand and look one of us in the face. After the things that were brought out about him and taking into consideration his appearance on the witness stand, I believe it was impossible to send a man to the penitentiary and ruin him for life on the testimony of such a creature."

Mr. Hanlon was the next to the last of the four who at first stood for conviction to go over to vote for the acquittal of Browne.

Tells of the Ballots.

"I left the court room with a strong impression of Browne's guilt," he said, "but the more I thought about White the less I felt I could conscientiously send a man to the penitentiary on the evidence of such a man.

"We took a ballot within half an hour after we retired. We found the jury stood eight to four for acquittal. We took seven more ballots before we went to bed, but this proportion was not changed that night. The four for conviction were Foss, Lyng, Skinger, and myself.

"Nevertheless, I went to bed, and I am certain the others did the same, feeling that our conviction of Browne's guilt rested on a bad basis if that basis was the testimony of White.

"White had been shown to be a man so low that our stomachs turned against him.

"I don't think there ever was a real chance for conviction with that jury.

"In the morning we began arguing as we dressed, and at 8:30, immediately after breakfast, we took up the debate. We took eighteen ballots before luncheon, and in the course of the eighteen three of the conviction men came over; first Lyng, then Foss, and then myself, at about equal intervals in the balloting.

"It was then time for luncheon. We lunched and at 1:10 took another ballot. Skinger voted for acquittal on this ballot, and it was the last."

Predict Roosevelt's Stand.

All the jurymen after they were freed from restraint manifested a strong interest in what Col. Roosevelt had said and done during his visit to Chicago. His words concerning the political corruption in Illinois following his refusal to sit at the table with Lorimer were read with close attention. The colonel's keynote:

"I ask you men of Illinois that you purify your politics, that you hold accountable the scoundrel, great or small, who has been guilty of corruption" brought forth a remark of discouragement from Foreman Hanlon.

"It couldn't be helped," he said. "If Col. Roosevelt himself had been on that jury he could not have sent Browne up on White's word. I was more than willing to convict him, but I couldn't."

"Did Roosevelt refuse to sit at the same table with Lorimer?" asked Juror Lyng in surprise. "No, we hadn't heard it. We have had the newspapers, but everything referring to Browne or Lorimer or the case was cut out by the bailiffs. We kept track of the baseball and the Lang-Kaufmann fight and the ruction over gambling at Hawthorne Park on Labor day, but nothing touching this case reached us."

Gloss' Arrest Unknown.

Jurors Roehm and Hegan expressed surprise, as did several others, when they were informed of the indictment of Motorman George Gloss on the charge of perjury in the trial. By a blunder, Gloss was brought into Judge Kersten's court room while the jury was present, to give bonds, and it was supposed at the time that the jurors understood he was under arrest.

"We did not know he had been arrested," said Roehm, "but thought he was getting his witness fees."

Inquiry among the jurors determined that they believed the testimony of the Yarbrough brothers, Otis and Sidney, that Sidney Yarbrough was in White's room at the St. Nicholas hotel, Springfield, on the night of May 25, 1909, when Browne called and took White back to his own [Browne's] room, where the negotiations for the purchase of White's vote for Lorimer are alleged to have been started. The jurors also discredited the contradictory testimony of Gloss, to the effect that Sidney Yarbrough was in Chicago on that date.

Roehm was one of four unmarried jurors, the others being Foss, Skinger, and Elenz. Whether married or single, most of the jurors were cigaret smokers, only two preferring cigars. The floor of the room where they deliberated was found littered with cigaret stubs.

State's Attorney Wayman called Juror W. G. Hegan into his office for a private talk after the verdict was received, but the purpose of the conference was not disclosed.

Was Indicted Last May.

Browne was indicted last May by a special grand jury a few days after Legislator Charles A. White, a Democrat, confessed that Browne had paid him $1,000 for voting for William Lorimer for United States senator in the forty-sixth general assembly. The specific charge in the indictment was that an $850 balance of the stipulated $1,000 was paid White at the Briggs house in this city on June 17, 1909. White also told the investigators that Representative Robert E. Wilson of Chicago had paid him $900 at the Southern hotel in St. Louis on July 15, 1909, as his share of the "jackpot."

To the same grand jury Representative H. J. C. Beckemeyer of Carlyle made a similar confession, naming $1,000 and $900 as the sums he had received. Representative Michael S. Link of Mitchell, after being indicted for perjury, made a third confession to having received the same amounts, although denying that the $1,000 came to him as "Lorimer money."

Browne, according to Beckemeyer and Link, paid them their $1,000 apiece at the Southern hotel in St. Louis on June 21, 1909. The cutup of the "jackpot," they all agreed, was on July 15, also at the Southern hotel.

Confessions Bring Immunity.

As Browne was ill, Representative Robert E. Wilson met the southern Illinois Democrats for the division of the "jackpot." Other than Beckemeyer, White, Link, and Wilson there were in the room Representatives Joseph S. Clark of Vandalia, indicted in Sangamon county; Henry S. Shepherd of Jerseyville, and Charles Luke, since dead. All of these came before the Cook county grand jury that investigated legislative corruption and indicted Browne and Wilson. Immunity was given those that confessed.

The first trial of Browne resulted in a mistrial, the jury standing eight for conviction to four for acquittal at the end of 115 hours of deliberation—a new record for a criminal case in this country. The second trial, just closed, began Aug. 1 last and was marked by attempts to tamper with the veniremen, causing Judge Kersten to dismiss several venires and to stamp the operations of investigators as "outrageous and a travesty on justice."

Plan for Sunday School Canvass.

A union meeting of all the Protestant ministers in the city will be held Monday noon in the Central Y. M. C. A. auditorium to make arrangements for the canvass of the city in October by the International Sunday School association.

FIGHT CONTINUES, WORD OF WAYMAN

"Everlasting War on Jackpotism" Is Promise of State's Attorney in Speech.

APPEALS TO THE VOTERS.

Address in Aid of Anti-Slate Candidates Brings Comment on Browne's Acquittal.

State's Attorney Wayman last night declared everlasting warfare against "jackpottism," deplored the naming of tickets by bosses, and issued a plea to voters to clean out the legislature at the primaries next Thursday. He spoke at a meeting at Schoenhofen hall, Milwaukee and Ashland avenues, held in the interests of A. J. Harris, clerk of the Criminal court.

Declaring himself "somewhat disfigured, but still in the ring," Mr. Wayman assured the hall filled with voters that he was not discouraged at the acquittal of Lee O'Neil Browne of the bribery charge.

Speaker Is Epigramatic.

Mr. Wayman's address was sprinkled with epigrams. Here are some:

"I propose no post-mortems. Whenever evidence is presented to me I shall see that no man, however important, will walk free unless you say so."

"Jackpots will never be cleaned out unless you clean them out yourself."

"The stench arising from corruption in this state is reaching the skies."

"The legislature passes laws affecting you and me," said Mr. Wayman. "Every corporation that is entitled to something should not have to pay for it, and if it is not entitled to it, money should not be able to purchase the favor.

"If the jackpots are to live in Illinois, Illinois will not live. The time has come for the people to seize the government and run it themselves—certainly we can make no worse mess of it than the bosses.

Denies He's Discouraged.

"Do you think the state's attorney is discouraged? Not a bit of it. I feel stronger tonight than ever before, for I know now what I'm up against. I know that I can't win in this game without the combined backing of the people.

"Government can't live with crime unless it fights crime.

"If you men should see a murder on the street, you would be appalled. Murderers are convicted because their acts shock the physical senses. With jackpots it is different. Then the acts are secret. You don't see the crime and so it fails to arouse.

"We have been used to corruption so long that the enormity of the crime fails to arouse.

Would End Caucus.

"It is up to the voters immediately to put an end to party caucuses conducted by five self-appointed bosses in a private kitchen and to important sessions of the legislature held in bathrooms of another state.

"The primary law means that bosses shall not name the ticket. The real fellows of this country are the fellows who haven't got the money, and they are the ones we want in office."

Mr. Wayman urged the election of Clerk Harris and Supt. Nightingale of the county schools, both of whom were left off the slate.

At noon Mr. Wayman addressed an anti-slate meeting at the Garrick theater.

VERDICT STIRS COLLEGE MEN.

Speakers at Ottawa Meeting Urge Renewed Opposition to Browne at the Primary.

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—College boys, at the meeting of the South Side Men's club tonight, fired a few hot shots at Illinois grafters. Alfred Andrews of Ottawa, student of Illinois university, declared it was the duty of every voter to go to the polls next Thursday and vote for a man with clean records for the general assembly.

Lawrence Williams of Luther college said: "Lee O'Neil Browne is declared not guilty by a Chicago jury, but his monumental nerve in being a candidate for reëlection under the circumstances is the wonder of the nation."

James Stevenson of Streator, champion orator of the Illinois university, declared it was the duty of the citizens of Illinois to erase the blot the jackpotters and bribers had cast upon them. He urged every citizen to do his duty at the primaries.

The Rev. Mr. Keis, pastor of the Baptist church of Streator, said Browne has been acquitted, but that "as a man soweth, so shall he also reap," and Browne has his harvest coming. "I admire Roosevelt for having enough self respect to refuse to sit at the banquet table with Lorimer," he added.

Dr. Shaw of Ottawa expressed a hope the decision by the Chicago jury on the bribery case would awaken the good citizenship of Ottawa and La Salle county to their sense of duty.

J. A. Andrews, president of the South Side club, declared the decision in the Browne case should stir the conscience of every voter and inspire him to do his best for political purification.

There was a large crowd at the meeting, and the speakers were cheered vigorously, every reference to Roosevelt's snubbing of Lorimer evoked great applause.

Three Firetug Men Fined.

Three members of the crew of the fire tug Graeme Stewart were fined by the trial board yesterday on charges of insubordination filed by Capt. Patrick Lyons. They were Maurice Murphy, marine engineer; Terence Kelly, pilot engineer, and Henry Neubert, pilot.

Political Reformers Rejoice at Trial's Exposures.

THINK CLEANUP IS AHEAD.

Acquittal of Browne Is Called Disgrace to Cook County.

Expressions of surprise at the outcome of the Browne trial were heard wherever men who have been working in the cause of political reform discussed the subject.

Men identified with the movements for city, county, and state betterment asserted, however, that the exposures brought about through it would result in cleaning up the legislature.

"I think it is a great misfortune. It is a disgrace to Cook county," declared Robert Catherwood, member of the Peoria conference committee of seven and president of the Civil Service Reform association.

Shows Browne Unfit.

Walter L. Fisher referred to President Roosevelt's speech of Thursday evening.

"I think he correctly stated the situation," he said, "when he pointed out that sometimes the ability to convict a man in the Criminal court is not necessarily the measure of a man's guilt. THE TRIBUNE has done a distinct public service in having demonstrated the unfitness of Lee O'Neil Browne to hold office further."

"What do I think of it?" demanded George E. Cole, chairman of the executive committee of the Citizens' association. "I don't want to think of it. What can anyone think of it? It's an outrage.

"This is the situation. I don't know whether Browne is guilty in this particular case; but I have my opinion. It is a fact that Lorimer was elected through corrupt influences and that Browne was a part and parcel of those influences.

"This is a temporary triumph of Judge Technicality. The public has condemned Browne, the jackpot, and the whole Lorimer business."

Prosecution Was Beneficial.

Harry L. Bird, secretary of the Legislative Voters' league, declared that the ultimate effect of the prosecution of Browne is beneficial regardless of the legal result.

"Browne has been held guilty morally at the bar of public opinion," he said, "and that will not be changed by the verdict of the jury. It is generally recognized that in a court trial a man must be proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, but a man seeking to represent the people should be innocent above a doubt. As soon as there is a doubt he becomes unfit, and this is particularly true right now of Browne and the others who have been associated with him."

"The exposé of legislative conditions was greatly beneficial in its effects," said Shelby M. Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' association.

"Whatever the outcome of the trial, there is a deep and widespread belief on the part of the general public contrary to the finding of the jury. I don't and I can't believe that this acquittal will be accepted as a vindication of Mr. Browne or his associates for the reason that I believe the people are going on to clean up the legislature as a result of the exposures that have been made in THE TRIBUNE."

HENEY APPLAUDS ROOSEVELT STAND

Frisco Graft Prosecutor Says Rebuke to Lorimer Was Merited One.

CLUB IS IN A TURMOIL.

Caucus of Hamilton Members Friendly to Senator May Censure Batten.

Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, who prosecuted the grafters of that city—Abe Reuf among them—arrived in Chicago yesterday and discussed both the Roosevelt-Lorimer incident and the acquittal of Browne.

"Col. Roosevelt did exactly right in refusing to sit down with Senator Lorimer," Mr. Heney said. "His action will have more to do with arousing public sentiment against fraud and graft than the conviction of Lorimer himself would have done. It will give greed and corrupt corporate interests and peculating individuals a sense of the moral view of their misdemeanors that nothing else could.

"Let such persons realize that society and decent people will have none of them and the result will be to lessen the practice of graft.

"The acquittal of Lee O'Neil Browne is what might have been expected, though the charge of the judge was explicit. The trial will have a beneficial effect, however."

Hamilton Club Stirred.

The Roosevelt rebuke to Lorimer has stirred the membership of the Hamilton club. President Batten continues to point out that he and the members of the committee who went with him to Freeport to meet Mr. Roosevelt were put up against the proposition of calling off the entire banquet or recalling the invitation to Senator Lorimer and that they chose the short horn of the dilemma. Mr. Batten continued:

"As for the accusation that to please Col. Roosevelt I refused to call upon Speaker Cannon there is no basis to the charge. Uncle Joe wasn't on the program, and I simply had to adhere strictly to the schedule. I could not call on Speaker Cannon nor could I call on Senator Beveridge."

Lorimer adherents in the club membership grew more and more wroth over the matter and threatened to try to take action disapproving of President Batten. It is said plans are afoot for a caucus, either some time this afternoon or early next week, to take some such action. The more rabid of the Lorimerites are for ousting Mr. Batten and the whole administration from office, but the more reasonably inclined Lorimer men are for passing resolutions of censure.

There is a belief among the conservative men of the club that the feeling will die down.

Lorimer Men Give Views.

Elbridge Hanecy, Ernest Magerstadt, and David L. Frank—Lorimer's friends—gave out mildly worded interviews indicating the trend of thought in the minds of the Lorimerites. Mr. Hanecy said:

"It looks as if Mr. Roosevelt is not quite responsible for what he says or does. Of course, he was inspired to do this thing by Mr. Lorimer's foes in Chicago and the people will wonder if their dear Teddy believes he is an unattached president of the universe or merely the repository of divine wisdom."

Senator Lorimer himself continues mum on the subject.

INDORSE ACTION OF ROOSEVELT.

New York Papers Comment on Denunciation of Bribery and Criticism of Lorimer.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The New York Times commenting on the Roosevelt-Lorimer incident at Chicago, says:

"We think that Mr. Roosevelt has done public service by his conduct at the Hamilton club in Chicago in the case of Senator Lorimer. It is true that there is plenty of opportunity for adverse criticism of it. There are questions that can plausibly be raised as to social conventions, rights of club guests, and, more seriously, the right of accused men to be held innocent until proved to be guilty. Mr. Roosevelt ignored these, and we think the result may be for the public good.

"Mr. Roosevelt was not acting on rumor or on wholly unverified testimony. He may be assumed to have acted on evidence brought out in the court records of Illinois through confessions of bribetaking for votes in the legislature for Lorimer. He accepted that evidence as adequate to justify him in enforcing his standard of public morality in the manner he chose."

The Brooklyn Eagle says:

"Refusal of former President Roosevelt to be a fellow guest at a dinner with William Lorimer, Republican United States senator from Illinois, may easily be unjustly misinterpreted as the forejudging of the case of a man accused, but not formally convicted of being the beneficiary, if not the instigator, of bribery.

"Former President Roosevelt simply takes the ground that a man accused of murder or burglary, though not convicted, is not a proper guest at a dinner of self-respecting American men. He emphasizes by his act the proposition that bribery, even successful bribery, is a crime, socially considered, just as murder and burglary are crimes. Can any logician question a proposition so self-evident?"

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—In closing his initiative and referendum address here tonight W. J. Bryan said he fully indorsed Col. LLOYD W. BOWERS IS DEAD IN BOSTON

Solicitor General Expires Suddenly After Illness of One Month.

TAFT LOSES ABLE HELPER

Chicago Man Was Assured of a Place on Supreme Bench in the Near Future.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 9.—Solicitor General Lloyd Wheaton Bowers, lifelong friend of President Taft, died at the Hotel Touraine today. Death came suddenly, the result of a cardiac thrombus, which ended an illness of a month due to an attack of bronchitis. The death of Mr. Bowers removes a prospective candidate for one of the vacancies in the Supreme court bench. Mr. Bowers' home was in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at the Hotel Touraine. President Taft, who sent a personal expression of sorrow to Mrs. Bowers as soon as he heard of her bereavement, may attend.

The completion of the funeral arrangements is delayed because Mr. Bowers' daughter, Miss Martha T. Bowers, has not yet been communicated with. Miss Bowers is on a horseback trip through Yellowstone park. It is hoped to reach her soon. After the funeral services here the body will be taken to Westfield, Conn., where the burial service will be held upon the arrival of Miss Bowers.

Taft Notified of Illness.

Mr. Bowers' illness first became generally known through a telegram sent by Mrs. Bowers to President Taft last Tuesday. The message was delivered to the president on the train while he was on his way back to Beverly from the conservation congress at St. Paul. So solicitous was Mr. Taft that as soon as he reached Boston he called at the hotel and found the patient so much improved that he was able to see him.

Daily reports concerning the condition of the sick man have been encouraging, and yesterday the prospects of his being able to leave the hotel were discussed. The physician who has attended Mr. Bowers here said today that the patient had a good night's rest, ate a good breakfast today, and was chatting cheerfully with his wife and son when suddenly he stopped talking and a moment later was dead.

Mr. Bowers was appointed solicitor general soon after the inauguration of Mr. Taft and was confirmed by the senate on April [illegible] 1909.

Taft Intended Him for Supreme Bench.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 9.—The sudden passing away of Solicitor General Lloyd W. Bowers made the day a sad one at Burgess Point, especially as President Taft had been assured only two days ago that his college mate and his intimate friend for thirty years would surely recover.

The president's tribute was as follows:

"I am greatly distressed at the death of Lloyd Bowers, the solicitor general. He and I were close and intimate friends and I prided myself greatly on securing his services in this administration at great personal sacrifice to himself. His record in the solicitor general's office is one that has rarely if ever been equaled. He was one of the first half dozen lawyers of the highest ability in this country.

"It was my purpose to have appointed him a justice of the Supreme court if opportunity offered."

MOURNED BY FRIENDS HERE.

Expressions of grief were uttered by Chicago friends of Mr. Bowers when news of his death reached them. From 1893 to 1909 when he accepted the appointment of solicitor general, he was general counsel for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, and during that period he made many friends among railroad men and attorneys.

Tribute was paid to him by Edward M. Hyzer, the successor to his post with the Northwestern.

"He was conceded by the profession as being one of the leading lawyers of the United States," he said. "That he was held in high regard by President Taft was demonstrated when the president paid him a personal call when he heard he was ill at Boston early in the week. They were both Yale men and held a high regard for each other.

"He went to the Northwestern when he was only 34 years old, an unusual age for a man occupying a position of such importance as his, and he held the position sixteen years. Undoubtedly he was one of the best trained men in the country and he made as high a record in his field as ever was made by any one before him. He was unsurpassed as a man, just as he was as a lawyer.

"His loss is one that will be felt by the American bar and a great circle of admiring friends."

Praised as "Charming Man."

"He was altogether the most charming man I ever knew," said Asistant Counsel Samuel A. Lynde of the Northwestern, who worked under Mr. Bowers for ten years. "I hardly can exaggerate the attraction of his personality. Of his many pleasing traits, possibly the one for which he was most noted was that of an unfailing quiet courtesy which put every one who met him at ease. His capacity for work was wonderful and we under him used to wonder at the results that he accomplished."

A similar comment was made by John L. Fogle, secretary of the Chicago Bar association and an intimate personal friend of the solicitor general.

"The most remarkable thing about him," he said, "was his power of concentration. It was his invariable rule to reach his office at 9 o'clock in the morning and work right through until 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon without lunch. All the time he was at his desk, and he worked without cessation. He was jolly, good natured, and kind, and the soul of honor. He would go to any length to help a friend in an honorable way."

Aspired to High Bench.

"Mr. Bowers' ambition was to be a justice of the Supreme court," said Attorney Edward T. Glennon, an old time friend of the late solicitor general. "It is too bad that death should have come in his prime, just when he was about to realize his ambition. He spoke to me many years ago about his great desire to reach this high place. He has had it before him from the time when he was in college. He believed in himself and in his ability to fill the position."

RISE IN LAW FIELD RAPID.

A graduate of Yale in 1879 and of the Columbia law school in 1882, general counsel of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad in 1893, and solicitor general of the United States in charge of the government's business before the highest judicial tribunal of the country at 50 years of age, Llowd W. Bowers climbed rapidly in the field of law. He was born at Springfield, Mass., March 9, 1859. The Bowers family was prominent in Massachusetts and included many clergymen and teachers.

Mr. Bowers was admitted to the bar in June, 1882, and immediately took a desk in the offices of Chamberlain, Carter & Hornblower in New York City. He soon won a junior partnership with former Chief Justice Wilson of Minnesota. In Minnesota he had a general practice and later moved to Chicago, where in June, 1893, he became the head of the legal department of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. During his sixteen years' connection with that road it is said that no charges, technical or otherwise, were brought against that system.

He was a member of the Chicago club, University club of Chicago, and Chicago Athletic club, was president of the Chicago Law club, and was president of the Yale Alumni association of Chicago.

Mr. Bowers was twice married. In 1887 he married Miss Louise B. Wilson of Winona, Minn., who died ten years later. In 1899 he married Miss Charlotte Josephine Lewis.

JANITORS IN LOOP ASK RAISE

Window Washers and Caretakers Plead Hazard of Occupation.

NEW UNION'S FIRST DEMAND.

Federation of Labor Backs Effort of Revived Labor League.

Janitors and window washers employed in downtown office buildings threaten to strike, unless they are granted an increase in wages. Officers of the Janitors' union sent a letter yesterday to the Building Managers' association stating their grievances and requesting a conference.

The letter was signed by George Weaver, president; A. F. Olson, vice president, and Peter Torkelson, secretary of the union. In it they point out that the life of a janitor and window washer in loop skyscrapers is fraught with much danger and that the average of $50 a month received for maintaining offices and buildings in a tidy condition is by far too small a remuneration.

A demand was presented for a scale of $60 a month for janitors and $65 a month for window washers. Window washers now receive an average of $52.50 a month. In a few buildings the rate is higher, notably in the Chamber of Commerce building, where the men get $57.50 a month.

Hazard and High Cost of Living.

In the letter to the managers the janitors base their plea for a raise on the hazard of the window washers' trade and on the high cost of living. They stated that most of the men are married, and that after paying grocery bills and rent there is nothing left for clothing for the wife and children.

The dust, dirt, and germs which they are compelled to work in, the janitors say, is a danger to health and this is another reason for asking higher wages.

About 200 union men are employed in downtown skyscrapers. Unless the demands are granted, the janitors and window washers may strike and induce the elevator conductors to declare a sympathetic strike in their favor. In that event both the cleaning departments and the elevator service would be tied up.

The move of the janitors was inspired by the success of the elevator conductors in obtaining an increase in wages and a union contract last spring. Shortly after the building managers signed up with the elevator conductors in April, the janitors and window washers were organized by President John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Only 10 Per Cent of "Craft" Affiliated.

The union is still in the formative period of its existence, only about 10 per cent of the members of the "craft" being affiliated. It was said, however, that in the event a strike is called an effort will be made to induce the nonunion janitors to join the walkout. Teamsters in the federation also may be asked to refuse to deliver coal to strikebound buildings.

A special meeting of the union will be held tomorrow to take further action and appoint a committee to take charge of the situation. An answer from the managers will probably be sent next Monday. If the managers refuse to grant a conference for the discussion of the wage demands preparations will be made at once for calling the strike. The present union is the successor of a janitors' union which broke up several years ago.

READY TO WAR ON "L" ROAD UNLESS WORK BEGINS AT ONCE.

Mayor Dwight of Oak Park Says Trains Will Be Stopped—Knight Questions Right of This Move.

Walter E. Dwight, president of the village of Oak Park, announced last night that he was ready to begin warfare upon the Lake street L.

"We have given Clarence Knight plenty of time to meet our demands for elevation, and he has chosen to ignore us. Now we are ready to fight," said Mr. Dwight. "The trains will be stopped by the Oak Park police as they reach the surface at Central avenue unless some move is made at once toward elevating the tracks. If Mr. Knight then stops the entire service on the Oak Park L he will forfeit the road's Oak Park franchise."

Mr. Knight declared the Oak Park authorities have no right to stop the trains because he was not shown the contract ordinance before its passage, and did not accept it. "I am sorry not to be able to elevate," he said, "for we realize it would benefit the road as well as the public, but we have no money, so simply cannot do it."

Tonight the time expires which was given the road by the village ordinance in which to file plans for elevation of its surface tracks in the suburb and in that part of Chicago west of Fifty-second avenue and to file a bond guaranteeing that elevation would begin at once.

EZRA J. WARNER DIES OF APOPLEXY

One of Founders of Big Grocery Firm Expires in Lake Forest Residence.

FAMILY WAIT AT DINNER

Son Who Goes to Summon Parent Finds Him Sitting in Chair Into Which He Fell.

Ezra J. Warner, one of the founders of Sprague, Warner & Co., wholesale grocers, died suddenly of apoplexy at his residence in Lake Forest at 6:30 o'clock last evening. He had returned home at 6 after spending the day in his offices in Chicago, apparently in the best of health and spirits.

He was driven from the station and exchanged commonplace greeting with his wife and youngest son, Harold. Then he announced that he would go to his room to dress for dinner. Mrs. Warner and Harold awaited his return, but when Mr. Warner did not appear at the end of a quarter of an hour Harold went to his father's room to summon him.

"Father, dinner is ready," called the son, knocking at his parent's door. Receiving no response, he entered the room and found Mr. Warner dead, sitting in an arm chair to which he apparently had stumbled when he felt the seizure.

Son Tells Family of Death.

Harold Warner informed his mother of the tragedy and hurriedly summoned his brother, Ezra J. Warner Jr., whose residence adjoins that of his father, and the Rev. J. G. K. McClure and a physician. Medical examination showed that Mr. Warner had expired almost instantly and before he could cry out to apprise the family of his sudden illness. The other members of the family, Frank Warner of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Alexander A. McCormick and Mrs. Ethel Mothershead of Pasadena, Cal., the winter residence of the Warners, were telegraphed.

Funeral arrangements will be made with reference to their arrival in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Warner returned from Pasadena in May, leaving the daughters behind. Mr. Warner was said to have been in the best of health throughout the summer.

Ezra Joseph Warner was born in Middlebury, Vt., March 8, 1841, and was the son of Joseph and Jane Meech Warner. He attended the public school and completed his education in Middlebury college, from which he was graduated in 1861. In November of the same year he was married to Miss Jane Remsen of New York, and the year following the family moved to Chicago.

Forms Wholesale Grocery Firm.

In 1863, Mr. Warner became associated with A. A. Sprague in the wholesale grocery business and the firm of Sprague & Warner was formed. Later O. S. A. Sprague became a member of the firm and the name was changed to Sprague, Warner and company.

Besides his interest in the firm, Mr. Warner for a number of years was local director of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance company and at one time served as chairman of the board of directors. He was a governing member of the Art institute and also a member of the Chicago university, Onwentsia, and Pasadena Country clubs.

NOW THEY CAN EARTHQUAKES; NO SHOCK TO NEW 'EXPLOSION.'

Ohio Inventor Displaces 500 Tons of Rock with Harmless One at Joliet Quarry—Will Prevent Life Loss.

Are you looking for some safe, sane, and perfectly harmless occupation? If so, seek not the shadow of a ladies' tailoring establishment, or the peaceful life of the rural dwellers.

Make gunpowder.

The latest in gunpowder is called Hoyne's earthquake and safety explosive. Its harmlessness and its effectiveness were demonstrated yesterday at the penitentiary quarry in Joliet.

At the test in Joliet yesterday a quantity of the powder was placed in a paper tube. A rifle ball was shot into the tube, but there was no explosion. Some of the powder was lighted with a match. It burned, but there was no explosion.

The power test was made in eleven holes drilled in the quarry, the holes were twenty feet deep and sixteen pounds of powder were placed in each hole. Charles Tengden, the quarry engineer, estimated that 500 tons of rock had been displaced. Not a bit of the rock was hurled into the air.

Another feature of the powder is that it is smokeless. This property will minimize explosions from firedamp.

William J. Hoynes, the inventor of the explosive, was on hand to oversee the work of demonstration. He comes from Cleveland, O. The Chicago men who were present were Contractor L. B. Jackson and Engineers J. C McMinn and C. F. Ames.

BURNHAM TO SPEAK ABROAD ON "THE CITY OF THE FUTURE."

Will Lecture Before Royal Institute of British Architects—"Chicago Plan" Is Exhibited in Europe.

D. H. Burnham, architect and author of the "Chicago plan," will sail for Europe next Tuesday to deliver an address before the Royal Institute of British Architects on "The City of the Future." Mr. Burnham will be accompanied by his wife and by Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Butler. Mr. Butler is chairman of the plan committee of the Commercial club.

The drawings of the "Chicago plan" have been sent to Europe for exhibition, first at Dusseldorf, and are now being shown there under the direction of German authorities. A little later they will be taken to London, where they will be shown in connection with the "town plan exhibition." It is at this latter meeting that Mr. Burnham has been asked to preside, the date of the general meeting being Oct. 13. At that time he also will deliver his prepared address.

The German authorities and the English likewise made applications last spring for permission to exhibit the "Chicago plan," offering to undertake the expense of conveyance to and from Chicago.

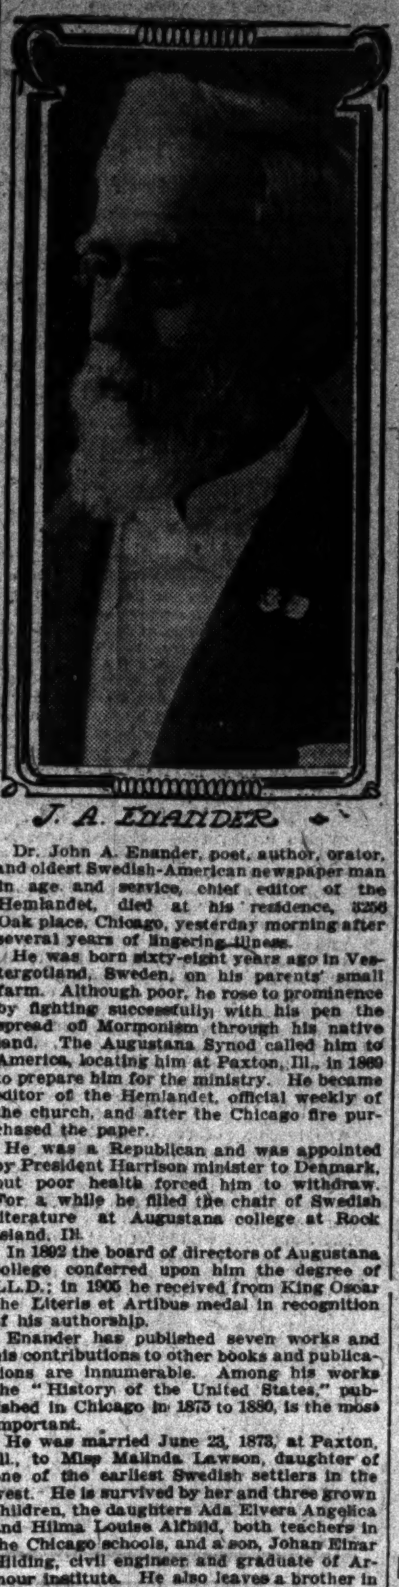
Swedish Writer Who Died Here.



J. A. ENANDER.

Dr. John A. Enander, poet, author, orator, and oldest Swedish-American newspaper man in age and service, chief editor of the Hemlandet, died at his residence, 3256 Oak place, Chicago, yesterday morning after several years of lingering illness.

He was born sixty-eight years ago in Vestergotland, Sweden, on his parents' small farm. Although poor, he rose to prominence by fighting successfully with his pen the spread of Mormonism through his native land. The Augustana Synod called him to America, locating him at Paxton, Ill., in 1869 to prepare him for the ministry. He became editor of the Hemlandet, official weekly of the church, and after the Chicago fire purchased the paper.

He was a Republican and was appointed by President Harrison minister to Denmark, but poor health forced him to withdraw. For a while he filled the chair of Swedish literature at Augustana college at Rock Island, Ill.

In 1892 the board of directors of Augustana college conferred upon him the degree of LL.D.; in 1905 he received from King Oscar the Literis et Artibus medal in recognition of his authorship.

Enander has published seven works and his contributions to other books and publications are innumerable. Among his works the "History of the United States," published in Chicago in 1875 to 1880, is the most important.

He was married June 23, 1873, at Paxton, Ill., to Miss Malinda Lawson, daughter of one of the earliest Swedish settlers in the west. He is survived by her and three grown children, the daughters Ada Elvera Angelica and Hilma Louise Alfhild, both teachers in the Chicago schools, and a son, Johan Einar Hilding, civil engineer and graduate of Armour institute. He also leaves a brother in Wadena, Minn.

New York, Sept. 9.—With seven hundred thousand boys and girls awaiting the opening of school on Monday, the school accommodations face a congestion that will force nearly 60,000 children on part time. Upon the Bronx district the congestion will be greatest, for 16,000 out of the 65,000 school children there will be on part time.

GUARD AMERICA AGAINST PLAGUE

Federal Health Officials Double Protection at Ports of Entry.

AGENTS ARE ON WATCH.

Every Traveler from Infected Districts Will Face a Rigid Inquiry.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—The public health and marine hospital service is clearing for action to prevent the cholera now spreading through Russia, and more recently discovered in Germany and France, from being brought to this country.

They are more concerned than they are willing to admit.

Orders have been flashed to the American consuls at Marseilles, Havre, Cherbourg, Genoa, Palermo, and Messina to detain steerage passengers from all parts of Russia and their baggage for five days for disinfection and observation before they are allowed to take ships for the United States.

Guard at Ports Doubled.

The guard at ports of entry is being doubled. Officers of the service have been dispatched to New York and Boston to consult with the quarantine officers there for special measures. Special instructions for the examination of vessels have been sent to every quarantine officer.

United States consuls at Hamburg, Bremen, Antwerp, Rotterdam and other great European ports have been instructed to enforce the treasury regulations on outgoing vessels bound for ports in the United States when they carry passengers, crews or cargo from any place in Europe infected with cholera. Officers of the service stationed at Naples have been ordered to inspect all Italian ports at once and Assistant Surgeon General W. J. Pettus, who has been on leave in England, will personally take charge of the inspection of English ports.

Russia Has 23,861 Cases.

During the last month the plague has been claiming victims at an alarming rate. During the week which ended on Aug. 19 there were 23,861 cases of cholera and 10,890 deaths in Russia exclusive of St. Petersburg, according to reports to the public health and marine hospital service. The outbreak in the Italian province of Apulia has caused the Italian government to order the isolation of all immigrants from Apulia for several days at Naples.

Cholera also has appeared in the Philippines, but it is said to be well under control. Last reports gave about 600 cases in the archipelago. Increases are in the provinces in districts over which the service has no control. In Manila the plague is nominal.

TWO NEW GERMAN CASES.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—A case of Asiatic cholera has been determined at Freiburg, Hanover, Prussia, in the illness of a barge man who arrived there from Hamburg. A new case of cholera is reported from Spandau, a suburb of Berlin. The patient is a nurse who cared for two earlier cases that terminated fatally.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1910.

YEARS HENCE.

It may be of some interest to the twelve men who brought in the verdict in the second trial of Lee O'Neil Browne to know that years hence Attorney W. S. Forrest, Attorney Charles Erbstein, and Attorney Patrick O'Donnell will relate the incidents of this case as of their greatest triumph. And we venture to predict that each, in summing up his narrative, will say:

"And just consider a moment the material we had to work with."

17-19-39.

Merely to revive interest in a subject which it may be possible to present in more detail later we take the liberty of asking Lee O'Neil Browne—who may be too busy to answer—John J. McLaughlin, and Edward D. Shurtleff if they ever heard of anything being paid off on this legislative policy "gig":

17—19—39.

We merely ask.

SILENT WILLIAM.

Less than a year ago THE TRIBUNE argued long and earnestly to persuade the people of the Sixth Illinois district that the then plain Bill—and the now Hon. William—Moxley was not fitted to represent them in congress. The results were not satisfactory. The Sixth district voted its confidence in the then and now silent William Moxley and the then voluble and now silent William Lorimer.

Mr. Moxley since has proved the case against himself, and THE TRIBUNE since has proved the case against Mr. Lorimer—that statement in spite of the verdict of the Browne jury.

It could not be clearer. Any honest man can read it. With the best nature in the world THE TRIBUNE bows to the superior judgment of the Sixth Illinois district.

We are convinced that the Sixth Illinois district knows exactly the kind of a man it wishes to represent it, and we are content to accept its estimate.

AN INTERESTING EXPLANATION.

Here is the "explanation," offered by Mr. Lorimer's organ, of Mr. Roosevelt's refusal to dine with Lorimer:

> Col. Roosevelt's action against Senator Lorimer is the outgrowth of the Roosevelt-Lorimer feud that has been on for seven years. It began when Senator (then Congressman) Lorimer proved to be one of the few men at Washington with sufficient courage to stand against Roosevelt's attacks on the constitution. This reached the breaking point when Congressman Lorimer at a conference which President Roosevelt had with the Illinois delegation at the White House told the president that he would oppose his proposal to put the packing houses of the country under the absolute control of the department of agriculture. This proposal was to give an employé of the department the absolute power to open and close the packing houses at will. Col. Roosevelt had called the Illinois Republican congressmen to the White House to enlist their support.
>
> For a while it seemed as though he was going to be able to secure this. But when he put the direct question to the members, it was Congressman Lorimer who declared:
>
> "I will not support such a bill, Mr. President. And what is more, if it is ever converted into law, it will be only because I have not the power to stop it."
>
> The bill failed, and Roosevelt never forgave the opposition of the Illinois congressman.

THE TRIBUNE hastens to give this "explanation" a wider currency than it could hope for through the medium of Mr. Lorimer's journal. It is an "explanation" which deserves the consideration of our intelligent readers, not as an explanation of Mr. Roosevelt but as an explanation of Mr. Lorimer.

At a time when there is so much legitimate curiosity respecting the source whence Holstlaw, White, Beckemeyer, Link, and others not yet uncovered, received their "ready necessary" for voting for Mr. Lorimer, the Inter Ocean's "explanation" is significant, not to say illuminating.

A VERDICT.

The second trial of Lee O'Neil Browne for the crime of bribery has resulted in the verdict of twelve men that he is not guilty. The case has been ably and even bitterly contested and every resource known to acute and experienced counsel was exhausted. The indefatigable zeal of State's Attorney Wayman deserves the gratitude of every citizen desirous of the vigorous enforcement of law in Cook county.

But does this verdict hold him guiltless? There is another court, another jury before which he stands. The court of public opinion, the jury of his fellow men. What of the piled up evidence of corruption in the legislature of which Lee O'Neil Browne was a shining light, the sinister relations disclosed by the detailed confessions of Holstlaw, White, Beckemeyer, Link, and the corroborating witnesses in both the Cook and Sangamon county proceedings, the revelations of graft and bribery and misrepresentation? Where does this leave Lee O'Neil Brown and his associates?

The failure of the Cook county prosecution does not clear him or "vindicate" him. Neither would the failure of the prosecution which he still must face in Sangamon county.

As for the decent citizenship of Illinois, now aroused as it has not been for many years to make clean the politics and public life of the state, it would be both weak and foolish to feel serious disheartenment over this incident in their fight. Conditions which have grown for years are not abolished in a day. Every community that has fought for civic and political purity has met its setbacks, small and great, and, if the right stuff was in the people, it kept on and won.

Illinois will still fight on. A recreant legislator here and there may be allowed to slip back. But he will have less company of his kind than before, and he will be a wiser if not a better man. A few men charged with crime may wriggle out of the clutches of the criminal law, but they will go the rest of their lives with a more wholesome dread of "that place up there they call Joliet."

Best of all, the civic conscience throughout the state will be more alert. Good citizens in every community are banding together with a new sense of common public interest, and with a new knowledge of the subterranean forces which have so long been working against the common welfare.

This is not a time for discouragement. It is a time for hope, and it is wartime. The public enemy has been heavily and long intrenched. But he is in retreat. It would be strange if he did not win a skirmish now and then. But the fighting is just begun and the victory when it comes will be for right.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S ILL LUCK.

President Taft appears to be in small matters the victim of bad luck. The Associated Press, in its early morning report of Thursday's proceedings at the St. Paul conservation congress, tried to tell how the resolutions committee had agreed to cut out the names of both Taft and Roosevelt in connection with the conservation movement, so far as the committee's report was concerned, but by an error in the report it was made to appear that President Taft's name was ignored and Mr. Roosevelt's retained.

This erroneous story was received by THE TRIBUNE and used in a portion of its country edition before the Associated Press corrected its mistake. The same error was undoubtedly circulated by many other newspapers, thus giving an entirely wrong impression to thousands of readers. This is another instance of a good man being followed by ill luck.

MAJOR HEMPHILL AND THE BRIDGE OF ASSES.

Some months ago Maj. Hemphill of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch referred, for reasons completely forgotten, to Cæsar's bridge as the "pons asinorum." THE TRIBUNE, in a modest paragraph, confessed its incomplete knowledge of the "bridge of asses" in Euclid and questioned the major's purpose in assigning this phrase to Cæsar's bridge across the Rhine.

Thereupon our genial friend Hemphill passed from mystery to enigma and from enigma into the distant realms of the unknown, growling over this bone and gnawing it, now emerging to behave like any Samson and slay a thousand Philistines, now withdrawing into the silent recesses of his humor and enjoying himself—in short, so conducting himself that we are alarmed about him.

The first impulse was to accept his reiterated references to THE TRIBUNE and the pons asinorum as the hasty maneuvers of a gentleman who had been caught with his toga off, but the subsequent antics of our friend have made this conjecture inadequate. The major is operating under a great grief or a great joy. We cannot decide which.

We suspect that some large joke is being enjoyed down in Virginia and we fain would join in the laugh even if it be on ourselves. Come now, major, we'll bite. What has the pons asinorum to do with Cæsar's bridge? We have a moderate knowledge of the latter and some less of the former. Of the latter we know that the dignity of Rome would not permit the legions to cross into Germany in boats and that Cæsar built a bridge. We might have forgiven him the building, but he described it and the description is well nigh impossible, even in translation. But what about the bridge of asses?

Come, major, did you slip or did you step on a Cæsarian banana peel? Were you the victim by a momentary lapse of Latinity or have you a subtle Virginia peanut ham joke concealed about you? Is this jest a razorback which cannot be caught, or are you laughing to hide a confusion which would be natural?

Will our friend come across with an explanation? We await it in anxiety. What has Cæsar's bridge to do with the pons asinorum? We trust that the major's good nature will triumph over his embarrassment, and we further trust that if he has us on the hip he will not spare us.

THE GANG'S BATTLE SONG MISSING

Where was the band playing:
"Hail, hail, the gang's all here,
What the h—l do we care now?"

It paraded the streets and tarried for hours in front of THE TRIBUNE office when Moxley was elected.

Where was it last night?

THE OUTER PARK SYSTEM AGAIN.

The matter of establishing the Cook county forest reserve will come up for hearing on Sept. 22 in the County court. A petition for the creation of the reserve, signed with 1,700 names, is on file and the date has been set in order that the advocates and opponents of the plan may, through their representatives, discuss the issue. It is proposed that a commission be established bearing to the county similar relations as those of the present park boards do to the city. At the November election the voters will express their wish on the condemnation and purchase of the tracts necessary for the proposed system. The woods thus bought will form the reserve which many deem wise should be established as a forest belt for Chicago.

The general proposition has the indorsement of the Association of Commerce, the City club, and more than 100 legal improvement clubs. There is a mistaken idea in some quarters that the movement had its origin with real estate speculators, but this can no more be charged with truth than it could at the establishment of any of our park systems. They grew as the outcome of the natural desire of the public for pleasure grounds. Now with the spreading of the city until it dominates the whole of Cook county has come the desire to conserve, before it is too late, some of the remaining groves and forests in the larger territory. It is part of the Chicago Beautiful plan and, so far as funds permit, the suggestions made several years ago will be followed. This plan contemplated the acquisition of 30,000 acres for the forest reserve. With this ring of groves and parks linked by boulevards Chicago would indeed merit its name of "The Garden City."

ANOTHER GRADE CROSSING HORROR.

By one of the most appalling accidents three more deaths have been added to the total due to grade crossing fatalities in the Calumet district. A train bearing a load of molten slag from a steel mill backed up on an automobile, the burning mass was spilled upon the occupants, and three of the four were instantly killed. The accident occurred at a street crossing where, it is asserted, there were no lights, no gates, and no watchman.

There are many such crossings in that vicinity, for the distance is gridironed with railroad tracks, and street cars and other vehicles are in constant danger day or night by reason of moving trains. Some elevation of tracks has been accomplished, but scores of crossings exist which are entirely unguarded and which offer hourly menace to life and property. It is true some of these crossings are in sparsely settled territory, but many others are located where the traffic is heavy and the population dense. The elevation of every track in the district should be an imperative issue with the inhabitants.

IT must have cost Mr. Browne, or somebody, a considerable quantity of the "ready necessary."

ONE ray of sunshine, anyhow, has penetrated the gloom that overshadows the Great Excluded.

THANKS to the conservation of his own resources, and others, he is quite able to pay for a good dinner out of his own pocket.

"THE matter is too delicate for discussion," says a prominent member of the club. Too delicate? You ought to hear Uncle Joseph G. Cannon discuss it!

THERE is one man who has not lost a wink of sleep or an ounce of flesh over the incident. By Ge—orge, he would do the same thing again!

NEVER, at any time or place, do you find the colonel at a loss for a word. Or words.

"I CAN see no reason," the president of the Hamilton club is quoted as saying, "why Senator Lorimer should be discriminated against." Some good friend should take him off into a corner and explain the whole business to him.

"You know, Mr. Ambish," said the sprightly young daughter of Congressman Blank, with a roguish twinkle in her eye, "they say you are in the employ of 'the interests'?"

"Yes," answered the rising young statesman.

"Well, I am going to ask you, supposing that to be true, to what special interest are you devoting yourself?"

"You will never tell anybody?"

"Never."

"It will be a secret strictly between us two?"

"Strictly."

"Well, Miss Euphemia, I am devoting all my energies, all my resources, and all my powers of invention to the sublime purpose of persuading you to take a special interest in ME!"

"Why—why—Ambrose, you—er—you're a progressive!"

"I am more than that, sweetheart! I'm an aggressive!"

But she bravely stood pat.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1910: By the Brentwood Company.]

ALTHOUGH Princess Aloys Liechtenstein never yet has succeeded in obtaining a presentation at the court of Vienna, yet she has just received the Grand Cross of the Order of Elizabeth. The order was founded in memory of Empress Elizabeth, but it is difficult to imagine what the empress, who during her lifetime would not permit the princess' name to be mentioned in her presence, would have said to the bestowal of an order bearing her name, and instituted in her honor, upon a dame of such stormy antecedents.

The only excuse that possibly can be put forward for the grant of the distinction is the fact that her husband, now seriously ill, succeeded the late Lueger, the celebrated burgomaster of Vienna, in the leadership of the most powerful political party in Austria.

The history of Princess Aloys is an extraordinary one. Her charms enjoy probably a wider fame than those of any other woman now living, on account of the fact that she is portrayed by the painter Makart in one of the singularly scantily robed figures which grace the foreground of his celebrated picture "The Entry of Charles V. into Antwerp."

The painting in question, well known in the United States through prints and photographic reproductions, is now one of the features of the great picture gallery of the city of Hamburg, to which it was bequeathed, if my memory serves me aright, by the late Baron Schroeder, the Anglo-German banker.

The princess is the daughter of old Klinkosch, a well known but unsavory personage at Vienna in the middle of the last century. Her first husband was the Viennese hotelkeeper and afterwards banker, Herr Haupt, from whom she obtained a most sensational divorce on the same ground that enabled both the late Lady Millais and the late Duchess de Frias to secure the dissolution of their first marriages.

Herr Haupt, with the same chivalry which distinguished John Ruskin and Sir John Crampton in the two analogous cases just quoted, declined to offer any defense, although in his instance he would have had ample grounds for demanding a divorce.

The nature of the woman may be best appreciated by the fact that, utterly indifferent to the generosity displayed by Herr Haupt, she actually caused to be printed a pamphlet holding him up to ridicule, and entitled, "Ich ein Vollblut; Er ein Maulthier."

Some time afterward she obtained, on the strength of the evidence which she had used for her divorce, an annullment of her marriage by the vatican, largely through the influence of Prince Aloys, whose Egeria she had become, and who was at that time one of the leaders of the Clerical party in Austrian politics. When, however, the prince married her in 1890, the sensation created by the match was so great that he was compelled to retire for two or three years from public life.

There are some who insist that Aloys married her from motives of political pique. He had thrown himself heart and soul into the advanced Catholic movement. He had visited Rome and expressed himself in such a violent manner concerning King Humbert and the "iniquity," as he described it, of robbing the pope of his temporal power, that he was expelled from Italy by the government.

In course of time Aloys became a source of embarrassment rather than of assistance to his Catholic friends, and when ultimately he, in a moment of religious enthusiasm, insisted on introducing into the reichstag a bill proposing the transfer of national education from the state to the Roman Catholic church, even his ultramontane friends declined to follow him so far as that.

This so enraged him that he proceeded to avenge what he regarded as a personal affront on the part of the Catholics by announcing his intention to marry the ex-Mme. Haupt. Then there was indeed consternation in the Clerical camp. It was as if the pastor of a strict Methodist congregation had announced to the latter that he was going to marry a music hall favorite.

Even the Jesuits, who had educated the prince and had been his mentors, lost their heads and told the prince plainly that he must choose between them, that is to say, the political power which they commanded (and still command), and the woman. To their amazement he chose the woman, whom he proceeded to wed. His daughters by his first wife declined to acknowledge her as their stepmother; one of them, indeed, giving a public demonstration of her aversion to the match by entering a convent and taking the vows of a nun.

The question naturally will be asked, why such a marriage should have been permitted in view of the fact that the Liechtensteins are a sovereign house. The answer to this is that the only person whose permission had to be granted, or who would have had any right to decline recognition of the marriage, was Prince John, the reigning prince of Liechtenstein, the most kindly, indulgent, and generous of rulers; the sufferings which have compelled him to spend the greater portion of his life in the most mysterious seclusion having served not to embitter him, but to soften and sweeten his character.

Moreover, the Liechtensteins are renowned by the number of their mesalliances; among the latter being the marriage of Prince Frederick Liechtenstein, who married the actress Sophie Lowe, while his brother, Prince Rudolf, after his divorce from the Countess Claire de Sermage, wedded Hedwig Stein, also a footlight favorite. A third brother, Prince Philip, married the divorced wife of a Hungarian of the name of Eros, and who was a daughter of the Jewish banker Todesco at Vienna and of the operatic diva Mlle Treffz.

In the case of each of these three marriages the women, despite the fact that they were barred from court by reason of their antecedents and of their Jewish parentage, were permitted to assume the name and the rank of a princess of Liechtenstein; so that there was no reason why the same right should be withheld from the ex-Mme. Haupt, whose sister Baula, by the bye, is the second wife of Count Julius Szechenyi, an uncle of Count Ladislas Szechenyi, who married Miss Gladys Vanderbilt.

The exclusion from court of Countess Julius Szechenyi was all the more marked in view of the fact that the count was one of the highest dignitaries of the crown of Hungary, privy councilor of the emperor, and his grand master of the horse.

With regard to Prince Aloys, his marriage to the ex-Mme. Haupt was preceded by a much more romantic match. His first wife was the adopted daughter of Lord and Lady Holland, and until the time of her marriage bore the name of Miss Mary Fox. When he made her acquaintance and fell in love with her, he was attached to the Austrian embassy in London. On this account his attention was drawn to the fact that it would be necessary for him to furnish Prince Constantine Hohenlohe, then grand master of the imperial household at Vienna and the supreme authority at court, with evidence that her birth was of such a character as to entitle her to presentation there as a Princess Liechtenstein.

For, as I have often pointed out in these letters, foreign women who marry Austrians become subject by the union to the same rules and regulations that are applicable to native born Austrian women, that is to say, rules which require thirty-two exclusively noble forbears before they can be presented at the court of Vienna.

On this being communicated to Lord Holland, who always had maintained the most profound secrecy concerning the origin of the girl, he furnished in the strictest confidence to Prince Aloys Liechtenstein and to Prince Constantine Hohenlohe proof that his adopted daughter was the fruit of a perfectly lawful union, and that she had royal blood in her veins.

Neither of the two princes ever revealed the information thus imparted to them. All objections were waived at the court of Vienna and the marriage took place with great pomp and ceremony in London, the prince's bride being received in Vienna by the emperor and empress with all the honors due to her rank. She died suddenly, after a few years of happy marriage, without the mystery relating to her birth having ever been revealed to the public.

Her death seemed to remove the restraint which had until that time kept her brilliant husband within bounds, and he thereupon threw himself into politics, joining many parties and fighting for them and against them in turn.

MRS. YOUNG'S FIRST SCHOOL REPORT STUDY OF GRAVE PROBLEMS OF AGE.

Does the life and future of America rest with the children of alien races? Are the children of American born parents becoming vitiated and slowly giving place to the sturdier sons and daughters of immigrants? These grave questions are asked and left unanswered in the first annual report of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of the Chicago public schools, which was made public yesterday. The basis for the questions lies in the remarkable parade of 80,000 school children which greeted President Taft on his visit to Chicago a year ago.

"In accordance with action taken by the board of education arrangements were completed for a reception on Sept. 16 to the president of the United States by the high schools and grammar grades of the public schools of the city," reads the report. "Many of the schools walked to their position in the line, but a large number found it necessary to avail themselves of transportation by a car line. The membership of the high schools and grammar grades at the time of the reception was 104,000. About 80,000 boys and girls were in the line.

"One noticed with a pang that the bodies and legs of the children whose ancestry in America dated back one or two generations only were sturdier than those of the children of a longer line of American ancestry. The difference raised the question in one's mind whether in America, as in old Rome, an influx of peasant blood would be necessary to keep a race of people in a city strong physically or whether the attention given in modern times to the necessities of life—light, fresh air, and nourishing food for the young—will make it possible for generations of city bred people to maintain that physique which is necessary for the life of a nation."

More thorough attention to the named "necessities of life" form a considerable part of Mrs. Young's report, and her ideas are expressed as follows:

"There may be perfectly ventilated school buildings, but it has never been my good fortune to visit one. In the east and the west one recognizes the same stale conditions in the atmosphere of the school rooms. The development of sanitary science and the interest of members of the scientific and medical professions in the possibilities underlying such science give promise of better conditions in the near future with regard to ventilating and lighting buildings for the children and young people than have yet been worked out.

"In our high schools, gymnastics should be taught to girls by women, and there should be in each high school building two gymnasiums, one for boys and one for girls. It is desirable that the gymnasium in every high school be equipped with a swimming pool, and that not only high school students be taught the art of swimming, but all children in the grammar grades of the elementary districts should have opportunity to acquire the knowledge and facility requisite for movement in water as well as on land.

"The board of education has made provision for the establishment and maintenance of recreation centers in different parts of the city during the coming year. It is thought in some cities that a recreation center should not be conducted by the teachers of the public day school. The objection rests upon a theory that day school teachers cannot separate themselves from the didactic manners and methods of the old-time teachers. This, however, was shown to be groundless, as two centers conducted in Chicago by the principals of the day schools had every aspect of those desirable social activities which the center is established to develop. The distinctive gain was not so much in what was learned as in the social and moral conditions that were made attractive, and that tended to draw the young people from the more dangerous class of amusements which they were likely to frequent."

The report shows Mrs. Young a firm believer in vocational education.

"Neither the academic nor the industrial is superior to the other in elementary education," she declares. "A revision of the course of study aiming at the elimination of the unimportant, the recognition of the training of the hand, and a better balanced distribution of the emphasis on different subjects has been made by the education department. It is a quarter of a century since Chicago began to advocate training the hand and training to a knowledge of the house [illegible]. In spite of all our warmth of espousal of the cause of manual training and household [illegible] only three schools in every four in our city are equipped for manual training and only seventy-three out of two hundred and [illegible] for cookery. Every elementary school should be equipped with a manual training shop, a kitchen, and a sewing room. Two year high school courses in which the vocational aim is recognized have been prepared and will be put into operation. The day has passed in America when two years of the life of a boy or girl who is going out without a college education can be treated as of little value in the high school.

"Boys and girls who are obliged to enter wage earning occupations before graduation from the elementary school should have opportunity to acquire in course of time scientific knowledge and skill requisite for advancement into well paid adult lines of work in the industry in which they are engaged. They should also have systematic work in citizenship, economics, and history. Chicago has never made headway in the effort to furnish this opportunity. Manufacturers and merchants have not coöperated by giving periods of time to their young employés for attendance at school in hours of the working day, nor by taking high school students into their factories for stated periods. The situation is one of mutual doubt; the manufacturers have little confidence in the value of school training for their low priced labor or for apt young people; the school fears the deadening influence of limited and narrow mechanical skill that may be acquired in a short time. The evening continuation schools attract a large percentage of boys and girls, young men and women, who wish to make themselves more efficient in their daily pursuits. A positive effort to have a high grade of skilled instruction in shop work would meet with success."

That citizenship is not best taught by having children set up miniature municipalities is declared by Mrs. Young.

"Of one thing I am confident," is the declaration. "If schools are to develop strength to resist the evil and to practice the good, their conception of training in the virtues must comprehend more of moral activity in the coöperative work in the class, the division, and the school than is now afforded. Exercise in honesty, truthfulness, charity, kindness, purity, courage, generosity, [illegible] does not necessarily come by way of the time honored recitation nor by having children assume to be aldermen and mayor in imitation of a modern city government, or tribunes and consuls in revival of a civilization long since passed away."

The "better understanding" between the teaching force and the board of education in which the raising of salaries during the year to aggregate $300,000, played a part, formed the closing chapter of the report.

"The year has been one of harmonious and vigorous effort on the part of teachers, principals, supervisors, and superintendents," she says. "Chief among the causes which have created this condition has been the feeling on the part of the members of the teaching corps that the board of education appreciates their work and desires to make conditions such that the profession of teaching shall be one of dignity and honor. The board as a body representing the people has always appreciated the service of the teachers of the city, but it has not always been so fully in control of the situation that it could make manifest its attitude. I refrain from expressing thanks to the board, to my associates in the superintendent's office, and to the teaching corps, because it is as necessary for the well being of the schools that the superintendent coöperate with the board and teachers as that they coöperate with the superintendent, and, after all, our coöperation is not for the success of one official or another, but for the good of the children, the hope of the nation."

Copies of the report will be given to the principals of the public schools at a meeting that will be held in the Northwestern University building, Lake and Dearborn streets, this morning.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

JAMES FOX PROTESTS REPORT.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 8.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The paragraph relating to me as a candidate for congress in the Eleventh Illinois district, as published in your issue of yesterday morning, is, in my judgment as a well read lawyer, either a gross mistake, or a premeditated and an intentional libel.

I announced myself as a candidate who would spend no money, and, as every respectable candidate should do, I have depended upon honest friends interested in good government to do all of the work and all of the talking without pay. Up to the time of the publication of the belittling paragraph referred to I stood a fair chance of beating all of the other candidates in the field in my home city; but even if I should not get more than ten votes I would not regret that I entered the race in an attempt to help purify Illinois politics.

In view of my civil and military record I trust that you will see the justness of publishing this letter. JAMES D. FOX.

HURRAH FOR ROOSEVELT.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Can any one doubt that Roosevelt is a man of deeds, and not mere words, in view of the recent episode in Chicago? The people of this city should be deeply grateful for his timely arrival, as the tonic effect on the community of his moral courage in refusing to be associated with political grafters will unquestionably be productive of great good. Hurrah for Roosevelt and for THE TRIBUNE.

SPECULATION AND BASEBALL TICKETS.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Is there no way that the disreputable methods of the present management of the Chicago Cubs can be overcome and the baseball going public given a square deal? For nearly every game this summer I have yielded to the high sounding invitation of the management in their circular matter to avail myself of the seat sale at Spalding's, but never yet have been able to get a decent seat there, or even to get decently courteous treatment by the man in charge. Every time I have been told that there were no good seats to be had, and if I didn't like what he handed me out could go without them. In every case I have gone to a scalper and by paying a premium had my choice of any seat that I wanted.

Two weeks ago I was told by this same impudent ticket seller in Spalding's that there was not a single front seat to be had in the upper tier for the New York-Chicago game. This was on Friday. On Saturday I went to the Palmer house and secured two front seats in the upper tier, just where I wanted them. Today—Tuesday—I have just been told the same thing—that there are no good seats to be had for next Sunday's game. And yet you know, and the baseball management knows, and I know, that I can have any seats I want by paying scalpers' premium. But even this is not so bad as the insolent insults that this same ticket seller at Spalding's hands out. A man just ahead of me this morning was abused because he ventured to ask when he could get seats for the world's champion series.

When I objected to the seats in the rear that he offered me, I was informed that if I didn't like to be handled the way he wanted to handle me I needn't come around—that "they didn't care for cheap skates' money anyway." This sort of thing is going to kill baseball. Personally I will never attend another game, or attempt to.

BACON ON T. R.

Industry, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Bacon describes Roosevelt 300 years ago better than your "Voice of the People" writers do today. Here it is:

"Pompey [T. R.] on the other hand, who endeavored at the same ends by more dark and concealed methods, wholly bent himself by numberless stratagems to cover his desires and ambition, whilst he brought the state to confusion that it might then of necessity submit to him and he thus procure the sovereignty to appearance against his will."

IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Religious Journals Consolidate.

The Interior, a Presbyterian journal published in Chicago, has effected a consolidation with The Westminster, a Presbyterian magazine published in Philadelphia, and, after the first of October, the two will be published as The Continent, a magazine which will espouse the interests of the Presbyterian church as a whole, regardless of sectional limitations.

Publication offices will continue in Chicago, while offices will be maintained in New York and Philadelphia.

With the passing of The Interior, which was founded in 1870, a new departure in religious journalism will be undertaken. The new paper will endeavor to keep in close sympathy with Christian thought and activities in every part of the land.

"A sample of the way The Continent is going at things is indicated by our engagement of William T. Ellis, a Philadelphia newspaper man who has built up for himself a big reputation as a globe trotting correspondent," said Nolan R. Best, the editor. "The Continent believes that the big news story of the current year in the line of human progress is being made in the orient, where everything is a bubble with the ferment of modern ideas."

It is understood that the new paper is assured of ample funds, to be furnished by prominent members of the church, who have long desired a larger opportunity for The Interior to prove its up-to-dateness and power. These funds make it possible to associate with the enterprise the foremost writers and religious leaders in the country. Among those who have promised editorial coöperation are: William Jennings Bryan, Dr. Henry van Dyke, Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, "Ralph Connor," Sir Wilfred Grenfell, J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Toronto Globe; Dr. Charles Frederick Thwing, president of Western Reserve university, and President John H. Finley of the College of the City of New York.

A group of prominent Chicagoans has played a large part in developing the plans of the new paper and will be closely associated with its work. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, and Mary E. McDowell, head of the university settlement, are connected with the staff as [illegible] contributors. President James G. K. McClure of McCormick seminary and Dr. Andrew C. Zenos are included among the list of [illegible] contributors.

ROOSEVELT SHUNS LORIMER.

[Rockford Star (Ind.).]

Col. Roosevelt's bold declaration that he would not attend the dinner given by the Hamilton club of Chicago if Senator Lorimer was permitted to be present is characteristic of the man. He has never sympathized or associated with the wrongdoers, and as he places Lorimer in that category he refused to fellowship with him.

The result of the repudiation of the man who occupies a purchased seat in the senate will be the end of his political existence. He had intended to brazen out the charges against him and continue his political machinations. But this action of Col. Roosevelt will make short shrift of him. He is to-day a marked man, a political outcast.

Col. Roosevelt's repudiation of Lorimer comes at an opportune time. The Lorimerites are seeking to regain control of the legislature that they may continue their jackpot and bathroom methods. But Roosevelt has called the attention of the people to these rascals at the right time and in the right way. And the people will rally at the Roosevelt call. They will shun the boodlers as he shunned their chieftain.

WOMAN IS LOSER; ACCUSES BROKER

Exchange Investigates Chicago Teacher's Charges of "Being Closed Out."

WON $18,000 IN "FLYER."

Drops All in Another; Concern Says It Couldn't Carry "Unmargined Stock."

A plunge in stock speculation, which cost a Chicago school teacher $18,000, is responsible for an appeal to the board of governors of the stock exchange for an investigation and an accounting, and for charges of unfair treatment against a member of the exchange.

Several weeks ago, through a fortunate deal in Sears-Roebuck stock, Miss Anna Straus, assistant principal of the Hamline school, made a profit of $18,000. She decided immediately to take another "flyer" in listed stocks and instructed her brokers to put the entire amount in Illinois Brick stock. This particular stock took one tumble after another, and Miss Straus' account was closed out when Illinois Brick was quoted many points below the price she paid.

The deals for her were conducted by Edward C. Dickinson & Co., brokers, with offices at [illegible] Monroe street. The stock exchange has been asked to investigate because of a claim by Miss Straus that her account was closed out without her knowledge.

Conceals Moves from Broker Brother.

A brother of the school teacher is a broker, but her "flyers" in stocks were conducted unbeknown to him. Though Miss Anna Straus appeared on the books of the brokerage company as the sole purchaser, it was shown yesterday that most of the funds with which she speculated belonged to an older sister.

The school teacher's speculations have extended over a year. Miss Straus asserted at her residence, 4415 Drexel boulevard, that she never would speculate again.

"We began buying Sears-Roebuck stock a little at a time," she said. "As we were fortunate we put more money into the same stock, and at one time we had six or seven thousand invested. Then the stock rose. When we sold that stock we had a profit of about $18,000. We learned that Illinois Brick was doing good business at the time, so we told Mr. Dickinson, who was our broker, to purchase that. He bought for us [illegible] shares.

Bottom Drops Out of Stock.

"The stock began soon to fall. We were called upon to cover our margins. One day we put up $3,500. They called us over the telephone and told us that the stock was 62, then 58, and then 57. Suddenly we were notified that our account had been closed out and that we had lost $18,000.

"It was closed out without any notice to us and without our having any opportunity to cover margins. We could have done that and were willing to do so. We still had shares of Sears-Roebuck and would have used that to cover our margins if we had been notified.

"Then we sought the brokers and asked them for an accounting. We could get nothing from them. We couldn't find out from whom we had purchased stock nor to whom our stock had been sold. We can stand to lose the $18,000 if we lose it through a poor speculation, but we think that we should have a full accounting of the deals by which $18,000 disappeared so quickly. That is the reason why we have appealed to the board of governors of the stock exchange."

Miss Straus brought her case to the attention of several members of the exchange. The matter was to have been taken up by the board of governors, of which F. D. Countiss is the chairman, at a recent called meeting, but lack of a quorum prevented.

"Simply a Woman Speculator."

"It is simply a case of the woman speculator," said T. D. Foster, a member of the firm of Edward C. Dickinson & Co. "Women shouldn't be allowed to speculate. They are all right if they win, but they blame everybody under the sun if they lose. Miss Straus was fortunate in her deals in one stock. I urged her again and again to close out her account while she had a big credit balance. But she was excited over winning and insisted upon going after the market again. It turned after we had secured 500 shares of the stock she wanted. She simply could not cover the margins as the stock slumped. We were not in a position to carry the stock for her and so had to close out the account."

CHIEF STIRS UP LEVEE FORCE; FINDS VICE REGULATION LAX.

Lieut. Jenkins Shifted from Twenty-second Street Station to Old Post at South Chicago.

Chief of Police Steward proved yesterday that he is keeping a watchful eye on the new regime in the Twenty-second street district.

Although the transfer of Lieut. Walter M. Jenkins from the levee station back to his old post at South Chicago was largely because of his personal wishes, it also was caused by the chief's dissatisfaction with the way the new force is carrying out his orders, in the regulation of vice. The primary reason was that Jenkins "didn't get along" with Capt. John Halpin, the new commander, but one of the results of this discord was leading to a return of the old laxity in the control of the resorts.

Since every man from captain down to patrolman who had anything to do with the red light neighborhood was taken away from Twenty-second street, conditions have improved slightly, but intoxicants still are sold in a number of the resorts, women appear in windows and doorways and gambling continues in a few places.

To replace Jenkins, Lieut. Michael J. Clohesy, who was closely associated with Halpin at the Warren avenue station, was called to aid his old superior in his new post.

Lieut. Maurice Moore was sent to Warren avenue to replace Clohesy. He is said to have desired the transfer because his residence is at 2007 West Sixteenth street. Lieut. John Dawney was taken from the South Chicago station to make room for Jenkins' return and was sent to the east side to replace Moore.

The "swapping" of places between Lieut. Jacob Reich of the North Halsted street station, and J. F. Walsh of the Sheffield avenue station, was something of a mystery. Reich, who recently was reprimanded by Chief Steward for failing to report the escape of a prisoner, was sent to Sheffield avenue.

3 PUBLIC POLICY QUESTIONS ATTRACT OVERPLUS OF FAVOR.

Final Count of Signatures for Little Ballot Shows Each Proposition Is Better Received than Anticipated.

A final count of the signatures upon the petitions for the little ballot successfully circulated by the Peoria conference committee of seven, showed that each of the three questions of public policy had been given a larger total of favor than had been estimated.

The total of signatures on each of the questions was as follows:

State civil service	132,346
Corrupt practices act	136,019
Initiative and referendum	137,[illegible]

The petitions were filed yesterday morning with the secretary of state by Chairman Walter S. Rogers, and other members of the committee.

Woman Badly Hurt in Fall.

Mrs. Anna Lynch, [illegible] West Washington boulevard, [illegible] years old, received serious injuries late yesterday afternoon, when she was washing windows in the second story of her home and fell backwards out of the window to a stone areaway.

HARRISON ASKS FOR CHANGE

Former Mayor Indorses J. A. McInerney Over McLaughlin.

FAVORS A HOUSECLEANING.

Says Democrats Should Take Warning by "Insurgent" Move.

Speaking at a mass meeting in Fitzgibbon's hall, West Twelfth street and South Albany avenue, last night, Carter H. Harrison, who spoke in favor of Joseph A. McInerney, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Nineteenth senatorial district, made an attack against John J. McLaughlin, the present incumbent, who also is a candidate.

"John J. McLaughlin sells commodities," Mr. Harrison said, "that are used by all large public service corporations—telephone and telegraph companies, surface and elevated railroads, electric light companies, and many others.

"As chairman of the committee on corporations in the lower house, he uses his influence to further his own private interests. He must favor the corporations and the corporations in turn must curry favor from him as the chairman of the committee that has their interests in hand.

"This situation is not at all creditable to the state of Illinois. A change must be made and this change will come about in the nomination of Mr. McInerney.

"Shall the People Rule?"

"This election is not a question of personalities or individuals," Mr. Harrison continued. "It is a question as to whether the people or the corporations shall rule. Republican 'insurgents' have really spoken the strongest words recently in favor of control by the people. The 'insurgents' will either fail in their purpose or cause the formation of a new party.

"Before we can ask the insurgents to join our party we must have a housecleaning and drive out the persons who have been traitors to the cause. The more reputable citizens we can nominate and elect only means that this will be brought about more quickly."

Mr. McInerney promised if elected that he would vote for all laws that stood for the welfare of the people.

"McLaughlin has represented you for the last four years," he said, "and still he is afraid to state what his platform is. This man and his 'boss,' Roger C. Sullivan, have brought disaster to the Democratic party in this district. McLaughlin has never voted for the interests of the people, as his record shows."

Edward F. Dunne Sends Telegram.

Others who spoke were James Donahoe, Abram Adelman, Le Roy Hackett, and Lawrence J. Coffey.

Former Mayor Edward F. Dunne was to have been present at the meeting, but telegraphed his regrets from Barrington, R. I. His telegram read:

"Can't attend. Am in favor of any move that will fumigate the Nineteenth senatorial district. Deny for me that I am in favor of McLaughlin. I have always favored McInerney."

QUERIES DENEEN ON GAME BUREAU

Catherwood Asks Governor to Fulfill His Promises as to Facts Sought.

PLEAS TO WALKER VAIN.

Denies Reform Body or Its Head Made Statements Ascribed to Them.

Robert Catherwood, chairman of the Civil Service Reform association, yesterday asked Gov. Deneen to make good his promise to furnish the association with detailed information concerning the game department of the state. Mr. aCtherwood wrote a letter to the governor in which he disavowed any intention on the part of the association to criticise or investigate the administration of the University of Illinois and stated as its only purpose a wish to discover whether the game department is operated under the present system as economically as it would be under civil service.

Submits List of Requests.

The requests submitted are for:

The names and addresses of all employés paid out of the state game protection fund during the last two fiscal years.

The number and price of each kind of wild game purchased during the last fiscal year.

The method of distributing wild game with the names and addresses of persons giving and receiving such game, and the dates thereof, for the period since such distribution began.

Any notable achievements of the department, such as commonly appear in the biennial reports of other departments of the state government.

In his letter, Mr. Catherwood states, regarding the controversy that has arisen over the University of Illinois: "Neither the Civil Service Reform association nor its president, nor any other person than Mr. Surran, so far as we know, ever made or published the statements you quote. Mr. Surran is not, and never was, a member of our association. We have nothing to do with his utterances."

Tells of Inquiries Sent.

Concerning the association's inquiries into the state game department, Mr. Catherwood writes: "In an endeavor to secure some information as to whether the state game commissioner's office, under the present system, is conducted as efficiently and as economically as it would be under the merit system, a telegram was sent on Aug. 10 to that office asking for a copy of its last annual or biennial report. On Aug. 15 this telegram was repeated. On Aug. 18 a letter was written to the state game commissioner, J. A. Wheeler, asking for a copy of any descriptive reports reviewing the work of the department for the last year or two.

"You assure me that we can easily get the facts from that department or from yourself."

Mr. Catherwood concludes his letter with a request for the information specified above.

DOCTORS' O. K. BRINGS CLASH

Upheaval in Medical Societies Follows Political Indorsements.

LETTER USED IN ARGUMENT.

Attempt Is Made to Impugn Physician Residing at Capital.

By breaking into politics the medical profession of Illinois has brought on an eruption in its own societies.

In the resulting debate Dr. Charles J. Whalen has endeavored to impugn the statements of Dr. L. C. Taylor of Springfield, physician in waiting upon the family of Gov. Deneen, and other doctors who disclaimed their signatures to the letters of indorsement. He has produced a letter which he received from Dr. Taylor, which he claims disproves the Springfield physician's statement that he was unfamiliar with the proposition to indorse certain candidates.

Text of Letter to Dr. Whalen.

This letter is as follows:

"Dear Dr. Whalen: I received a letter from Mr. —— this morning in regard to the pledge sent out by our committee. He states that he has made it a rule not to make pre-election promises. You know that he has been uniformly favorable to legislation in our interests, and I have no doubt we can rely upon him in the future.

"I hope you will take occasion to acquaint the physicians of his district of this fact, and they will use all honorable means to bring about his return to the legislature. Yours truly,
L. C. TAYLOR.

"P. S.—Senator —— of this district also spoke to me in regard to our card, and takes practically the same position, but he was with us during the former sessions, and we can rely upon him, I feel confident."

The opticians, against whom one of the bills advocated by the Chicago Medical society and the Illinois Medical society is directed, declare that the committee headed by Dr. Whalen has overstepped the bounds permitted by the resolutions of the societies when they indorsed candidates.

Says Committee Lacked Authority.

E. M. Heidkamp, president of the Illinois State Society of Optometrists, has produced one of the letters sent out to the candidates, in which the text of the resolution upon which the committee acted is quoted.

"This," said Mr. Heidkamp, "does not read to me as if it gave the committee the authority to indorse candidates, without first submitting the names of those to be indorsed to the full society."

Dr. George T. Suker, secretary of the Chicago Medical society, on the other hand declares that the committee acted strictly in accordance with the resolutions when it sent out the letters of indorsement."

Dedicate Church Tomorrow.

Dedication services of the Irving Park Immanuel Congregational church will be held tomorrow. Three services will be conducted by Dr. Charles A. Blanchard of Wheaton college, the Rev. Ira N. Grey, pastor of the church, and the Rev. J. C. Armstrong.

CHARGE OF FRAUD IN CAMP OF 'DRYS'.

Mulvihill Faction Asks Wayman to Investigate Wilson Primary Petitions.

FIGHT FOR LEADERSHIP.

Accused Candidate for State Chairman Says Rival Only Seeks Control of Party.

Party strife in the Prohibition party of Illinois has reached the stage where two factions, fighting for the election of opposing candidates for chairman of the state committee, are accusing each other of doubtful practices in securing petitions for placing upon the primary ballot the names of candidates for state central committeemen.

State's Attorney Wayman was asked by representatives of one faction to investigate alleged fraudulent methods in connection with the filing of some of the petitions. These candidates are said to be backed in their fight for election by State Chairman Alonzo E. Wilson and are supposed to favor his reëlection.

Mr. Wilson is opposed by William F. Mulvihill, who at the last state convention was made state committeeman from his district.

Counter Charges Made by Wilson.

Counter charges are made by the faction backing Mr. Wilson.

The National Prohibitionist, the organ of the faction headed by Mr. Mulvihill, issued a "house cleaning" number yesterday, giving details and alleged proofs upon which the charges are based.

The article says:

"Fraud, willful, deliberate, and unpardonable, has been committed in connection with primary petitions of the Prohibition party in the state of Illinois.

"Whether or not State Chairman Wilson had personal knowledge as to the methods used by his supporters, the National Prohibitionist does not know, but the fact remains that trusted employés of the state committee have gone into various districts whose representatives refused to vote for Mr. Wilson at the Decatur convention and, under pay from the state committee, have promoted the candidacy of such men only as it was believed would vote to keep Mr. Wilson in office."

Mr. Wilson has been state chairman for seven years and still holds that office. He resides in Wheaton, Ill.

Denies Accusations of Fraud.

He made a statement during the day denying there had been any intentional fraud.

"Five of the petitions filed at Springfield by Mr. Mulvihill's followers were thrown out, because they did not comply with the law," he said. "The publishers of the National Prohibitionist have for years been endeavoring to get control of the national and state organizations."

Another Rollicking Rinehart Romance

Author of
The Circular Staircase,
The Man In Lower Ten

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

Author of
When A Man Marries
(Seven Days)
etc. etc.

The Window at the White Cat

Mary Roberts Rinehart, writer and dramatist, who has set the world a-wondering—author of The Circular Staircase, The Man In Lower Ten, When A Man Marries (Seven Days), etc.—adds another comedy-mystery-romance to her famous list.

THE WINDOW AT THE WHITE CAT is a glorious entertainment after the inimitable Mary Roberts Rinehart style. Absorbing mystery, irrepressible humor, incessant wit, quick action, abundant adventure are all in it to whet the appetite from the start and satisfy it only at the very end.

Mrs. Rinehart's first success was THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE. Elements of humor and mystery, hitherto supposed utterly antagonistic, she brought together in such a charming combination that the reading public was immediately captivated. It was something new, piquant and different, like the first taste of grape-fruit dressed with oil.

People said that it was a success that could happen only once in a life-time. Mrs. Rinehart, undismayed, "came back" with a second story more delightful than the first. In THE MAN IN LOWER TEN the mystery was more intense, the fun more rollicking. This incessant, spontaneous, irresponsible humor of hers is Mrs. Rinehart's distinctive contribution to detective fiction, the very essence of her true delightfulness.

These two books made Mrs. Rinehart the most popular writer of mystery stories in America. With them she overtook and outstripped the authors of The Leavenworth Case, Sherlock Holmes and Raffles.

Everybody knows about the third Rinehart book, WHEN A MAN MARRIES, for everybody has roared with laughter over the piled-up predicaments of the quarantined house-party. Dramatized and produced as SEVEN DAYS, it is the biggest farce hit that Broadway has known in twenty years. And the book is funnier than the play.

Now comes a new story, THE WINDOW AT THE WHITE CAT, better than all the others, designed for the gayety of the nation, framed to take the mind off the weather, dyspepsia, duns and other distractions, a very pinnacle of delightful fiction. Mrs. Rinehart goes all her previous efforts one better. The mystery is twice as exciting, the romance is twice as alluring, and the fun completely bowls you over. THE WINDOW AT THE WHITE CAT charms, cheers and absorbs. Mrs. Rinehart's enormous public will welcome it with enthusiasm.

In the Society World

TODAY gives the first long list of weddings to the calendar. That of Miss Eleanor Robinson and Frederick D. Countiss, although it is to be celebrated at the Gotham hotel in New York, calls forth much interest in Chicago as the bridegroom-to-be is one of the best known of the city's bachelors and the bride is a former Chicago girl.

The north shore contributes two interesting services—that of Miss Dorothy Rathbone Fuller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon Fuller of Forest avenue, Evanston, and William Arthur Vawter II., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Vawter of Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, and of Miss Mary Asenath Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Butler of Wilmette, to Percival Nelson Cutler of the same village.

If the skies remain clear the wedding of Miss Fuller and Mr. Vawter is to be an out of doors service, celebrated on the terrace of the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Burnham; if not, the ceremony will take place at the First Presbyterian church at Evanston. In either event the Rev. Dr. James G. K. McClure will officiate, performing the ceremony at 5 o'clock. The wedding party is of unusual size, including Miss Elizabeth Fuller, the bride's sister, as maid of honor, and Miss Marion Deering, Miss Barbara Deering, Miss Clara Vawter, Miss Marion Forgan, Miss Ethel Forgan, Miss Lucile Barry, Miss Edith Hardy, Miss Katherine Scott of New York City, Miss Mary G. Porter of Castine, Me.; Miss Roma Love of Columbus, O.; Miss Emma Brownell of Peru, Ind.; Miss Bessie Smith of Highland Park, and Miss Bertha Schedler of Mount Vernon, N. Y., as the bridesmaids. Carl L. Wernicke of Portland, Ore., is to be the best man, and the ushers will be Daniel H. Burnham Jr., Augustus W. Eddy, John Gates, U. S. N.; Robert O. Lord, Ebor Morley of Chicago, Albert P. Preyer of Cincinnati, Edwin E. Sheridan, Vincent W. Switzer of Lafayette, Ralph C. Turner of Chicago, George H. Vawter, Edward A. Wadsworth of Newark, N. J., and Erskine Wilder of Elmhurst, Ill.

After the wedding a dinner will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Vawter, the parents of the groom, for the bridal party and family friends, the dinner to be in accordance with an old custom called the "infare," which celebrates the coming of the bride to her husband's home. Miss Bessie Smith of Highland Park gave a luncheon yesterday for Miss Fuller and her maids, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Burnham gave a dinner to the entire bridal party. Mrs. D. R. Forgan was hostess at a tea for the bride on Wednesday afternoon.

Barnett, is to take place at 8 o'clock at the Woodlawn Park Presbyterian church, the Rev. Edward Harvey Curtiss performing the ceremony. Miss Anne Pearson is to play the wedding marches, and just before the ceremony George O'Connell will sing "Coronation." Mrs. Robert Leete of Detroit, an aunt of the bride, and Miss Hazel Huntley will sing at the reception which follows at the family residence.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Smoot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Smoot, and Samuel Stelman Holmes is to take place on Tuesday evening, Sept. 20, in Trinity church, Highland Park.

McCullough, sister of the bride, as matron of honor; Mrs. William Johnson, Miss Genevieve Ainslie, and Miss Edith Hill as the other attendants of the bride; Margaret Hall, niece of the bride, and Dorothy Dodge, flower girls; Alfred R. Wilson of Detroit as best man, and Frank E. Hall, Leslie F. McCullough, William E. Johnson, and Albert B. Dean ushers, and John Powell Lenox, master of ceremonies.

The Illinois Alumnæ association of National Park seminary will hold a luncheon in Field's southeast tearoom at 12:30 o'clock today.

Among the New Books

A Canadian Misogynist.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

DR. ANDREW MACPHAIL of Toronto is among the modern satirists of society in general and of women, professors, and theologians in particular, and in a recent volume entitled "ESSAYS IN FALLACY" he indulges in a free, almost a riotous expression of views. Although he attempts to disarm his critics by the assurance in his introductory note that he is not of necessity an enemy because he speaks the truth, still the aggression of certain of his prejudices will at least put him beyond any plea he may make for impartiality, and his assumption of truth telling will not pass unchallenged. To go no further than his essay on "The American Woman," he betrays there not only an irritation which is prejudicial to good judgment, but he also commits an occasional inconsistency which weakens his arguments.

While he complains on one page that the feverish desire on the part of women to do something is a sign of the malady of the age and is a piteous spectacle, on another page he observes that the aspiration of women of the class he is writing of is to live a life of luxurious idleness. He has no sympathy with the "busy idleness" of those women who "are even willing to perform the drudgery of charitable societies," and appears to take a curious satisfaction that they sometimes are worn out in the performance of "their silly labors"; he avers that "the woman who aspires beyond her primitive functions is an amateur in a new rôle," and repeats Dr. Johnson's comparison of the preaching woman to a dog dancing.

The frequency of divorce he lays—without written qualification—to the lawlessness of women. For the decreasing birth rate he apparently holds them exclusively responsible, and with characteristic inconsistency holds up for admiration the women of ancient Greece, though whether he would prefer to have Helen or Clytemnestra the more admired and imitated he does not go so far as to say. He does, however, appear to think it greatly to Helen's credit that she was happy in Troy, and the fact that she used the distaff during the years of her captivity quite offsets her surprising complaisancy in his estimation.

Finally, he confesses that the woman who seems to him most fortunately situated is the Turkish woman. "The east," he observes, "has meditated long upon the authority of the woman, and concluded that it was enhanced if it was allowed to remain mysterious." At the same time, he accuses women of being nonmoral, because, being shut away from the world, they have not learned the practical lessons of morality. The sheltered women are "considered virtuous because the problems of morality have never presented themselves." In one place he accords women blessedness if they will walk quietly all their days; in another he deprives them of spiritual integrity because of their lack of struggle. Their morality is tepid because temptation has not been involved. Frankness, sincerity, honor, he considers masculine qualities, and intimates that a woman goes too far when she essays these hardy virtues. She forgives and forgets a meanness inflicted upon her by another woman because she understands woman's character, and because she understands meanness. It is futile for women to struggle for the higher morality, he thinks. They must content themselves with charm. And if they have not charm—but he does not say what then.

The exposition of so much irritation is perhaps pathological. In the case of Dr. Otto Weininger, that extraordinary arraigner of the good intentions and capabilities of women, this proved to be the case. He was the victim of an unresistant will, combined with amazing cerebral celerity, and while Dr. Macphail's cerebral powers are not amazing, yet it is only too evident that he suffers from some manner of disarrangement. He is, at least, abnormal. It is not natural for man to feel irritated at woman, and if a woman were to write so virulent a book concerning men she would appear at once ridiculous and pitiable. The author in question is out of harmony with life. Something is rotten in his Denmark. He is not writing an expository of truth; he is exploiting a disarranged personality.

Brief Notes of New Books.

"THE WHITE MERLE" (T. Y. Crowell & Co.) might be called a dream story, in the course of which much information about the different birds of the world is given the young reader. A small boy, who has read that at the first clear notes of a white merle's song sight would come back to the blind, starts out in search of the miracle working bird to save his father from impending blindness. By some friendly birds he is provided with wings, by means of which he flies over the entire world, visiting the haunts of rare and well known birds. Although he has to journey long before he finds the object of his quest, it is to be supposed that the information he gains compensates him for the inconveniences en route. The book is provided with a number of full page illustrations, and may obtain some recognition from those who believe in teaching natural history in this way.

A person who has read, even slightly, the words of the martyred president will be convinced with difficulty that it was necessary to compile a whole book in order to prove the negative of the question, "WAS LINCOLN AN INFIDEL?" (C. M. Clark Publishing company, Boston.) It seems almost incredible that such a question should have arisen in the first place. But Carl Theodor Wettstein must have been of a different opinion, for he has been for years collecting here and there bits of writing, conversation, and reminiscence tending to prove the religious fervor of Lincoln. The completed task confirms the general opinion, which is stated by one of the men who knew Lincoln in the following words: "He grew more religious with every passing year of his official life.

Howells' Recollections of Mark Twain.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

"MY MARK TWAIN" is the name that Mr. William Dean Howells gives to the recollections of his old friend which Messrs. Harper will publish in book form this week. The larger part of the contents of this book has appeared in Harper's Magazine and has attracted many readers. It will attract as many more in book form. The combination of names, Mark Twain and William Dean Howells, is one that cannot be resisted.

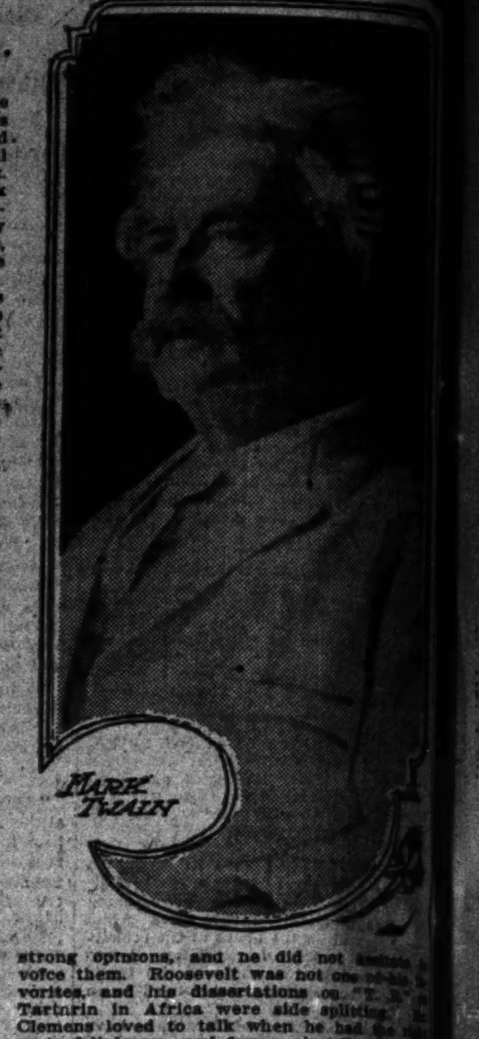
The friendship of these two men of letters covered a period of forty-five years. It had its interruptions, but when they met they did not have to begin all over again. They met where they parted and neither time nor space militated against their intimacy. It was in the office of the Atlantic Monthly, where Mr. Howells was assisting the late James T. Fields, the then editor, that they first met. Mr. Howells wrote most of the "body" reviews in the Atlantic, that is, the reviews appearing in the body of the magazine, and he had just published one of "Innocents Abroad." He recognized in this book a new humor as well as a new humorist. The review is printed in this little volume with others that he wrote about Mark Twain's books and which show that he was a reviewer with a quick perception of good things. He was genial, as Mr. Howells always is, but he was critical also—an admirable combination in a reviewer. Mr. Clemens was always a little sensational in his manner of dressing and on this occasion he wore a sealskin coat with the fur side out. This was in striking contrast to his choice of white for winter and summer wear indulged in during the last years of his life.

Mr. Howells tells many anecdotes of his friend. Among other things he refers to the famous, some thought infamous, speech that Mr. Clemens made at a dinner where Emerson, Longfellow, and Holmes were the guests of honor. The speech had been thought out with great care and was of course intended to be grotesquely humorous, but for once in his life the humor of Twain failed of its mark. He described an imaginary scene in which three intoxicated miners tried to pass themselves off as Emerson, Longfellow, and Holmes. No one laughed and no one smiled. Mr. Howells says that one man was guilty of a guffaw, but he does not give his name. The three poets were taken too seriously in Boston for any joke upon them to be liked. In referring to this speech in the recently published volume of Mark Twain's speeches the humorist says that long before he sat down his heart had ceased to beat and adds that he was never as dead as he was at that moment. Never to his dying day could Mr. Clemens shake off the chill that this speech cast over him. He apologized to the three poets, who had already forgiven him. Some weeks after the dinner he wrote to Mr. Howells: "It doesn't get any better; it burns like fire." It was a mistake and no one felt it more than the perpetrator of the joke, but he took it too seriously.

Mr. Howells speaks of going to the "esthetic suicide" of Anna Dickinson, the most popular lecturer of her day, the Joan of Arc of the Republican party, as she was called. He says that her play, "Anne Boleyn," was written for her. This is a mistake. Miss Dickinson wrote the play herself for herself, and it was not half a bad play, but she, misguided woman, was less than half a bad actress and failed in her ambitions for histrionic honors. I don't remember whether it was before or after that she appeared as Hamlet and made a worse failure. I saw her on both occasions and shall never forget either. After these efforts her sun seemed to set, for, popular as she had been, her popularity took to its heels and she disappeared from public view. Kate Field was another popular lecturer who left the platform for the stage with equally dire results. Miss Field's father and mother had been actors and she thought that some of their talent might lurk in her veins, but it did not. It is true, as I have often heard "Joe" Jefferson say, that no one accustomed to hold the stage alone, as a lecturer or other monologist, could be an actor, and I am sure that he was right.

Upon most current events Mr. Clemens had strong opinions, and he did not hesitate to voice them. Roosevelt was not one of his favorites, and his dissertations on "T. R." as Tartarin in Africa were side splitting. Mr. Clemens loved to talk when he had the right sort of listeners, and few men's talk was better worth listening to. Though a professional humorist, he was a sad, sad man. After his wife's death he did not care to live and when told of the death of a friend he would say: "Fortunate man!" At the same time he was one of the most amusing talkers I ever listened to. I could recount many a talk with him that was as funny as anything that he ever published, and I will some day. My Mark Twain would not be as intimate as Mr. Howells', but it would be interesting.

I had known Mr. Clemens off and on for many years, but it was not until he settled at Redding that I knew him at his best. I am glad to say that it was I who induced him to change the name of his beautiful home among the New England hills from "Innocence at Home" to "Stormfield." Joke names for homes have always been distasteful to me and I never liked the one that Mr. Clemens chose for his New England Italian villa. One day we were chatting in the great living room, when he said that he had built the loggia and the addition that went with it from the money he made from "Captain Stormfield's Visit to Heaven." "Stormfield!" said I; "the very name for the place." He was not sure at first, but later I heard from him that he liked it and had accepted it. I have never ceased to be grateful for how much more dignified the name than the one he first chose! The tragedies that have been enacted in that house would make the first name sound out of place. It was only changed in time and I am happy to say that Mr. Clemens was more than convinced that I was right. The tables have turned and Stormfield is now a house of rejoicing, for a child has been born there, a child that would have made Mark Twain a grandfather.



The Wide, Wide World.

Folk Lore of Slovenes a Complete Mythology.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL. D.

LAIBACH, Carniola, Austria, July 20.—To understand Slovene folk religion of today it is necessary to go back to the beliefs of ante-Christian days, where we find Slovene mythology taking its origin in polytheism. This early religion, having much that is common to all Slavs, had its own peculiarities, chief among which was the personification of qualities rather than natural phenomena.

First among the gods was Triglav. He corresponds to Zeus of the Greeks, the Jupiter of the Romans. He is master of the earth, the sea, and the air, and was represented with three heads. He is the supreme being of Slovene mythology. By the side of Triglav is the god Perun, who, among the Slavs, plays the rôle of Triglav. Svetovid, represented with four heads and who was present at the creation of the world, is regarded as still upon earth. The god of hospitality was Radgost; Genden was the god of time, Lada and Ziva goddesses of love, and Morana, the goddess of death. Besides these principal divinities the ancient mythology contained a large number of other gods, both good and bad, and demigods, nymphs, etc.

This ancient religion, the most important common possession of Slovenes in early days, persisted until the time of Charlemagne.

In 1561 Manlius opened the first printing press in Laibach, which printed some works of Slovene reformers. But Trubar was at last forced to abandon his country and sought the hospitality of the Duke of Würtemburg, where his disciples followed him. He translated the new testament and wrote a great number of orations and poems. A follower translated the whole bible into Slovene, which was printed at Würtemburg. The same Bohoritch edited the first Slovene grammar. And the historian, Megiser, composed a Slovene dictionary.

This epoch reveals a true revolution in the interior and public life of Slovenes. Austrian dukes kept their hands off the reformation. The epoch of Trubar is the golden age of Slovene culture. On his death, in 1586, his disciples were more and more forced to retire, unable to stand against the counter reformation.

The counter reformation in itself might not have been so serious had it been produced slowly and naturally. But it was brought about violently and destroyed almost all the Slovene literature, which had reached a flourishing stage.

Period of Germanization.

To Bishop Kren's credit be it said that he wished to make up for this loss by the creation of a new literature. But capable men failed him. And so there followed an interval of 150 years in which Slovenes fell back into ignorance. This was the period of Austrian centralization, marked for the Slovenes by a strong process of Germanization, which under Joseph II. reached a climax. Not only did the process of Germanization march steadily southward, but the economic and intellectual development of the Slovenes was arrested and individuality almost disappeared.

The church bell calls the Slovene to mass; all the important moves of his life are made in accordance with the rites of the church. But peasants cling tenaciously to their folk beliefs of the days before Charlemagne.

Among Slovenes, as among all people of the north, winter is the time to unlock the mind, stored like a museum with relics of pagan days. With the first fall of snow the family comes together more closely. The spinning wheel whirs under the feet of the mother, while the father, behind the loom, weaves the linen for his family. The other men and boys are doing odds and ends—fashioning plows with primitive knives, repairing a wagon, etc. As the work goes on during the long winter nights the mother tells the children of the angels who light the many thousand lights in heaven each evening and that for each new born child a new light is set and for each death a light goes out.

Slovene Mythology Recounted.

Then the old man tells of the vilas and the "wild women," of heathen maidens who in the good old times used to call out from an adjoining hill to a peasant while sowing his grain in the spring. And he tells of Rojenice and of Sojenice, who on the birth of each child settle its fate. Of Skratelj, who watches over treasures buried deep in the mountains. Of Catez, half man, half goat, who gladly helps those who do not make fun of him, but should one mock him by making the sign of horns on the head Catez will stone him. Of the wild man who lives in the forest.

Then there is the water man, who builds his palace in the Save. He often comes to dancing places and as a gallant charms some coy, proud beauty and dances with her until morning, when he gallops away with her to his watery home. And the old man talks of Torka, who, on Saturday night, befuddles the distaffs of lazy maidens. Then there is Mora, who worries shepherds. And of course there are vampires who continue their mischief even after death. Then there is talk of the prophecies of the sibyls. And always an old man is present who can prove the existence of all these creatures by recounting their deeds.

From such talk we learn of the past of the Slovenes. Here is a little insight into their economic condition in days gone by. They say it is written in the book of the sibyls that it will come to pass that a tax gatherer will stand in front of each mill, demanding from each peasant a portion of his grain. At last will come a peasant bearing his last sack of grain. The tax gatherer's demand will make him mad and he will kill the tax gatherer with his wagon tongue. A great wind will come. Everything will be in a mixup. Blood will flow so much that the mill wheels will be set in motion. But after that will come peace for all the world.

Mythological Story of Creation.

The world originated in a grain of sand brought by Evil at God's command out of the primordial sea. Evil, they say, wanting to get the better of God, hid some sand in his mouth in order to create for himself a world. At the word of the Master the sand spread more and more; the world was formed, level and smooth. But the sand which Evil had hid in his mouth began to grow and he had to spit it out. And thus there were formed the rocks and the mountains.

The father tells a snake story. Of a famous snake with a diamond in its head. A deserter had managed to hide from his pursuers in Triglav. One day in a ravine he noticed a giant snake. He hit it with a stone. The monster thrashed its tail about until the strongest trees were toppled over. The deserter returned to the spot a few days later and found the snake dead. But on its head was the diamond, which sparkled so that night seemed like day. With the diamond in his hand the deserter went to the emperor and received as a prize for the stone his acquittal and unmeasured riches.

Primitive science, so far as it relates to explanations of phenomena of nature, is generally transmitted in the form of tales. The tales themselves tend to disappear with the advent of enlightenment. But the beliefs on which they were founded survive in the form of sayings. Among Slovenes a bright meteor flying over the heavens is one saint on his way to visit another. The flash of a meteor is the opening of heaven. Whoever can speak out a wish at this moment will get it. Lightning and thunder is Elias, the peasant king, who has replaced the pagan Perun, driving away the devil. Elias gets so angry that the whole world trembles; the devil so frightened that he may flee even to a shrine. And so mothers warn their children never to take refuge from a storm in a shrine, lest Elias destroy even a shrine that he may kill the devil hidden therein. In some regions they say of thunder and lightning that a dragon is flying over the earth spitting fire and flames and knocking down towers and trees with his tail.

Black Art and the Weather.

We are not surprised that pupils of the black art alone originally understood weather making. Witches not only stir up bad weather, but Slovenes believe that a stone thrown by unseen hands brings bad weather. An approaching storm may be driven away by sacred fires or by shooting. During storms they carry chairs, toasting forks, scythes, pitchforks, etc., into the open air that witches falling upon them may kill themselves.

Drought may be ended by carrying water into the fields in a gourd flask or by throwing a stolen tile or plow into the water. Another method is for a virgin to make a fire in a basket and set the basket adrift on the Mura river.

News of the Theaters.

Small Talk of the Stage.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

MISS ELSA RYAN, regarded as one of the most attractive of home grown soubrettes in musical comedy and the like, is to replace Miss Vera Michelena in the chief woman's character in "The Girl and the Drummer," Miss Michelena departing to take the rôle intended for Miss Sallie Fisher in "The Girl in the Train."

◆

If all promises be kept, Shakspeare's farce of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" will soon be a familiar offering in the theaters. The furious and forensic Mr. Brady talks of it as a venture, with Thomas A. Wise, Miss Amelia Bingham, and Miss Virginia Harned as the fat knight and the wives; George C. Tyler is trying to import Sir Herbert Tree for a tour as Sir John, although the Tree Falstaff would not be a novelty on this side; Mr. Belasco has vaguely spoken of a revival of the farce as among his activities of the new season, and it is said that the New theater will make it the subject of early attention with Louis Calvert as the tosspot.

◆

Miss Alida Cortelyou, whose name we discern in the roster of Miss Lipman's company, ought to be remembered here for some excellent acting in Mr. Mantell's répertoire when he visited us in the autumn of 1907. She played Gertrude, Emilia, Regan, Nerissa, Elizabeth in "King Richard III.," and Eleanor in "King John" with a sure touch and with artistic ease. She served for a time as Miss Ellen Terry's understudy with Irving in the London Lyceum. She first came to this country with the late Wilson Barrett, and acted with him in his répertoire, and in the first cast of "The Sign of the Cross," when he, himself, assumed the swagger and habiliments of that howling Roman swell, Marcus Superbus. Miss Cortelyou is the wife of Sidney Herbert, who sometimes is a good actor, and sometimes is not a good actor. He was a good actor last season as the detective in "Arsene Lupin," we thought.

◆

"The Tired Business Man" is the name of a play Thompson Buchanan will write for Herbert Corthell, the title and theme being the actor's own. It is explained by the management that the chief character is not necessarily a devotee of musical comedy.

◆

Milton Sills, an actor who is expected to shed luster on Chicago by reason of the fact that he formerly went to school here, has been added to Mr. Brady's "all-star" cast of "Diplomacy." He did some good acting here in "The Fighting Hope" with Miss Blanche Bates. It may be added to the catalog of Mr. Sills' equipments for his calling that he sat in the same classes at school with Charles W. Collins, an erudite and careful writer about the theater.

◆

Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" will not be produced in New York Monday night by Mr. Brady, as announced. Mr. Frohman, who owns the American rights, objected, and Mr. Brady will substitute "Diplomacy."

◆

Otis Harlan, it has been decided, will go on tour in the rôle he originated in "Baby Mine," which last night reached its one hundred and twenty-fifth performance here, as well as the end of its Chicago run. Mr. Harlan was in George Broadhurst's mind for the principal character in a new play recently completed by that industrious gentleman; but it is not now regarded as the part of managerial wisdom to remove the comedian from the best rôle he has had since Hoyt wrote "A Black Sheep."

◆

Miss Billie Burke will play W. Somerset Maugham's "Mrs. Dot" at Powers' during the fortnight beginning Oct. 3. Meantime Miss Lillian Russell will have an engagement at that theater in "In Search of a Sinner."

◆

Charles Frohman has obtained the English speaking rights to a new Gabriele d'Annunzio play, purchasing it for England and America before it is produced in Europe. Although poetic or romantic in idea, the work is in prose. Mr. Frohman says the play probably will be given simultaneously in Italy, France, and America. It will be performed in Rome in November and in Paris at the Comédie Française.

◆

Miss Fritzi Scheff will play a short season in "The Mikado," assisted by Digby Bell, Miss Kate Condon, and Miss Grace Kennicott, who will sing the role of Peep Bo.

◆

George Fawcett's répertoire this season will consist of two American dramas, "The Great John Ganton" and "The Fighter," a new play dramatized by Hilliard Booth from Albert Payson Terhune's novel, "Caleb Conover." "The Fighter" tells the story of an arrogant, but humorous type of political boss who, when overwhelmed by defeat and family troubles, determines to start life fresh on a new and more honest basis. Miss Ann Cleveland is Mr. Fawcett's leading woman.

◆

The news of the success of "The Sweetest Girl in Paris" traveled so quickly that Mr. Askin has already received from Munich the congratulations of Mr. Taft, one of his associates in the venture.

Woman and Her Interests.

Just Between Us Girls.

BY SISTER MARY.

I have received a great many letters in regard to "V. S. E.'s" letter, published in these columns.

The following letters are from two readers:

Sister Mary: If a man's opinion is worth anything, allow me to say that in your advice to V. S. E. I believe there was one important point you failed to make.

In the peculiar situation in which V. S. E. now finds herself, if she expects to regain and hold her husband's affection, she must do it by strategy.

Love is a game of strategy to a great extent, and I confidently believe that V. S. E. may win or lose in a few moves.

It seems evident that she has lavished her affections and attentions upon her husband to a degree that she has sacrificed her self-respect and cheapened herself in his eyes.

A show of affection on her part at this time will only make matters worse.

She should assume cheerfulness and act much as if nothing had occurred except that she should exhibit a slight coolness and hold her head higher than ever before. In other words, she must command respect by her actions. She must make the husband feel that he has almost lost her love and respect.

If she carries out her part correctly he will wake up to his error and she will assume new splendor in his eyes, and he will be anxious to regain his place in her affections.

To mope around or act the humble part at this time will be fatal and simply drive the husband to the other woman. She must play a part from now on, maintaining her respect at every step. This seems to be a case of a devoted wife surfeiting her husband with affection. S.

Sister Mary: In the last twenty years of my fifty-four years of life two such cases as you told us of in yesterday's paper have come under my close personal observation. In one case the wife drove her husband to the other woman by her taunts and sullenness. She finally procured a divorce and he married the stenographer. In less than six months he realized that the possessor of the heavenly blue eyes and wealth of golden hair possessed also a most selfish and jealous disposition. No women stenographers were employed in his office after her marriage to him. He was required to be at home promptly every evening, let his business matters be ever so pressing. The fact that he had left one woman and a little daughter of 5 years whom he idolized before she (No. 2) came into his life seemed to make her all the more doubtful of him. He had left one woman—why not another? He leads a most unhappy life, which we who know him can but feel he deserves.

The other case was different. Between the husband and the "other woman" there was an intellectual sympathy which did not exist between him and his wife. The "other woman" was also the superior of the wife in personal charm. But the wife's patience never failed; her love for her husband and faith in him never wavered. I knew all three intimately, and I verily believe there were times when the husband would have sold his soul for the "other woman." But the wife won in the end because she was right and right is of God. Her treatment of the other woman—and they met frequently—was beautiful always. And she was ever cheerful. It seems to me that of the three qualities patience, love, and cheerfulness the latter is really the most essential in a case of that kind. This brave wife lived to see the other love grow dim and die, as I fully believe—anyway, the "other woman" apparently lost all influence over the husband. SYMPATHIZER.

NINA: If the blood is not in proper order sulphur and molasses is always good. To prepare put a tablespoonful of the sulphur powder into a cup of molasses, stir, and take a tablespoonful of the mixture three mornings in succession, omit three, take three more, and so on until nine doses have been taken. It acts as a gentle aperient and drives humors out of the blood better than any physic that costs a great deal more.

Economical Housekeeping.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

September Canning and Pickling.

THIS is the time of year to follow the advice of a sagacious Frenchman who said: "Something is cheap every day and I always buy that something."

There is no month in the year when the economical home maker needs to be more alert. There is no time of year when so much can be done to provide for pleasant eating in the future.

It is not always easy to overcome the inertia—we will not call it laziness—which keeps many of us from taking advantage of September's abundance. If we cannot find any other excuse we say that we cannot afford to buy the cans for preserves and pickles, but no one ought to wait until canning time to stock up. We may have to buy a few new ones at this time, but prices on such things are correspondingly high as the demand is great, and of course there are a great number of women who think more about having the nice things than about the expense. Economy by the [illegible] nearly always means discomfort of some sort, while economy that is foresight means comfort, and, in the end often, affluence. The most economical people I have ever known have either had a good deal of money, or at least enough to make them comfortable for life, and to enable them to do a great deal for others, which is one of the privileges of economy.

September is no month to put off until tomorrow what should be done today. It is a time for the carrying out of those wise plans which a foresighted, well trained and self disciplined woman will make.

The list of canned things included in the following statement, which comes from a rather artistic woman living in a small city not far away, a woman who has what she wants tomorrow—a month hence, six months hence—because she thinks and works today, instead of procrastinating, shows what future economics are made certain by the preserving and pickling of today.

She says: "My canned tomatoes cost about two and three-fourth cents per quart. Beans and corn are also tinned cheaply at home. Relishes, Canadian pickles, chutney, horse radish, mangoes, onion pickles, beets, Chili sauce, chow chow, curry sauce, tomato and grape catsup, tomato relish, etc., also salads (tomatoes bottled whole), cucumbers sliced in vinegar, cauliflower in brine, etc., are all reasonable, being put up in season when cheap. Jellies, preserves and candied fruits all add to the attractiveness of a meal and cost very little comparitively if made in one's own kitchen, besides being much better than factory products.

Little white onion pickles—These bright white little onions are very cheap just now and make a pretty pickle. They can be used through the year in salads, taking the place of the tiny imported German onions in bottles. Scald a gallon of as small ones as procurable, then sprinkle with salt—a layer of onions and a layer of salt—and let them stand for twenty-four hours. Drain, wash and cover with cold water for four hours. Put them in a stone jar and cover them with pure cider vinegar. Let them stand for three days, and cover again with the following: Four quarts of cider vinegar, five pounds of brown sugar, one ounce of allspice, one ounce of cloves, one-half ounce of mace, one ounce of celery seed, one-half ounce of coriander seed, one-fourth ounce of black pepper, one-half ounce of mustard seed. Pound in a mortar until the ingredients are broken or mixed well. Boil and set away to cool. When lukewarm pour it over the onions and tie a cloth over the jar.

Winter relish—This is really a salad that will keep indefinitely and seems delicious to jaded appetites during the winter when green stuff is high. One-half head of cabbage, the solid part of a can of tomatoes or their equivalent, two peppers, ten small onions, one cup chopped parsley, one cup chopped celery, two ounces of mustard seed, one-third cup of salt, two cups of brown sugar, three cups of vinegar. Put the cabbage, onions and peppers through the chopper, then place in granite kettle and add all other ingredients; stir until mixed and can. This makes about five quarts and as it needs no cooking, which pleases most housewives.—L. B. Harding, 511 Cambridge building.

CATHOLIC HOSTS CROWD MONTREAL

American Hierarchy Is Well Represented at Eucharistic Congress.

VANNUTELLI TO VISIT U. S.

Cardinal and Father Vaughan to Include Chicago in Their Itinerary.

BY THE REV. THOMAS V. SHANNON.
[Assistant Pastor St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church, Chicago.]

Montreal, Que., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The program of today was to have been begun with a solemn high mass on Fletcher's field and a sermon by Archbishop O'Connell of Boston. The unsettled condition of the weather compelled its postponement until tomorrow. This will cause conflict with the great English speaking celebration tomorrow, at St. Patrick's, the Irish cathedral. That is rather a benefit than otherwise, however, as there are far more people in Montreal than can be accommodated, and the committees are stampeded for space. The additional thousands coming in from the surrounding country will test the capacity of the city for the crowning celebration of Sunday.

Almost the entire American hierarchy is represented here. Cardinal Gibbons has arrived from Baltimore, and at once became the center of manifestations of love and respect wherever he went in Montreal. The city has within its gates today three cardinals for the first time on the western continent.

Vannutelli to Visit Chicago.

This morning Archbishop Ireland came from St. Paul, and immediately was surrounded by his friends in the lobby of the Windsor hotel, where he held an impromptu reception. It is understood he has in charge the itinerary of the apostolic legate in his tour through the United States. Cardinal Vannutelli intends to visit Chicago after returning from the northwest. Father Vaughan also promises a visit.

The sessions of the congress today were well attended. In some measure, the division into sections has aided. For adequate comfort it would be necessary to have ten times the present accommodations. For the first time at a eucharistic congress special meetings were held for the women. Those who attended heard one of Father Vaughan's sermons on the sins of society.

Dr. Lambert's Last Message.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Ilsely, bishop of Birmingham, presided this morning. The first paper was by Archbishop Howley, who, in addition to the paper assigned him, "The Study of the Decree of Pius X. on Frequent Communion," cited a new decree of last August, in which it is laid down that pastors can no longer deny first communion to children who have attained the age of reason, and that the varying customs about ages must be abolished and the children admitted as soon after 7 years as possible.

A pathetic circumstance arose in the case of the next paper, "Popular Objections Against the Holy Eucharist," for its author lies at the point of death from a stroke of paralysis. It is the last message from the pen of Dr. Lambert, editor of the Freeman's Journal and dean of American Catholic journalism. The paper showed no decline in the acute and closely reasoned logic of its writer. It was read by the Rev. Dr. Ryan of St. Bernard's seminary, Rochester.

Labor Leader Wins Cheers.

The proceedings of the congress were somewhat upset when a request was read that Thomas Byrne of Salford, England, secretary of the Catholic Federate Trades Union of England, be given a hearing. In the most dramatic fashion he demanded affiliation at the hands of the permanent committee of the Eucharistic congress, the only international Catholic body in existence. He had been sent by his fellow Catholic workers from England and he said his plea must be given attention. He charged his hearers that Socialism had an international organization, and asked where could Catholics find a better bond than the common eucharistic Lord. His brief talk was received with the closest attention, and at its conclusion grave ecclesiastics rose up and shouted approval.

Parade of School Children.

This afternoon, bright and cheerful, had a pleasant surprise for the visitors. Thirty thousand Catholic school children marched from Notre Dame to Dominion square. They carried the national emblem, the papal, Irish, and English flags.

The girls as they passed cast flowers on the steps of the reviewing stand until the cardinal legate had to request that no more be strewn. The voices of the children mingled with those of the immense crowds by the way in singing the Magnificat. Several times the cardinal was overcome with emotion. As the boys came on a tremendous shout, "Long live the pope," was taken up by the bystanders and such a demonstration rarely has been seen in Montreal.

The sessions of the day were closed by a symposium of speeches at Notre Dame. The speakers were the premier of the dominion, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Bishop Touchet of Orleans, the great French orator, and Father Vaughan.

TWICE FACES DEATH IN 2 DAYS.

Fred Wagner, a Launch Tender, Rescued from Lake by Life Savers Both Times.

Within the past two days members of the Jackson park life saving crew have twice rescued Fred Wagner, 6013 Washington avenue, a launch tender, from almost certain death in the lake when his launch met with mishaps.

Yesterday Wagner and Harry Shannon, a city inspector, attempted to visit the intermediate crib off Seventy-first street. The launch was disabled and the life saving crew had to go to their aid.

The day before Wagner and John Tackas, 10015 Green Bay avenue, and another man attempted to make a similar journey when the launch was overturned about a mile off Seventy-first street. Before the arrival of the life savers Tackas was drowned.

GO TO PLAN PERRY CENTENNIAL.

Officers of Illinois Commission Leave for Columbus, O., to Discuss Coming Celebration.

Perry of Chicago, the officers of the Illinois commission of the Commodore Perry victory centennial, to be celebrated at Put-in-Bay, O., in 1813, left for Columbus, O., last night to attend a meeting of the state commissions having in hand the coming celebration. The states represented will be Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Rhode Island, Kentucky, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. It is the intention to form an interstate association for the purpose of furthering the coming celebration. Effort will be made to have the next celebration held in Chicago.

AUTO CRASH BRINGS PROTEST

South Chicagoans Plan War on Unprotected Grade Crossings.

MISS BAKER BADLY HURT.

Her Condition Compels Delay of Inquest Until Sept. 30.

The tragic death of three persons and the serious injury of a fourth Thursday night at One Hundred and Fourth street and the tracks of the Chicago, West Pullman and Southern railroad, when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a train carrying molten slag, has aroused the citizens of South Chicago to a united protest against unprotected grade crossings.

Investigation Is Planned.

Chief Deputy Coroner David R. Jones, whose home is in South Chicago, has taken personal charge of the investigation of the accident of Thursday night—which is one of a long series of grade crossing tragedies in South Chicago within the last few years.

"Only the grade crossings on the principal streets in South Chicago and neighboring suburbs are equipped with gates or have watchmen to warn the public," said he yesterday. "From information I have received concerning the accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lesterhouse and Mrs. Kent were killed, the rear end of the train which struck the automobile in which they were riding carried no warning light."

Inquest Is Continued.

The inquest on the bodies of the three victims to fix the responsibility for the accident was continued by Deputy Coroner Webster until Sept. 30, on account of the serious condition of Miss Anna Baker, the only person in the ill-fated automobile to escape death.

Mrs. Frederick H. Kent, one of the victims, was the wife of Frederick H. Kent, 6138 South Laflin street, a correspondent for Marshall Field and company. He knew nothing about his wife's death until he read of it in the newspapers, as he supposed she was in South Bend, Ind., with Mr. and Mrs. Lesterhouse.

PLAN HISSES FOR ALL ACTORS WHO SHOW MINUS UNION LABEL

Drastic Action Idea of Organization's Head Following Alleged Discovery of Violation of Contracts by Managers.

A reversal of the custom of employing claques to provoke applause will be inaugurated by members of the Actors' union as the result of the discovery by John Nemo, president of the Actors' union, that the contract with the Western Vaudeville association is being violated.

President Nemo yesterday placed the matter before the grievance committee of the Chicago Federation of Labor and he announced that members of labor unions will be sent to theaters to hiss "off the stage" all performers who appear in Chicago without a permit from the Actors' union.

The contract was signed by C. E. Bray, general manager of the association, and it went into effect last Monday. In addition to providing for a minimum wage scale of $25 a week for singles, $50 a week for teams, and only one split a week, the contract provides that Manager Bray shall induce all nonunion performers booked by him in Chicago theaters to obtain a "permit" from local No. 4 of the Actors' union.

It is the "permit clause" that President Nemo says Manager Bray has violated. Nemo told the members of the grievance committee of the federation that the required permit is in the nature of a "union label," and he asked that all artists who do not carry the label be hissed.

LEAVES CAR TO SAVE WOMAN.

Sees Smoke, Rushes Upstairs to Flat Explosion Wrecked, and Wraps Her in Coat.

Pipeman Howard Hubbell of engine company No. 51 jumped from a street car yesterday, ran up a flight of stairs at 6335 South Halsted street, whence he saw smoke issuing, and saved the life of Mrs. Daniel Gurney, 30 years old, whose dress had been ignited by an explosion of two gallons of gasoline she had been using for cleaning. She had been hurled unconscious to the floor, where the pipeman found her surrounded by blazing furniture. He wrapped her in his coat, took her to the street, and turned in an alarm. The interior of the flat was wrecked.

THREE MORE WILL TESTIFY.

Grand Jury Questions Witnesses in "Oleo" Investigation.

That President Taft is taking more than usual interest in the progress of the federal grand jury in its investigation of the alleged "beef trust," became apparent yesterday when it was learned that his private secretary, Charles D. Norton, is watching the inquiry.

Mr. Norton has been at the Congress hotel, but left there during the day. He told several of his friends and acquaintances that he was on a private mission and would remain for several days.

Inquiry May End Monday.

Two witnesses in the beef inquiry testified before the grand jury during the day. They were from eastern cities and testified as to the operations of Chicago packers in these places. Three more witnesses will testify Monday. This, it is expected, will end the investigation.

W. S. Kenyon, assistant to Attorney General Wickersham, conferred with Oliver E. Pagan, the indictment expert of the department of justice, several times during the day. In order that the indictments will be "lawyer-proof," every possible safeguard is being used. The indictments were drawn up several days ago, but in the meantime have been corrected so as to make them, in the opinion of the government's attorneys, free from all technical errors and faulty construction.

Question "Oleo" Witnesses.

After the two witnesses in the "beef" inquiry had testified the jurymen turned their attention to the "oleo" investigation. Several witnesses were examined as to the relations between the manufacturers of the oleomargarine and the "moonshiners." After the remaining witnesses in the "beef trust" inquiry have testified the "oleo" investigation will occupy the attention of the jurors almost exclusively.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—This is getting monotonous. There was hope today that the two seasoned pitchers, Messrs. Walsh and White, would do something better than break even with the Browns, but not so. Jack O'Connor sent in a bunch of alleged young wonders against Walsh, and they had as much chance of beating him as of getting into the world's championship series. They did manage to score, but it was not their fault. Two hits were made off Edward, one was a Texas leaguer by Hoffman, and the other a clean single by Bob Ray, whom nobody suspected. After Walsh had done his share and quit with an 8 to 1 victory to his credit, Dr. White was sent out to tackle them. He was licked 5 to 2.

This was a surprise, because his opponent was green Red Nelson from Akron, O., for whom no manager would think of trading any part of White's anatomy at the present writing. Nelson refused to be frightened by the doctor's reputation. The Sox got to him for nine hits, giving them a total of twenty for the day, but he appeared to be a mighty hard proposition when Chicago runs were in sight.

Three Bad Rounds for Sox Hurlers.

Doc had two bad innings, and Walsh had one. The latter's was a wild spell, such as he seldom suffers. There was more or less luck mixed up with the scoring the Browns did off Doc, and the Sox didn't have any luck at all in that game. They didn't need any in the first game.

It is the opinion of many persons that the institutions which are opposing cruelty to animals, child labor, and kindred evils should go after Jack O'Connor for his share of the day's doings. It sure was a mean piece of work to push such innocent lambs as Corridon, Graham, and McDonald into the clutches of the monster. Said monster is a bad proposition for any one to face, but it sure must have been a fearful experience for these kids just trying to break in. Walsh showed his heart was in the right place by handing bases on balls to some of them. In six of the nine innings, the Browns looked awfully weak, and they never would have scored if Edward hadn't forced them to.

Ray Given a Trimming.

Robert Ray was given a severe beating in the third inning of Mr. Walsh's game. One man was out when Zeider and Lord beat out infield pokes. Meloan caromed a hot one off Graham's young feet for two bases. This brought Rollie in and sent Lord to third. Harry and Melly rode home on Collins' single to left.

The unaccustomed wild spell came in the Browns' half. They got only one run out of it, for Walsh would not allow them to mix anything like hits with his passes. Ed pitched eight straight balls to McDonald and Killifer. Lord made a costly muff of the big pitcher's throw off Ray's bunt, and the bases were full with none out. Graham was handed a pass, crowding McDonald home. Ed grabbed Corridon's bounder, and his peg home forced Killifer. Stone lined to Collins, whose quick return held all the Browns where they were. Then Newnam took three healthies.

The Sox runs that came in the seventh were funny. With one out, Lord combed a double down the third base line. Meloan hit to Newnam and beat Ray in a race for first. Ray dropped Newnam's throw and allowed Lord to score. Seeing him go home, Newnam picked up the ball and fired it to the St. Louis bench, Meloan taking third. Collins' third strike was a passed ball, and Molly came in on it.

A pass to Tannehill, Block's single, Corridon's wild heave of Walsh's grounder, and Zeider's long double to right center gave us three more in the eighth. Zwilling walked and Tannehill doubled after two were out in the ninth. Block's grounder ended it.

"Red" Nelson Wild at Start.

Red Nelson's wildness gave the Sox an early start in the second game. Red wounded French, who moved to second on Zeider's out and to third on a wild pitch. The squeeze play scored him, Lord being thrown out on his bunt to Nelson. A lot of luck helped the Browns to three in the second. Hartzell's bounder hit the plate and jumped so high that he beat it easily. The thing that Schweitzer sent to Lord looked like another hit, but it was officially called an error. White caught McDonald's bunt, but Stephens beat his grounder to Zeider. Hartzell scored while French was tossing out Nelson and the other two counted on Graham's double to right.

The Sox got busy again in the fourth and cut down the lead. After two were out Tannehill dropped a single over third and came all the way home on Sullivan's mighty double to the left field fence. White walked but French allowed Nelson to slip over a third strike on him.

White Holds Fanning Bee.

Kippy Zeider kicked a couple in St. Louis' part, but they didn't cost anything. Collins and Hartzell opened the different halves of the sixth with singles, but couldn't get around. Nelson shot one to right in the seventh. It took a bad bound and went over Meloan's head for a double. That didn't worry Doc at all. He just laughed and struck out Messrs. Graham, Corridon, and Stone as fast as they could swing.

Nelson was in trouble in the eighth, but pulled out nobly. Lord beat one out. Meloan forced him. Collins flied to Schweitzer, but Zwilling sent Molly to third with a single to center and then stole second. In this crisis Tannehill struck out.

The Browns thought they needed some more and they got two on Newnam's single, Hartzell's sacrifice, two steals, safe knocks by Schweitzer and McDonald, and a fielder's choice.

White and Zeider had infield raps in the dying rally that did nothing but delay the game.

TIGERS TAKE NAPS INTO CAMP.

Fanwell Weakens in Third, Champions Scoring Four Runs and Beating Cleveland, 5 to 2.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 9.—Detroit won from Cleveland, 5 to 2. The champions took a winning lead in the third, when, with two out, Fanwell issued four passes, which, with Delehanty's single and Crawford's double, netted four runs. Demott, who relieved Fanwell, pitched well, not allowing a hit until the ninth. Score:

Tucker of Bessemer League Hurls in Double Header, Letting Opponents Down Without a Bingle.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—What is believed to be a new record for the baseball world whether major or minor leagues, was established yesterday, when Pitcher Tucker led the Bessemer league team to double victory. He held his opponents hitless in both games and was carried off the field by enthusiastic fans. He gave several passes, but nothing resembling a bingle was allowed.

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Scott and Lange will wind it up for us tomorrow.

The crazy St. Louis weather changed entirely today and the air was uncomfortably cool.

Walsh and White were fortunate enough to go back to Chicago tonight. Both of them intend to see the Cub game tomorrow afternoon.

The new St. Louis infielders don't appear to be world beaters. Corridon would be quite a ball player if he could throw within eight feet of first base. His peg looks like Mathewson's fade away and is an awful thing for a first sacker to handle.

Mr. Walsh persuaded Pat Newnam to give him a bat the first day here. Since then the Sox who have been using it, Walsh himself, Sullivan, and Zeider have been hitting the ball hard and safely. Pat won't be so generous next time.

It used to be a pleasure to watch Danny Hoffman hit, or try to hit, against Doc White. They don't give us that pleasure any more and Danny probably is glad of it. George Stone is another party whom Doc always has had on his staff.

Bill Evans, the double header kid, received bad news today. There will be two games here with Cleveland on Sunday and President Johnson promised he would send help, but today Bill was informed that Tommy Connolly was sick and that he would have to go it alone. Bill smiled in the face of the tidings, not because Tommy was sick, however.

The folks who attend the ball games at the Browns' park evidently go there for the sole purpose of knocking. Some of the St. Louis players would almost be justified in going after some of the bugs, whose loud remarks are enough to make a trooper blush. It must be encouraging for a youngster to receive a panning such as given some of the recruits today.

Ottumwa, Ia., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Baseball fans here are thanking Manager Chance of the Chicago Cubs for sending most of his utility men to play the Central association nine in the exhibition game today, for had the regulars been on hand the defeat of the locals might have been 10 to 1 instead of a victory by that score. The followers of the minor leaguers here are asserting that the reputation of the Ottumwa team has been made, as a victory over the Cubs is seldom achieved by a minor league organization.

While a great deal of honor is due for beating the real Cubs, Ottumwa cannot be given much credit for beating the tribe Chance sent. The exhibition the "subs" put up was far too poor to exploit. They did not field like major leaguers nor did they perform as was expected by the fans. A crowd of 3,500 "bugs" packed the ball park, expecting to see their idols crushed and overwhelmed, but when the verdict was reversed they were not slow to appreciate the good joke.

Cubs in Poor Form.

The Cubs' fielding was poor and their throwing worse. Errors chalked against the visitors netted Ottumwa eight runs it should not have had. The minor leaguers scored legitimately in the first and fourth innings off Foxen, but after that should not have had a tally.

While the Central association team was handed the contest, it played hard to hold back the Cubs. Boyd and Kent did creditable work on the slab. Only three scattered hits were made by the visitors and nine of them fanned. The lone run scored by the Cubs came in the third, when Kane doubled and crossed the pan on a double steal with Hofman.

Foxen got himself in a hole in the first when he walked the first man up and two successive bingles netted two runs. A base on balls got him in trouble again in the fourth and this, followed with a single and double, netted two more.

Weaver relieved Foxen in the fifth and should not have been counted on, but errors came together so often that the minor leaguers were nearly forced home. Weaver permitted one hit and fanned five men in four innings.

Errors Give Ottumwa Runs.

Errors by Overall and Evers and a hit by Severeid gave Ottumwa two more runs in the sixth. A base on balls and Hofman's error resulted in another in the eighth, and then blunders by Zimmerman, Weaver, Overall and Needham let the locals increase their total to 10.

The Cubs were given a great reception by the Elks tonight and attended a large banquet given in their honor at the Elks' rooms. Before the game there was a parade in which more than 500 members of the order took part. Score:

EVERS SAYS HE'LL STICK TO PROMISE

Will Ignore Ban on Post-Season Games and Live Up to Signed Contract.

P. L. THINKS SERIES DEAD.

Chance Believes Venture Will Be Abandoned; Manager Celebrates 33d Birthday.

That several Cubs intend to go [illegible] with the series of games between all-[illegible] teams selected from the National and American leagues after the world's series is [illegible] despite the ban placed on such contests [illegible] the national commission, was stated yesterday by Johnny Evers.

Evers has a contract with D. A. F[illegible] promoter, for $500 for Evers' appearance [illegible] ten games, the Cub second sacker to [illegible] the first game in Cincinnati on the Saturday following the last game of the world's series. According to Evers, the other Cubs who have agreed to these conditions are Hofman, Brown, [illegible] and Kling. Johnny said he intended to live up to the terms of his contract even if [illegible] abided by the decision of the national [illegible]

No Series, Says Chance.

Manager Chance, who yesterday celebrated his 33d birthday, said he did not believe the series ever would take place. He gave as his reason that Fletcher and his cohorts, before making the scheme public, consulted Garry Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, and upon obtaining his consent they went forward with the plans. After realizing it would take a lot of money to finance such a proposition they again consulted Herrmann and had him issue an edict against a series.

Chance asserted that it makes no difference whether the players secure the consent of the owners. If the national commission does not give its O. K. on the series the players are liable to suspension and heavy fines. The P. L. [illegible] does not think a third league can be formed, but said he does not care whether such a thing happened, for in his own words, "The more the merrier."

The same team which has faced all the clubs since the return of the Cubs from their eastern invasion will give battle to Pittsburg today. Chance said he has no intentions of breaking up a winning aggregation, and as long as the present team wins its games he intends to use it in the remaining contests.

Regular Work for Overall.

The P. L. said that he intends to work Overall in his turn in the hope of getting him [illegible] for the world's series.

According to Chance the Cub lineup will be intact when the team arrives in Philadelphia for two games on Wednesday. The manager will go to first and send Tinker to short, as he wants the machine to be well oiled at the end of the national league schedule.

Johnny Evers and Secretary Charley Williams of the Cubs put in a hard day's work getting things in shape to open their shoe emporium in Monroe street on Monday if possible. The [illegible] and the first shipment of shoes from [illegible] arrived yesterday, and a large crowd congregated in front of the store to watch Evers and Williams do manual labor in assisting in placing the fixtures in position.

President Comiskey of the Sox expects [illegible] Bowser, the heavy hitting outfielder secured from the Flint team of the Southern Michigan league, to report today, and he may be used on Sunday against Detroit.

Local Stars Tune Up for National Championship at the Country Club.

H. C. EGAN IN FINE FORM.

Gardner, Seckel, Wood, Hunter, and Other Westerners Play Over the Course.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—To follow some of the matches at the Country club today would be almost as interesting as to see them in the championship next week, for many of the foremost players of the country were out for practice this morning and again this afternoon. Robert Gardner, the present title holder, and H. Chandler Egan, a past champion, were in a four ball match which started out this afternoon, in which the latter was paired up with his cousin, Walter E. Egan, and Gardner with Ellis Knowles, an old Yale golfer. It was a case of Harvard against Yale, and present champion against a past.

Western Players on Scene.

Other of the leading western players now here are: Albert Seckel, the intercollegiate champion; W. K. Wood, D. E. Sawyer, Robert Hunter, and Paul Hunter. C. E. Evans Jr. is expected tomorrow; also G. M. McConnell, who defeated Gardner recently at Onwentsia. These men of the west are the leaders in that district and the most formidable group of golfers that ever came east from Chicago.

Walter J. Travis, Frederick Herreshoff, W. C. Fownes Jr., F. G. Byrd, champion of the south, and many of the Massachusetts leading players were out this afternoon.

Chandler Egan played over the course this morning for the first time since the fall of 1904. He marveled at the improvements, but met the new difficulties with such skill that he made a 73 with one or two holes approximated.

Evans in Foursome.

This afternoon Chandler and Walter Egan defeated Bob Gardner and Ellis Knowles, 2 and 1. Robert Hunter of Midlothian made 74 in his first round, and was below 80 in his second. There will be a Chicago-Boston game tomorrow, H. Chandler Egan and Robert Gardner against J. G. Anderson and P. W. Whittemore, two scratch Boston golfers. Albert Seckel of Chicago, the western interscholastic champion, scored 78 this morning and playing with G. L. Conley of Siwanoy this afternoon, defeated B. S. Evans and T. W. Small, two Braeburn golfers.

Warren K. Wood of Chicago and Walter J. Travis, in a match with T. M. Claflin and T. G. Stevenson lost, the latter pair winning on the last green.

Two Pittsburg players, G. A. Ormiston and W. C. Fownes Jr., defeated two Massachusetts players, G. H. Crocker and J. C. Anderson, by 3—2. One of the best cards yet made was made by Roger W. Brown of Massachusetts, who went around today in 73.

MRS. A. F. HEANING WINS PRIZE FOR THE LOW NET GOLF SCORE.

Windsor Woman Hands In 95 Card, Six Strokes Ahead of Miss Hull, in Chicago Tourney.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Mrs. A. F. Heaning of the Windsor Golf club, a comparative new comer in local meets, won the low net prize in the eighteen hole handicap held at the Chicago Golf club yesterday, under the auspices of the Women's Western Golf association. An allowance of ten strokes enabled the south side player to finish with a net of 95, six strokes ahead of Miss Hull, the young Wheaton player.

Miss Ines Clarke of Waukegan won the prize for low gross with a card of 104, being tied for fourth low net with Miss Moulton of Minikahda club of Minneapolis, who is here to compete in the women's western championship at the Skokie Country club next week.

The tournament was the first for women held over the Chicago course in over five years and the players pronounced the links the most difficult for them in the Chicago district, the many traps and pits causing a lot of bother, while the fast greens were the cause of many additional putts.

Miss Myra Helmer of Midlothian, who holds the record for a number of the local courses, took 104, while Mrs. Thurston Harris, the Chicago champion, finished with 109, and Mrs. W. France Anderson, western champion in 1908, accumulated 116.

Miss Moulton won the special prize for the lowest number of putts on the eighteen green, taking 34. Mrs. Warren McArthur of Homewood won the special age limit prize donated by W. B. Bull for players of 40 years of age, getting a card of 122—15—107.

Miss Ella Fulton of Hinsdale won the prize donated by Mrs. F. R. Babcock for the driving contest after the playoff of a tie at eight points with Mrs. C. E. Raymond of Hinsdale. Miss Carrie Lee of Kansas City was third with 8 points.

Over sixty players competed in the handicap, the leading scores being as follows:

MAROONS DEFEAT JAP NINE

Page's Collegians Are Rude to Hosts in Seattle, 15 to 1.

SAIL FOR YOKOHAMA TODAY.

Mikado's Subjects and Chicago Alumni Give Banquet to Tourists.

BY H. ORVILLE (PAT) PAGE.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The University of Chicago baseball team arrived here last night from Everett, where it defeated the local club, 3 to 2. We were met at the station by a large number of Japanese, headed by the consul, Manager Nakamura of the Mikado team, and a number of Chicago alumni, including Carlton, Dr. Barnes, Sam Lyons, Buhlig, Sunderland, Pegues, Smith, and Williams.

We were properly introduced to the members of the Mikado team, champions of the Japanese Northwest league, and this afternoon the two teams met at the league park, where over 2,000 Japanese were out to root. Just before the game the Chicago men received a beautiful present of a wreath of flowers from the Japanese guests. Incidentally, the Maroons won the game, 15 to 1. The boys were keen, fielding well and driving in fifteen runs. Steinbrecker and Boylee's hitting featured along with the pitching of Roberts. We also got an idea of the style of play we will meet in the orient.

Team Is Improving.

As manager, I am well pleased with the showing of the last week in our practice games, as we have won three games and lost two by a single run. The play has improved considerably since the summer schedule closed in Chicago.

After the game today the Japanese consul, Mr. K. Abi, entertained us at the Japan City club, where his countrymen helped in the welcome and showed us a pleasant time. The menu was composed of Japanese dishes, and a few speeches were made. Then a lemonade toast was offered to international college friendship between Chicago and the orient. Many business men of Seattle also were present.

Maroons Sail Today.

The Maroons sail for Yokohama tomorrow morning, arriving in Tokio Sept. 26, where we will stay about four weeks. The Manila trip still is uncertain. Score:

FRANK WHITE BESTS REDMOND.

Chicago Boy Scores Knockdown in Second Round and Has Better of Milling at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Frankie White of Chicago had all the better of his battle of ten rounds with Jack Redmond tonight. Redmond's last great success in the boxing line was his defeat of Ad Wolgast in a ten round bout here last spring. Jack, however, was not able to plant his vicious blows as successfully as in the Wolgast battle. White put one over in the second that laid Redmond on the mat for the count of three. Jack came back in the next round with a right swing to White's nose that started the blood, but White did not allow the tap to worry him.

WOLGAST-M'FARLAND BOUT IN MILWAUKEE ON SEPT. 30.

Match Is Clinched and Will Be Held in Ball Park—"No Purse" and No Decision.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The fight between Champion Ad Wolgast and Packey McFarland of Chicago is clinched. The two boys will meet in Milwaukee on Sept. 30 in a ten round battle, but there will be "no purse" and no decision.

The battle is the culmination of several months of verbal war between the stockyards champion and the Cadillac wildcat. Wolgast first offered to fight McFarland if Packey would make 133 pounds at 3 o'clock over seven before the fight. Packey agreed to this, but in the negotiations tonight Tom Jones, who came here to close with Packey and the local management, managed to force the weight advantage for McFarland to 133 pounds three hours before the fight. This will make the contest less of a giveaway for Wolgast on the weight question.

The weight question almost caused a break between Jones and Wolgast. The fight will take place in the ball park Sept. 30, the same night that another fight is slated for the hippodrome. All papers were signed and forfeits posted tonight.

BURNS HURT; MAY QUIT ARENA.

Former Heavyweight Champion Injures His Right Leg in Lacrosse Game at Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 9.—As a result of injuries received on Labor day in a lacrosse game between Vancouver and New Westminster, Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, may retire from the ring.

Burns is supposed to be matched with Sam Langford for a bout in London in December, the winner to meet Jack Johnson later, either in England or Australia.

During the game on Monday Burns strained a tendon in his right knee. "My left knee has been bad for years as a result of an injury, but as long as my right leg was good I was all right," said Burns. "Now the right knee is gone. I will give it a trial, but if it does not come around I am through with pugilism. I have plenty of money and do not need to fight."

Lewis Given Awful Beating.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Dixie Kid, colored pugilist, who is the technical holder of the welterweight championship, beat Willie Lewis in a fierce ten round bout at the National Sporting club tonight. The bout went the limit, but Lewis came within an ace of suffering a knockout in the last round. In the middle of the last round the negro reached the point of the jaw with fearful right swings and Lewis was floored, and was in a groggy condition at the count of eight. When he got up the Kid tried to put him to sleep with a hurricane assault, but the white man blocked and hung on until the bell.

DEANS DIVIDE TROT HONORS

Father and Son Win Two of Three Races at Libertyville.

PATER DRIVES TO RECORD.

Pilots Tony Swift to 2:07½ Breaking the Former Mark of 2:09½.

BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.

The Deans, father and son, won two of the three harness races at Libertyville yesterday. Young Charlie started by winning the 2:25 trot with Miss Heir at Law, it being her second victory of the meeting. Her heats were 2:19¼, 2:18¼, 2:22¾, and she would have gone all the miles better than 2:20 had not Judge Phillips, the only serious contender in the field, made a break just after the word was given for the third heat which sent him far to the rear.

Miss Heir-at-Law, which has worked a half mile track better than 2:15, has several engagements in slow class purses yet to fill, and if she does not get a record under 2:15 will be ready for the mile tracks next season.

Father Pilots a Winner.

After approving the reinsmanship displayed by his son, the elder Dean brought out Tony Swift for the free for all pace, and, after winning the opening heat in 2:09¾ decided to give the stallion a stiff workout for his race at Milwaukee next week. In doing this he stepped him two miles in 2:08¼, 2:07½, the final half of the third mile being done in 1:02½. This is the track record, displacing 2:09¼. The other starters were Nilmah and Scott Patchen, but neither had a chance against the black horse, which was good yesterday and is likely to lower his record of 2:05¼ this week.

The other harness event was a 2:20 pace and first money went to Calva Dare, which won in straight heats, 2:16¼, 2:17¼, and 2:20. Admiral Sampson, well driven, made a good fight for the first two miles, but in the third the position went to Patchen Lass, which came with a great rush after being interfered with and sent to a break. Harris driving a fine finish.

Running Race to McDale.

The running race, a mile dash, went to McDale, which had won the other two races offered during the week for thoroughbreds. He led all the way, Tulip never losing second place. The time was 1:46⅕. Summaries:

UHLAN GOES MILE AT SPEEDY CLIP

Billings Drives Gelding in 2:01¼ in Effort to Break Record of 2:01.

WAGON PULLED BY HORSE

Performance Considered Best of Career, as Conditions Are Not Favorable.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Uhlan, C. K. G. Billings' great trotting gelding, which holds the world's record to wagon and sulky, failed in an effort to break his mark to wagon today, the event being the feature of the grand circuit races at the Charter Oak park. Uhlan, however, showed one of the speediest performances of his career, his time being 2:01¼, which is one-fourth of a second slower than the world's record established by the gelding at Cleveland, O., on Aug. 9 last.

In the exhibition today Uhlan was driven by Owner Billings, who displayed clever reinsmanship. The gelding was paced by a side runner and was without the aid of a wind shield. The time of 2:01¼ sets a new track record, the former mark of 2:04¾ having been held by Hamburg Belle.

Conditions Not Favorable.

All things considered the performance of Uhlan today is considered the best of his career. When the gelding trotted to wagon in 2:01 and to sulky in 1:58¾ at Cleveland the track conditions were decidedly more favorable than those here, for the under surface of the course was soft owing to the heavy rains early in the week. A strong wind also swept the course.

Uhlan showed magnificent form in the mile today. As the horses turned into the stretch the runner found it difficult to maintain the lead, and as Uhlan passed under the wire a great cheer arose from the grandstand. When the time was flashed the enthusiasm increased and owner Billings was cheered. The time by quarters was: 0:30¾, 1:00½, 1:32½, 2:01¼.

The other feature was the breaking of the track record by Harvester in the free for all trot. The Harvester won in straight heats, the time in the second and final heat being 2:03, which broke the track record of 2:04¾, made by Hamburg Belle.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

BY HEK.

IN ADVANCE OF THE NEWS, THIS ONE.

Here's one you shall get when the young men who make things happen in the great national pastime get around to it—one that will be "released in Cincinnati" or some other depot of advanced baseball thought, where dreams are materialized. We do not claim that it is true; we leave that to the persons to whom it belongs and who will claim it, by right of discovery. This peep under the curtain will not spoil it. Such being the case, a little attention, please:

It is stated on excellent authority that there is a movement on foot in the inner circles to transfer the American league franchises of Detroit and Cleveland to Pittsburg and Cincinnati, respectively. This will be done primarily, it is said, to make the two big league circuits more compact and secondarily to head off the invasion of Pittsburg and Cincinnati by a third league or by the expansion of the American association and the long threatened gerrymander in that body. The mooted plan would throw Detroit and Cleveland into the American association, sufficiently amplifying that circuit. It is not known at present what towns are to be dropped, contemplatively, but St. Paul and Columbus are the ones most likely to have their franchises shifted.

One who is very close to Garry Herrmann said that that magnate would welcome an American league club to Cincinnati and probably would take some stock in it. Cincinnati, with its open Sunday, can stand two major league teams, as well as one major and one minor, and the latter is bound to come sooner or later if the gap is not stopped. Pittsburg is in the same category, barring, of course, the Sunday license.

It will be remembered that when Barney Dreyfus, etc., announced, etc., etc., and that Herrmann, and so forth and so on. Ban Johnson and Comiskey, when approached on the subject, smiled knowingly and more by actions than by words gave out the impression that there was something doing. Detroit and Cleveland, etc., etc., while Pittsburg and Cincinnati, and so forth and so on. As for Chicago——

O, yea, you shall get it, we can promise you that. You will be eating it up between now and Christmas. When you do, will you kindly recall this intimation? Of course you will. That's a dear.

B——Y—L——R.

It is pleasant to have the money,
 Not questioning whence it comes;
It's pleasant to know you've got it
 In large and juicy sums.
It is pleasant to have it get you
 The things you think you need;
It's pleasant to touch the button
 And make your will a deed.
It is pleasant to feel the sinews
 And know that they're good and strong;
It's pleasant to make men serve you—
 But it's h—— when you don't belong!

Our Mr. Page, while modestly recording the fact that the Snohomish athletes got but one hit off him, or from him, or out of him, whichever is the form, candidly tempers his achievement by admitting that he beaned four in a row. Hence it is:

H. Orville [Pat] Page
 Did Snohomish engage
In a game that was played with a vim;
 And when it was o'er
 You could see by the score
He hit more of them than hit him.

Mr. Kling, of course, lends himself naturally as the vortex of a new sensation.

Has anybody taken the trouble to inquire into the previous condition of servitude of this Mr. Fletcher? Isn't that one of the essentials, or can he project himself into the picture from any angle he chooses to assume, provided he is able to talk glibly in seven figures?

Hunch for scouts: Look out for young players who are afflicted with cyclitis of the right eye. Ty Cobb comes in that form.

Twitting upon choking on mustard seed and swallowing cocoanuts with the hair on, wading into the substance and shying at the shadow and all that sort of thing, what is your judgment on the Milwaukee authorities fostering the real thing and putting the kibosh on the pictures? Doesn't it remind you of that one about the fellow who croaked a laborer for his dinner and then refrained from eating it because of religious scruples?

Attel and White Matched.

Abe Attel and Charlie White yesterday were matched by the Badger A. C. of Milwaukee to box ten rounds at catchweights in the Cream City on Sept. 16.

SAYS CLOSED SHOP OUT OF QUESTION

Chicago and Joliet Electric Officers Stand Pat on Union Matters.

ARGUE WAGE DISPUTE.

Settling of Miners' Strike Will Bring Increase in Coal Prices, Say Operators.

A refusal by officials of the Chicago and Joliet electric line to arbitrate the question of a "closed shop" on that road marked the hearing yesterday of the wage dispute between the employés and the company. The hearing was held in Chief Justice Harry Olson's courtroom in the Municipal court building.

The arbitration board is made up of Clayton E. Crafts, representing the company; Attorney Jacob C. LeBosky, representing the employés; and Judge Olson, umpire.

"Closed Shop" Brings Talk.

W. D. Mahon, international president of the street car men's union, presented the case of the employés. He read each section of the proposed new agreement, and when the "closed shop" section was reached he was interrupted by C. L. S. Tingley of Philadelphia, vice president of the company.

"We will absolutely not arbitrate that proposition," said he. "The company will not permit outsiders to dictate whether we shall employ union or nonunion men. We agree not to discriminate, but that agreement covers both union and nonunion men."

The men ask for a general increase of 3 cents an hour, the present scale being from 24 to 27 cents an hour.

Miners Resume Work Today.

The new contract between the Illinois Coal Operators' association and the Illinois miners was signed yesterday and today a large number of the men who have been idle during the last five months will return to work.

A raise in prices of bituminous coal probably will come within a few weeks as a result of the higher wages given the men and the increased cost of production due to expensive safety appliances and fire fighting apparatus. It was said the price will be boosted 10 or 12 cents a ton.

JACKSON PARK OPEN REGATTA ON AQUATIC PROGRAM TODAY.

Boat Owners of Local Organizations to Compete—Illinois Picked to Win the Cloarec Trophy.

Boat owners of the Chicago, Columbia, and Jackson park yacht clubs are looking forward to some good sport this afternoon when members of the last named organization are to run an open regatta in which the best racers in the local fleets are expected to compete. The regatta committees of the two big downtown clubs have left the date on their calendars open and will endeavor to make the fixture of the Jackson parkers one of the most successful of the season.

Three important cups are to be raced for in addition to a long list of other prizes. The Cloarec cup is the prize for boats of the thirty-five foot class, and Roy Barcal's Illinois of the Chicago Yacht club, which already has two legs on the French trophy, is expected to have an easy time in making it three straight.

The Behnetts cup will be competed for by winners of the class races during the season. Those eligible are Wenonah of the twenty-five foot class, Susan II. of the twenty-one foot cabin class and Thetis of the thirty foot class. The fourth race for the Keefer cup, also will take place between the twenty footers.

I. C. OFFICIALS DEAF TO TIPS ON GRAFT

Former Car Company Bookkeeper Says He Tried to Expose Conditions in 1907.

CALLED ON THREE MEN.

Asserts Moore, Krebs, and Renshaw Scorned Information How to Save $30,000 a Month.

Fruitless endeavors as long ago as 1907 to inform the Illinois Central railroad of the huge losses it was sustaining in its bills for car repair work done at the plant of the Ostermann Manufacturing company were described before Judge Bruggemeyer yesterday during the graft hearing by Fred C. Peck, former bookkeeper at the Ostermann plant.

The witness, who was discharged from his position under orders of Henry C. Ostermann because he was "too wise," told of having visited C. W. Moore, auditor of disbursements of the Illinois Central; Conrad F. Krebs, controller of the road; and William Renshaw, superintendent of machinery, for the purpose of informing them of the grafting methods practiced at the plant. None of the officials paid any attention to him.

To each of these officials, whom the witness said he was able to see only after repeated attempts, he said:

"If I can explain to you how you can save $30,000 a month on your car repair bills will the information be of any use to you?" The invariable reply was that the road was not seeking information.

Officials Refused His Tips.

These conversations took place within a month after he had been discharged from the Ostermann plant, after observing that the bills were almost uniformly padded.

"I went to see Mr. Moore at his office," the witness testified, "three times before I was able to find him at liberty. He declined to go into details with me and only said: 'You want to see Mr. Krebs.' I asked Krebs the same question. He said: 'We have a large force of men who look after such matters and I don't think your information is of any use to us.'

"I then went to see Mr. Renshaw. I called three times before I saw him. He said that he had a large corps of men who knew all that was necessary for them to know about car repairs and that he didn't think my information would lead to anything. He said that no one outside of the railroad was in a position to show them anything about it."

The witness said that he also had tried to see the general manager, Frank B. Harriman, one of the defendants, but failed. Moore is still with the road. Renshaw, shown to have been a stockholder in the Ostermann and other repair companies, left the road over two years ago and Controller Krebs resigned on Dec. 1.

Shows How Bills Are Padded.

Mr. Peck read into the record a long list of the fictitious items added to bills after he had made the original extensions and footings. He said the additions were made by C. H. Polley, chief clerk, and E. H. Ward, who afterward became secretary and treasurer of the Memphis Car company.

He identified the items that were added by his labor saving system of making a dot in the blank spaces after he had footed up a bill in order to avoid the necessity of adding it again. As an illustration of the method, the bill for Illinois Central coal car 92293 contained the following items the witness said had been added by Ward after the original bill had been footed and O. K.'d:

1 American coupler	$8.25
2 coupler pockets	3.00
4 rivets	.42
2 draft gears	9.00
1 coupler	8.25
2 angle irons	2.80
2 air hose	4.00
3 lever carriers	1.80
2 carrier irons	2.03

"We almost always added air hose, which cost $2 apiece," said the witness. He explained that some of the small items such as rivets, were inserted because a coupler had to have rivets and they were added to make the charge consistent."

Under cross examination he said:

Puts "Footings" in Pencil.

"I was aware that Polley, Ostermann and Ward were adding items to the bills, and so I wrote my footings in black lead pencil instead of indelible pencil, because I didn't like to see erasures on the bills."

"You knew they were making false bills and that you were aiding them by fixing the bills so it would not show?" asked Attorney S. N. Hoover, for the defense.

"Yes," was the witness' reply.

Peck said he had first become acquainted with Ostermann when the latter called at his house one night to sell him some mining stock. Later Ostermann had offered him a position as bookkeeper at $25 a week. When he visited the plant before going to work he had found J. M. Taylor, general storekeeper of the road, talking with Ostermann. Later Ostermann had told him:

"Don't say anything about it, but we expect to get three cars of material from Burnside. I don't think we will ever have to pay for it. I think the cars will be lost."

Attorney Hoover tried to show that Peck was being rewarded by the Illinois Central by a position, and had been promised a reward later. Peck said he had been employed by the road since June 1, at $80 a month.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday at 1:30 p. m.

Miss Minnie L. Larsen, once employed as a stenographer by the Ostermann concern, was in court in response to a subpoena, but after being questioned by Attorneys Fisher and Murry Nelson, Jr., she was allowed to go without testifying. To all questions asked privately by the lawyers she replied, "I don't remember."

WEEKLY EXPORTS LARGEST OF YEAR

Shipments of Wheat from All Countries Are Close to Record Figures.

FROSTS ARE PREDICTED.

Corn Fails to Show Much Improvement, Although Cash Sales Show Big Gain.

For a time wheat showed a much stronger tone yesterday, but on an advance early there was a renewal of selling pressure which broke the market, and the close was at the lowest point on the present downturn. An estimate of 17,100,000 world's shipments for the week, with lower cables and bearish advices from Liverpool, were the main factors. Buying was principally by the shorts and there was not much if any increase in public buying.

In the early trade there was fair commission house buying around $1.00, which absorbed the offerings, and when local shorts tried to cover they were obliged to bid prices up quite a little. Final quotations were ⅜@½c lower. Commission house advices were a little more friendly to the buying side of the market, especially as prices have had a 4c break.

If the estimates of world's shipments are verified by actual figures the exports for the week will be close to a record. The total expected, 17,100,000 bu, compares with a high water mark made in November last year of 17,300,000 bu. Enormous shipments are expected from Russia and the Danube and Australia swelled the total with 1,696,000 bu, compared to 464,000 bu a year ago. The big shipments each week recently have changed the European situation to a great extent, much to the discouragement of the bulls.

Liverpool Much Lower.

Liverpool reflected the prospective big exports by closing 1d lower. Continental markets were without much feature. Paris was unchanged to ½c higher; Berlin, 1½c up; Antwerp, ⅝c lower; and Budapest unchanged. A sharp increase in on passage supplies of breadstuffs is expected. Argentine shipments were 1,120,000 bu and from North America they were 1,511,000 bu.

The milling demand showed moderate improvement and there were sales here of 100,000 bu, mostly No. 2 hard and spring wheat for shipment to mills. Eastern buyers are taking more interest and there was a little nibbling by exporters reported. St. Louis quoted cash prices 1c higher.

The primary receipts for the day were 1,308,000 bu, compared to 1,459,000 bu a year ago, and arrivals in the northwest, as expected, are running much smaller than a year ago. Total northwest arrivals were 498 cars, compared to 979 cars a year ago.

The Minneapolis cash market was a little firmer and there was a moderate milling demand reported. Local receipts were 123 cars, with 142 cars estimated for today. Armour, Barrell, Peavey, and Slaughter were the leading sellers of wheat. Bartlett-Frazier, Rosean, Peavey, Comstock, Wagner, Ware-Leland, and Jackson Bros. were buyers on the breaks. Local shorts bought early but were free sellers again near the close.

Big Corn Charters Made.

While corn traders were nervous throughout the session there was not so much excitement as expected, the frosts in the northwest and predictions of more throughout the corn belt being less of a market factor than looked for. Prices finished ⅛@¼c higher. Opening quotations were sharply higher, but commission house selling forced the market down nearly 1c, after which there was a sharp recovery, and in the last half hour of the session there was a fairly steady tone at a small advance.

Frosts were predicted for nearly all the big corn states. Cash sales also were heavy at 510,000 bu, and charters were made for 1,000,000 bu. This indicated a better demand. About half of the corn sold was for export, and export sales were reported also at Baltimore and New York. Peoria reported a big demand for corn.

Receipts here were 571 cars, with 547 cars the estimate for today. Primary points had 778,000 bu, compared to 571,000 bu a year ago. Cables were unchanged at the close. Exports for the week were 276,000 bu, against 83,000 bu a year ago. Argentine shipped 3,561,000 bu.

Few Changes in Oats.

Oats finished a shade lower for the September, while the other months were a small fraction firmer. The market took its tone from corn, but was draggy at best, and there was little outside of some covering by shorts. Receipts are expected to continue large, and the cash demand is not keen. Sales for the day were 195,000 bu. Cash prices were not much changed. Receipts here were 159 cars, with 180 cars the estimate for today. Western arrivals were 506,000 bu, compared to 586,000 bu a year ago. Charters were made for 500,000 bu to Buffalo.

Hog Run Is Small.

The prospect for a small run of hogs in the near future with the light receipts at all points caused a brisk market at the yards with prices much higher. This was reflected in a stronger market for provisions. Cudahy interests were credited with buying and there was a moderate demand from the shorts. Schultz and Schwabacher were buyers early. Logan and Wrenn were fair sellers of lard.

Western receipts of hogs were 29,900, compared to the small run a year ago of 35,500. Local arrivals were 10,000 with 7,000 the estimate for today. Cash trade was reported fairly active.

Flaxseed Is 9 Cents Higher.

Flaxseed was 9c higher. No. 1 northwestern closed at $2.84; No. 1 from the northwest, $2.81, and No. 1 southwestern, $2.72. Receipts were 6 cars. Duluth was 9@10c higher. September closed $2.83; October, $2.72, and November, $2.72. Receipts were 2 cars. Minneapolis was 11c higher with cash on track selling $2.81. Receipts were 18 cars.

Timothy seed was firm. September closed at $9.75 nominal; October, $9.75, and March, $9.75. October clover seed closed $15.50 bid and $16.00 asked, and March sold at $16.60.

Rye was unchanged. September closed at 76c asked; December, 74c bid and 76c asked. No. 2 sold at 73½@74c; No. 3, 65@72c, and No. 4, 55@65c. Receipts were estimated at 3 cars.

Barley was steady to 1c higher. Malting was offered at 62@70c; mixing, 50@60c, and screenings, 30@45c. September barley closed at 69c bid and 70c asked, and October 69c asked. Receipts were estimated at 30 cars.

LATE WALL STREET NEWS AND GOSSIP.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Some comment has been aroused over the appearance of the item in St. Paul's balance sheet for June 30, 1910, entitled "Installments of European loan of 1910," and amounting to $14,635,630. This is the formal title of the issue of bonds, $50,000,000 in all, recently underwritten by a French banking syndicate—the 4 per cent fifteen year European loan of 1910. The banking syndicate is under agreement to pay for the bonds in installments. Up to June 30 the amount shown in the balance sheet had been paid, but since that time the syndicate has paid to the St. Paul about $18,000,000 more, making the total thus far received by the railroad about $32,000,000. Temporary certificates for $50,000,000 are in the hands of the French bankers, who will return them for cancellation upon receipt of certificates now in the printer's hands.

Rumors that the General Motors company has sold a $5,000,000 issue of 5 per cent notes of the Buick company at 85 to a syndicate of New York bankers are denied in quarters well informed on automobile financing. Arrangements have been made by the General Motors company with its bankers in several cities to consolidate and extend its present credit for one year, also to issue new capital about $1,000,000, if needed. About $2,600,000 in notes have been given by the company to secure the banks in this arrangement, stocks of the General Motors' subsidiaries being deposited as collateral. It is denied that New York banks have participated in the arrangements.

In line with other industrials the business of the Standard Oil company shows slight falling off as compared with last month. However, the net profits of the company continue in excess of $80,000,000 a year, an amount more than double dividend requirements. No change in dividends is anticipated until the Supreme court hands down its decision. In the meantime the Standard Oil company is adding more than $40,000,000 a year to its surplus.

It is announced that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company has purchased 9,000 tons of 85-pound steel rails from the Lackawanna Steel company, at the regular price of $28 a ton. These rails are to be used in connection with new branches that are being built by the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railway company, which needs rails for about ninety miles of new track now being constructed. It may be stated that the St. Paul is not in the market for rails for next year's use.

Probably no better illustration of the present market apathy and lack of enthusiasm in financial affairs could be found than the manner in which the stocks of the Pennsylvania and Long Island have signalized the opening of the East River tunnels. The Pennsylvania has reflected no interest at all in the event and has ruled practically unchanged and in spite of all that the improvements will mean, only 100 shares of Long Island were dealt in at 64½, as compared with a low price for the year of 60.

NEWS NOTES OF FINANCIAL WORLD.

The British Columbia Copper company reports net revenue from August operations at $32,500, against $11,918 in July. Copper production for July was 574,172 pounds; gold, 1,960 ounces; silver, 6,623 ounces. The total for 1910 up to July 31 (no May operations) was 3,562,399 pounds of copper, 11,332 ounces of gold, 39,808 ounces of silver.

One of the furnaces has just been enlarged to a daily capacity of 2,000 tons of ore daily, indicating 50 per cent greater efficiency at the smelter with no appreciable cost increase. After crediting gold and silver values the cost of copper production during August was 7.7 cents a pound, this with only two furnaces in operation.

With the exception of the American Sheet and Tinplate company's tin mill most of the plants of the United States Steel corporation are working on short schedules, closing the last two days of each week. The curtailment is particularly noticeable in the finishing plants. Sheet and tinplate is, however, working at full capacity, and is far behind in orders. Three of the steel corporation's four stacks are in operation. Five of the nine merchant furnaces in the Sharon valley are out of blast.

The Chesapeake and Ohio offices are now at work on the budget for the 1911 fiscal year, and it is expected large rail orders will be given in the fall. Last year the road laid 158 miles of rail, all renewals. It is now receiving 3,500 freight cars ordered last year, giving it an inventory of about 41,500 cars, against 35,000 in June, 1909. The addition of at least 25 new engines to the present inventory of 700 is expected soon.

The second installment of 50 cents a share on the Davis-Daly Copper company stock is payable on or before Sept. 20. The transfer books of the company will be closed Sept. 15, reopening Sept. 30.

The scheduled curtailment by southern cotton mills, in effect since July 1, ends this week. The little improvement noted in the past two weeks would indicate further curtailment, though that which has been in effect has amounted to about 50 per cent aggregate among hard and soft yarn mills, much the heaviest in the history of the industry.

Directors of the Guaranty Trust company of New York have decided to cancel the 2,437 shares of the Fifth Avenue Trust company, formerly owned by the Morton Trust company. In place of this stock the Guaranty is to issue 1,218½ shares of its own stock, which will be offered to shareholders of record Sept. 14, at $800 per share.

August incorporations in Massachusetts numbered eighty, against seventy-eight a year ago, total capital amounting to $3,503,900, against $5,069,700. The month was the lowest thus far in 1910. Total for eight months is 873 companies, with $49,185,500 capital, against 927 with $47,404,900 in 1909.

In spite of the decrease of 3,215,000 bales of cotton marketed the past season, better prices produced an increase in value of $95,000,000 more. The value of the crop was $778,894,095, that of the cottonseed products $124,000,000, making the actual capacity record of $902,894,005.

It is announced that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company has purchased 9,000 tons of eighty-five pound steel rails from the Lackawanna Steel company, at the regular price of $28 per ton.

N. W. Halsey & Co. of Chicago have purchased $20,000 Billings, Mont., 5 per cent fifteen to twenty year option bonds, which are being offered on a 4.7 per cent basis.

Owing to the ill health of W. A. Mason, the business of W. A. Mason & Co. has been taken over by A. B. Leach & Co.

The application for the right to organize the First National bank of St. Peter, Ill., capital $25,000, has been granted.

The preliminary estimate of Reading's anthracite tonnage during August is 816,000 tons, against 782,086 last year.

TRADE AND CROPS PROSPER

Secretary Wilson Reports on the West and Northwest.

AFTER TWO MONTHS' TOUR.

Says People Are Making Money and Appear Contented.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—"Business and agricultural conditions throughout the west and northwest are notably prosperous. The crops this year scarcely will be bumper crops, in the ordinary sense of that term, but they will be large."

This statement was made today by Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, who returned today from an extensive trip, consuming practically two months, through the country west of the Mississippi river.

"The corn crop will be made now within a couple of weeks," continued Mr. Wilson. "Recently the weather conditions have been very favorable, and if frost should hold off two weeks longer the crop will be a good average, although, as I said, not a bumper.

People Well Satisfied.

"People throughout the sections which I visited are well satisfied with conditions. They are making money and are contented with general business conditions."

"How about political conditions?" he was asked.

"Well, you will have to judge of that for yourself," said the secretary. "I know no more of politics than I see in the newspapers. My mission this summer was one of business, of agriculture, and of forests. It was in no sense political.

"Altogether, I have had a pretty strenuous summer—quite strenuous enough without the injection of politics into my troubles."

Official Report for August.

In a general review of the crop conditions throughout the country, the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture says:

"The month of August was favorable for crops in general, taking the United States as a whole, the deterioration during the month being about 0.6 per cent, whereas there is an average decline in August of 3.3 per cent.

"Aggregate crop conditions in the United States on Sept. 1 (or at time of harvest) were about 0.4 per cent lower than on the corresponding date a year ago and 2.8 per cent lower than the average condition on Sept. 1 (or at time of harvest) of the past ten years. The area under cultivation is about 3.2 per cent more than last year.

"The condition of various crops in the United States on Sept. 1, or at time of harvest (100 representing for each crop, not its normal condition, but its average condition on Sept. 1, or at time of harvest, with a ten year average for most crops) was as follows:

Peaches [production], 113.1; winter wheat [yield per acre], 110.5; oats, 104.8; cabbages, 104.4; hops, 102.6; rye [yield to the acre], 101.8; cranberries, 99.6; cotton, 98.9; corn, 98.4; hemp, 98.3; sweet potatoes, 98.2; sugar cane, 97.6; cantaloupes, 97.5; sorghum, 97.1; oranges, 97.1; watermelons, 97.0; onions, 96.3; tomatoes, 95.5; Kaffir corn, 95.0; buckwheat, 94.6; tobacco, 94.4; sugar beets, 94.1; hay [yield to the acre], 93.1; alfalfa, 92.9; potatoes, 88.2; grapes, 87.7; millet, 86.6; apples, 86.6; barley, 84.0; spring wheat, 80.9; flaxseed, 55.8.

"The number of stock hogs in the United States on Sept. 1 is estimated as 100.3 per cent of the number of Sept. 1, 1909.

SPOT SALMON MAKES AN EXIT

Local Jobber Buys Last Alaska Red Lot from a Broker.

NEW PACK NOW AWAITED.

First Shipments Expected to Reach Chicago About Oct. 1.

Spot red Alaska salmon made an exit from the local market this week when a jobber bought the last lot from brokers' hands at a price which made it necessary for him to advance the retail price to $1.95 per dozen in order to realize a legitimate profit, an increase of 20c in the retail quotation previously in effect.

This is but an instance of the salmon situation, which cannot be relieved until the new pack comes into market, about Oct. 1 or 10. Cohoes and medium reds cannot be bought at all and the first cohoes of the 1910 pack are not due to arrive until the middle of November. Practically every jobber is out of this line of salmon and there is but little left of Alaska reds in the hands of the jobbing trade. Cheap salmon will be a thing of the past—for another year, at least, under existing conditions, the new pack coming into a bare market and then being much shorter than usual.

New Corn May Be Spotted.

Samples of new pack standard corn, which have been received in the local market this week, indicate that this season's quality will not be as good as that of last year. The pack promises to be spotted, judging from the samples, some being excellent while others are off color and of hard kernel, showing the effects of the dry weather during the latter part of the season. Quotations are 12½c higher than the opening prices named by leading packers. Peaches and seedless raisins remain firm, but there have been no advances in the local market during the week. Choice orchard run peaches were boosted ¼c on the coast this week, the new quotable figure being 6⅝c.

Fruits.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—EVAPORATED APPLES—Firmly held, with fancy quoted at 10¼@11c; choice at 8¾@9½c; prime at 8@8¼c; common to fair at 6@7½c. Supplies of prunes on the coast are comparatively small and firmly held, but demand is quiet, and it is reported that there has been some reselling at slight concessions. Quotations range from 3¼@10c for California fruit up to 30-40c and from 5@9½c for Oregons. APRICOTS—Unchanged; choice, 10½@11½c; extra choice, 11¼@12¼c; fancy, 12@13½c. PEACHES—Steady; choice, 7@7½c; extra choice, 7¼@7¾c; fancy, 8@8½c. RAISINS—Remain firm, with loose muscatels quoted at 3¼@5½c; choice to fancy seeded at 5@6¼c; seedless, 4½@5¼c; London layers, $1.20@1.25.

Coffee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—COFFEE—Futures opened steady at an advance of 5 points on September, but generally 5@16 points lower under realizing and in response to a sharp break in the French market. Selling was probably inspired by rumors of rain in the droughty sections of Brazil and a consequent improvement in new crop prospects, but there seemed no lack of buyers on a scale down, and while there were further declines during the day, the market closed steady at a net loss of 10@20 points. It was a holiday in Brazil yesterday, and there was no official confirmation of the reported rains. Sales reported of 77,500 bags. Quotations:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous close.
September	8.40	8.40	8.40	8.40	8.20
November	8.50	8.50	8.50	8.50	8.50
December	8.60	8.60	8.45	8.45	8.55
March	8.65	8.65	8.54	8.54	8.65
May	8.65	8.65	8.56	8.58	8.74
July	8.66	8.66	8.65	8.65	8.75

Sugar.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—SUGAR—Raw steady; Muscovado, 89 test, 3.86c; centrifugal, 96 test, 4.36c; molasses sugar, 89 test, 3.61c. Refined sugar steady.

RECORD MARK SET FOR LINSEED OIL

Board of Trade Price Advances to $1, Highest in History of Trade.

RESULT OF A SHORT CROP.

Flaxseed Yield for Season Is Expected to Be Below Market's Requirements.

Raw linseed oil, which comprises two-thirds the composition of paint, reached the highest point in its history yesterday, closing at $1.00 on the Chicago board of trade, an advance of 58 cents over the high point of September last year, when oil sold at 42 cents.

The record price previous to this year was 68 cents in December, 1909. In January, 1910, linseed oil began the upward tendency that resulted in 77 cents being attained as the high point for the month.

The real movement that brought about the dollar price, however, started this month, reacing a climax when government crop reports, made public on Thursday, showed a flaxseed crop condition of 48.3, indicating a crop of 16,477,000 bu, or nearly 15,000,000 less than requirements. Some experts predict the final crop will not exceed 15,000,000 bu.

Increased cost of linseed oil has already resulted in an advance in the price of ready mixed paint from $1.65 to $1.75 since the beginning of the year, but paint manufacturers declare this is not in proportion to the increased cost of linseed oil and a further boost may be anticipated.

Expect Even Higher Price.

Men who are conversant with the situation predict that the cost of raw linseed oil will not stop at $1.00, although the prediction of $1.00 oil made earlier in the season was regarded as radical. They base their assumption on the fact that on Aug. 1, 1910, the government estimate of the crop condition was for a yield of 18,250,000 bu, which was reduced 2,000,000 bu by the estimate of Sept. 1. The acreage was considerably greater this season than last, but unfavorable weather conditions caused a shortage of over 50 per cent in the crop.

Aroused to action by conditions confronting their trade through the reduced yield of flaxseed in the face of a continually growing demand for their output, paint manufacturers at a meeting in Cleveland six weeks ago formulated plans for starting an educational movement among the farmers for the purpose of encouraging the raising of this crop.

It is proposed to take the matter up with the secretary of agriculture and the agricultural commissioners of the different states in which flaxseed is grown.

Not Favorite Among Farmers.

Flaxseed is generally regarded by farmers as a crop for breaking the soil, but is regarded as bad for the land after the first crop.

In Ireland, where labor is cheap, the flaxseed straw is treated to form a fiber from which linen is made, but in America the farmers regard it as waste and a considerable item of revenue is lost. Machines have been invented which it is declared will convert the straw into fiber. To enlighten the farmer and make the growing of flaxseed more profitable is the plan of the paint manufacturers.

Although flaxseed is regarded as high, the yield this season will not average more than 2 to 6 bu an acre, as against an average yield of 5 to 8 bu. The normal price of flaxseed is $1.35 per bu, while it is now quoted at $2.84. In July of this year September flaxseed could have been bought for $2.13.

Bins Empty This Season.

Ordinarily there is a carryover of seed, but this season opened with no seed in the bins. This is the season of the year when the paint manufacturer contracts for as much of his supply of linseed oil as he can secure. Paint manufacturing is carried on in the winter, the biggest sales coming in the spring of the year.

According to statistics published recently in the Paint, Oil and Drug Review, the flaxseed crop for 1909-10 was 19,265,000 bushels as against 21,500,000 bushels for the previous year. The highest yield was in the year 1902-'3, when 32,000,000 bushels were raised.

A table for 15 years shows that there has been a gradual falling off in the yield in proportion to growing requirements. A table for this year shows the low and high points of the differnt months as follows: January, 73-77; February, 72-74; March, 74-79; April, 79-83; May, 79-83; June, 70-80; July, 75-85; August, 85-88.

"GIFTS" TO N. Y. LEGISLATOR PLACED IN BANK FOR HIM.

Kindness of "Interests" to Former Senator Goodsell Is Revealed by Testimony at Graft Inquiry.

New York, Sept. 9.—The novel experience of having thousands of dollars deposited to his credit by street railway interests, which, as testified before the investigation committee of the legislature, had been enjoyed by former Assemblyman Bedell, was shared by former Senator Goodsell of Orange county, according to evidence produced at today's hearing.

Extracts from the books of the brokerage firm of Ellingwood & Cunningham showed that in less than five years the former senator had $24,800 placed to his credit and at least $13,300 of this amount was furnished by officials of the Metropolitan Street Railway company of this city and the New York State Street Railway association.

Mr. Goodsell was placed on the stand but did not occupy it long enough to explain the intricacies of Ellingwood & Cunningham's bookkeeping. He admitted, however, having purchased 100 shares of New York Transportation company stock on the day the bill granting that company extraordinary franchise privileges was passed.

Before Mr. Goodsell could be asked as to his other stock transactions, all of which appeared by the evidence to have been conducted without margin, the committee took an adjournment until next Wednesday.

District Attorney Whitman issued a statement, after a conference with N. Lynn Bruce, counsel for the committee, in which he declared that unless Leonard S. Bache, of J. S. Bache & Co., brokers and bankers, should notify him by Monday of willingness to produce books required of him by the committee, his arrest would folow and an indictment would be sought against him.

On advice of counsel, Mr. Bache refused to obey a subpœna from the committee ordering him to bring his firm's books before the committee.

ELECTRIC INQUIRY IS ENDING.

Report Upon Alleged Trust Will Be Laid Before Department of Justice in Near Future.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Investigation of the so-called "electrical trust," popularly supposed to be the General Electric and the Westinghouse companies, has been partially completed by agents of the department of justice. The report of the investigation will be laid before William S. Kenyon when he returns to Washington.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Cash wheat men are not so bearish as a rule as they were a few days ago and several of the best posted men in the trade look for a decided improvement in the milling demand in the next week or so. Buyers have been deterred from buying by the continually drooping markets, but it is claimed as soon as the market shows signs of steadying there will be liberal buying.

Chicago is relatively by far the cheapest market for cash wheat in the country. It has also the largest stock of wheat, so that naturally on the development of any important demand buyers would come here. Sales were 100,000 bu for the day, mostly hard winter and spring wheat. Outside markets were firm and St. Louis was 1c higher.

Cash sales of corn yesterday were 510,000 bu, about 300,000 bu of which was said to have been for export. This indication of a better demand, with the fact that charters were made for 1,000,000 bu corn to Buffalo, suggested a material change for the better in the cash situation. The local sample market was not much changed as to price, but there was less corn offered.

In addition to the larger sales here Baltimore reported a brisk export inquiry, with sales of two cargoes of 100,000 bu each the last two days. The corn sold at that point was No. 3 yellow. New York wired that foreigners were taking a little corn all the time. Peoria reported Baltimore and the east buying corn in that market, while offerings from the country had fallen off sharply.

C. A. Kink & Co. of Toledo wired: "Government report on clover seed as wired to us makes the clover seed condition of the United States 78 against 76 a year ago, and 90 two years ago. Ohio is 63 against 57 a year ago, Indiana 71 vs. 60, Michigan 79 vs. 66, Illinois 84 vs. 72, Missouri 90 vs. 80, Iowa 83 vs. 70, Wisconsin 77 vs. 75, Kentucky 80 vs. 80, Minnesota 65. Acreage United States 118 per cent of year ago. Decrease in stocks of old seed more than offset the increased acreage."

Jacques Hermant and Viscount Simon de la Ruppelle, and Mr. Hermant's son, all of Paris, were on the floor yesterday. Mr. Hermant is one of the leading architects of Paris and Viscount de la Ruppelle is secretary of the Société Generale, one of the leading banks of Paris, second in size to the Credit Lyonnaise. They are in this country for the purpose of studying the construction of bank vaults in the leading financial institutions.

O. K. Lyle, crop expert for Chapin & Co., makes the following deductions in regard to the corn crop: "September figures, on the average of five years, suggest 2,937,000,000 bushels. Extremes in the average 3,050,000,000, and 2,882,000,000 bus. August figuration was for 2,889,722,000, with extremes 3,103,057,000 and 2,731,147,000 bu. Taking ten years, the suggestion is for 2,885,000,000 bu. My guess is for 3,000,000,000 bu."

Clement-Curtis had the following report from Findley, Ill.: "It has been wet the past two weeks and every rain that comes is all the worse for corn. Shelby county will not be safe from frost by the first of October. Corn has never been as green in this section as it is this year. From here to Decatur have only seen one field that shows signs of ripening."

More oats from the local stocks will soon be moved east. Charters were made yesterday for 500,000 bu. Cash prices were about steady. Cash sales here were 195,000 bu.

A letter from the Morris Grain company of Morris, Ill., to J. A. Edwards said that the outlook in that section was for a crop of fair quantity but poor in quality. Of nine average fields of corn examined it was found that the percentage of barren stalks ranged from 20 to 48 in each of 100 stalks. This indicated an average of 28.55 per cent barren stalks. Much of the corn is late.

Bradstreet's reported the exports of wheat and flour and corn from both coasts for the week, with comparisons, as follows:

	Wheat and flour.	Corn.

Argentine shipments of grain and flaxseed this week, with comparisons, follow:

	Wheat.	Corn.	Oats.

Last year	91,320,000	64,560,000	34,908,000

Secretary of agriculture of Saskatchewan wires Snow: "Cutting wheat and oats completed and thrashing fully under way. Heavy rain and unsettled weather in south part of province, but fine in the north. There has been some slight frost damage, but general situation is entirely buoyant."

Modern Miller: "Recent general rains enable farmers in the few sections where lack of moisture hindered plowing, to finish this work, besides putting the soil in good condition to receive the seed. A full acreage will be seeded to winter wheat, which may exceed last year's acreage."

Frosts occurred in North and South Dakota and predictions were for frosts last night in eastern Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, northern Illinois and Indiana, and southern Michigan.

Peoria wired: "We sold all the corn we offered east last night. Also sold a large amount of oats. Country is selling nothing. Looks to us as though this cash demand will carry prices much higher."

Deliveries of September contracts were: Wheat, 57,000 bu; corn, 30,000 bu; oats, 95,000 bu; lard, 500 tcs; ribs, 50,000 lbs. Norris took in the wheat and Barrell the oats.

A delegation of oldtime telegraphers was escorted around the floor of the board of trade by some of the members who formerly were telegraphers.

Australian shipments of wheat this week were 1,696,000 bu compared with 446,000 last week, and 46,000 bu the corresponding week last year.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg were 193 cars compared with 180 cars last week and 407 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Bids on the call for grain to arrive were: wheat, ⅛c lower; corn, steady to 1c higher; oats, ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher; rye, unchanged.

Estimated receipts are: Wheat, 142 cars; corn, 547 cars; oats, 180 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 30 cars; hogs, 7,000 head.

Local millers reported a better demand for flour on the decline in wheat futures, and there were fair sales reported.

Arthur C. Groves, Arthur F. Lindley and James O. Hinkley have applied for membership on the board of trade.

Minneapolis stocks increased 835,000 bu for the week. Duluth gained 500,000 bu for five days.

SHIPPERS GET RATE FACTS

Drag from Roads, Wage Increase and Tariff Income Figures.

THEIR CASE STRENGTHENED.

Margin of Profit for Companies in Nearly Every Instance.

New York, Sept. 9.—Dissatisfied shippers of the north and east got some of the facts they have been asking for today when various railroad officials summoned before the interstate commerce commission, now in session here, compared the outgo for wage increases recently granted with the income from advanced freight rates. Almost uniformly the figures showed a margin of profit for the railroads.

E. D. Higgins, auditor of the Big Four, testified wage advances had added $910,549 to his payroll, and F. S. Mackenzie, chief clerk of freight statistics, gave the increase higher freight rates would have brought as $1,244,198.

W. H. Elmendorf, auditor of the Lake Erie and Western, gave corresponding figures as $153,045 for wage advances, and $283,606 for freight advances.

One Showing Favors Roads.

J. Landgraf, auditor of the Toledo and Ohio Central, broke the chain of progress. His books showed increased wages to the amount of $115,911 and increased receipts of only $71,758.

J. H. Holden, auditor of the Nickle Plate, gave increased wages of $288,115 and increased revenues of $690,025.

J. L. Minnis, counsel for the Wabash, estimated wage increases of $668,769 and added income of $812,879.

George M. Glasier, auditor of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad, said the wage increase as applied to the 1909 payroll of the Lake Shore would be $1,638,470. Mr. Glasier said he understood the proposed rate increases call for an addition of $1,950,000.

Mr. Brandeis called attention to the fact the Lake Shore last year had earned a surplus sufficient for a 12 per cent dividend and a balance of $5,718,000 and that many improvements had been paid for out of the earnings.

Commission to Sit Again Today.

Frank O. Waldo, auditor of the Michigan Central, told the commission if the wage scale now in effect had been applied to the 1909 pay roll the increase would have been $1,068,922. Thomas Edson, auditor of the freight receipts of the Michigan Central, gave as his estimate $1,797,415 as the increase in earnings over 1909 had the proposed increase in freight rates been in effect.

There was no statement for tonnage, wage increase, and revenue available from the New York Central today, but one is promised. The commission will sit again tomorrow.

The book is designed to bring the inquirer into immediate touch with any line of commerce or industry he may seek and to acquaint him with the representative houses or individuals in the particular line.

DRY GOODS TRADE IS BETTER

Business Has Shown Steady Improvement All Week.

PRICES PLEASE THE BUYERS.

Ginghams and Prints in Demand in New York.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Business this week has shown steady improvement, the orders placed having been larger than those last week. Buyers are not inclined to plunge, but at the same time have been covering actual requirements. Jobbers are sending forward orders of various sorts for prompt shipment, mostly on staple cotton goods, both colored and bleached.

Ginghams and prints are in demand, and it is evident that stocks with second hands have been allowed to reach a low point, and must now be replenished. Large jobbing houses in the south and west are after supplies of prints, and some substantial orders have been placed on ginghams during the last few days.

Current Prices Please Buyers.

Both bleached and brown goods have shown improvement, as buyers have been willing to place orders at current prices. The slight softening noticeable for the last few days in the gray goods end of the market has not been reflected in finished goods, judging from the size of stocks available in this market at the present time, and will not affect the latter lines.

Cotton yarns have stiffened materially. The agreement entered into by the Southern Soft Yarn Spinners' association this week to continue the curtailment policy until Oct. 15 served still further to strengthen the yarn market.

Outside of the cotton goods division of the market, there has been a marked improvement in the call for broad silks, while retailers have been in the market for further supplies of carpets and rugs. Dress goods have shown little if any improvement.

Other Quotations.

Buyers are picking up odd lots of spot print cloths slightly below market quotations. Sales are reported at 5⅛c for 39 inch, 68x72s, and 5¼c for 38½ inch 64 squares.

Fine Demand in West.

Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"The exceptional activity in dry goods of the past three weeks still continues, the results this week being gratifying. Merchants from nearby states have been in the market in large numbers, Ohio being especially well represented. Visitors report the corn crop in central Illinois and most of Iowa to be out of danger of frost, while farther north it will require from two to three weeks of growing weather.

"Road men have been getting into the field this week with advance samples, and are already booking good orders for spring delivery.

"Holiday goods, jewelry, and leather goods are receiving special attention at the present time, the large variety of imported novelties in these lines making possible the selection of attractive stocks for the coming season.

"Demand for furs is much greater than usual for this season of the year. Mink, black marten, and black lynx are most popular for neckpieces and muffs, while Russian pony and Hudson seal coats in 52 inch lengths seem to meet with most favor."

Weigher Tells Sugar Frauds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Patrick J. Quigley, a former customs weigher, testifying today in the customs underweighing trial, declared that while employed on the Arbuckle sugar docks in Brooklyn from 1905 to 1907, he had repeatedly participated in underweighing operations. His fee for passing the importations was "from $50 to $70 per shipment."

INDUSTRY ALERT TO FUTURE NEEDS

Seasonable Conditions Favor Distribution of Raw Goods and Necessaries.

EARLY BUYING IS ACTIVE.

Metal and Wood Makers Cheered; Farm and Range Products Remain Steady.

Dun's weekly review of Chicago trade today will say:

Aside from diminished payments through the banks and lessened commercial discounts, the business conditions are strengthened by encouraging developments.

Leading retail lines become active on attractive fall exhibits, and the early buying promises well. Seasonal temperatures have stimulated operations in manufacturing, heavy construction, and distribution of crude materials and necessaries for general consumption.

Prominent industries take on a cheerful tone, there being substantial contracts closed or pending. Iron and steel interests report many inquiries for future outputs, with prospects of little difficulty in negotiations as to prices.

Roller Mills Show Unusual Activity.

New demands also include improvement in rails, plates, pipe, wire, structural shapes, and miscellaneous iron, and the rolling mills run steady on larger capacity than at this time last year. Some irregularity in quotations appears, but the trend favors producers for distant deliveries.

Factory work exhibits no recession in power, electric appliances, hardware, brass products, and stoves. The absorption remains good in forge and foundry supplies, while the car and locomotive builders have contracts running months ahead.

Woodworking branches remain active, demands being of good aggregate for furniture and planing mill outputs. Lumber sales reflect wider buying for both commercial and building purposes.

Belting is in better request for early shipment, and the leather working trades run close to capacity, recent bookings being of gratifying extent in footwear, novelties, and saddlery.

Raw Materials Supply Demand.

The markets for raw materials continue adequately supplied, and prices disclose little variations. The monthly statement of provision stock in store was better than expected, packers being enabled to increase conversion on more suitable arrivals of stock.

Railroad managers yet receive strong advance requests for cars to move crops and gross earnings of the Chicago steam roads present satisfactory gains.

Wholesale dealings in general merchandise indicate expanding confidence in the outlook for fall and winter trading. Re-orders now frequently appear for interior needs, and increased numbers of buyers operate freely in dry goods, millinery, boots and shoes, clothing, men's furnishings, and household goods.

Week Events Brighten Outlook.

Trading defaults have decreased and the coal strike settlement and excellent crop report this week brighten the outlook for both manufacturers and distributers.

The total movement of grain at this port, 10,245,950 bu, compares with 12,234,100 bu last week and 8,270,941 bu a year ago. Compared with 1909, increases appear in receipts 32.8 per cent and shipments 11.9 per cent.

Flour receipts were 153,348 brls, against 180,719 brls last week and 153,862 brls a year ago, and shipments, 163,178 brls, compare with 171,593 brls last week and 255,473 brls in 1909.

Fugitive Cattle Still Leave Pastures.

Aggregate receipts of cattle, hogs, and sheep, 271,035 head, compare with 273,709 head last week and 245,145 head a year ago. Receipts of hides were 2,325,000 lbs, against 3,841,800 lbs last week and 2,513,447 lbs last year. Receipts of wool, 848,300 lbs, compare with 1,166,100 lbs last week and 1,749,862 lbs in 1909. Receipts of lumber were 44,785,000 feet, against 52,090,000 feet last week and 54,985,000 feet last year.

Compared with the closings a week ago, cash prices are higher in sheep, 10c a hundredweight; choice cattle, 20c; and lard, 30c a tierce; and lower in oats, ½c a bu; wheat and corn, each 2¼c; flour, 2¼c a brl; hogs, 5c a hundredweight; ribs, 25c, and pork, 75c a brl.

Bank clearings, $215,228,811, are 7 per cent under those of the corresponding week in 1909, and compare with $195,553,059 in 1908.

Failures reported in the Chicago district numbered 15, against 18 last week, 21 in 1909, and 21 in 1908. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 3, against 8 last week, 5 in 1909, and 6 in 1908.

Bradstreet's View of Trade.

New York, Sept. 9.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Developments of the week have been largely favorable, including better weather and crop reports, a larger distribution of fall goods by jobbers and retailers at most markets, more cheerful reports from some branches of the iron and steel trade, some resumption of textile mills, a reduction in the number of idle cars, and a shading in prices of leading farm products due to better crop reports and larger movement, leading to the hope of a resumption of export trade.

"The enlargement in jobbing and retail trade is not entirely uniform. Best reports come from the west, where unprecedented marketing of cereals at good prices helps trade and collections. At some southwestern cities house trade is smaller, as buyers have returned home, but traveling men's orders are better. On the Pacific coast there is more doing in trade, but collections still lag.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ending Sept. 8 were 173, against 179 last week, 191 in the like week of 1909, 191 in 1908, 172 in 1907, and 164 in 1906. Business failures in Canada for the week number 17, which compares with 25 for last week and 25 for the corresponding week last year.

"Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending Sept. 8 aggregate 1,511,068 bu, against 1,924,188 last week, and 2,615,685 this week last year. Corn exports for the week are 276,452 bu, against 216,403 last week, and 82,972 in 1909."

Outlook Viewed by Dun's.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"There is a continuance of former mixed conditions of trade and industry, which is less pronounced in productive sections than in the distributing markets. It shows most clearly in the speculative and financial centers, which are exceedingly sensitive to political influences. The profit of commerce is, however, not so evident as its volume, the margin between cost and price being narrowed and leading in some cases, notably in cotton spinning, to suspension of operations.

"While conservatism among buyers makes for purchases limited to current needs, there is no sign of any collapse of confidence, the crops are turning out much better than was feared, the banks are in secure position, and there is for the most part a more optimistic feeling as to the immediate future in spite of the approach of the somewhat critical elections.

"Footwear lines continue quiet. Jobbers buy cautiously and wholesalers hold off for lower prices. Trade in leather is still quiet and, though some increase in the demand was noted a week or so ago, no further improvement in business has since occurred."

Bank Clearings of Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending Sept. 8 shows an aggregate of $2,279,926,000, as against $2,392,127,000 last week, and $2,429,511,000 in the corresponding week last year.

SMALL VOLUME OF DEALINGS IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Today's stock market was practically stagnant. The day's dealings ran to about 157,000 shares, and in keeping with this volume the movement of prices was narrow and without suggestion, unless the dullness and unresponsiveness of prices to current political and industrial news are in themselves suggestive.

The only incident of the trading was the fairly sharp decline in Union Pacific convertible bonds upon heavy offerings. The issue had hardly kept pace with the decline in common stock into which they are convertible, and the sales today, with the less conspicuous dealings on Thursday, presumably reflect nothing more than a belated adjustment of this discrepancy. The market was unaffected by this development just as it was unmoved by the publication in detail of the excellent agricultural report for Sept. 1. Such stocks as had opened at all closed quietly at or near the day's best prices.

St. Paul's Report Optimistic.

The news bearing on the financial markets was a trifle more interesting than the markets themselves. The report of the St. Paul had been looked forward to with much interest owing to the feeling that it would supply a test of the ability of the old property to carry its ambitions of coast extension successfully in its first and presumably most trying year. This task has been satisfactorily performed, according to the report, and in spite of other adverse influences common to all railroads in the period, full dividends were earned, and something more.

Another item deserving of mention because it will be frequently repeated from this time on doubtless, was the report of heavy frosts from the west threatening to extend into the corn country. The produce markets appeared to place little reliance upon these stories, for they were altogether unaffected by them.

In the usual weekly reviews of trade by the leading agencies a note of cheer was discoverable, while the compilation of bank clearings disclosed heavy exchanges the country over, although the totals, when the figures for this city were included, were lower than those for the same period a year ago. The daily averages exceed by a substantial margin those for August.

Cash Loss of $3,000,000.

Preliminary estimates of the currency movements of the week indicated a cash loss of not more than $3,000,000 on known business, an interesting showing in view of the fact that at this time a week ago the figures ran to practically $11,000,000.

The halt in the movement of gold to Canada, with the receipts of metal from Mexico and smaller losses to the government on routine transactions, have gone far to offset direct shipments to western and southern points by the banks.

There probably has been some expansion in the loan account, judging from the tendency at the end of last week, as disclosed in the actual statement, but there seems to be no reason to look for any reduction in surplus today commensurate with that of a week ago.

Money on call, easy, 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1¾; closing bid, 1¾; offered at 1¾. Time loans, weaker; sixty days, 3¾@4 per cent, and ninety days, 4¼; six months, 4¼@4¾. IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—In spite of extreme dullness today prices were strong and the highest quotations came in the late afternoon. The gains, however, were small. United Fruit went up to 199, a new high price for that stock. The coppers were barely traded in, but a light demand for Superior made it strong in the late afternoon. Call money, 2¼@3¾ per cent. Time loans, short dates, 4@5 per cent; time loans, six months, 5@5½ per cent; time loans, year, 5@5½ per cent.

CHICAGO BANKERS PLAN ASSOCIATION

Representatives of Twelve National Concerns Indorse Currency Project.

EARLY ACTION WANTED.

Majority Present Favors Organization Within the Next Two Weeks.

Representatives of twelve national banks of Chicago met at the clearing house yesterday and decided to organize a national currency association. While there was some evidence of a desire to delay the matter, a majority of those present favored the organization within the next two weeks. The meeting was held at 12 o'clock. On the motion of George M. Reynolds, J. B. Forgan was made chairman of the meeting. Subsequently Mr. Reynolds moved the appointment of a committee on organization and nominations, and Mr. Forgan named the following:

F. O. Wetmore, vice president of the First National bank, chairman; W. T. Fenton, vice president of the National Bank of the Republic; B. C. Sammons, vice president of the Corn Exchange National bank.

It becomes the duty of the committee to formulate bylaws, recommend nominations for officers of the association, and receive the appointments made by the different banks of their representative to act as a member of the association. These appointments must be made by resolution of the boards of directors.

Banks Represented.

No date was fixed for a future meeting of the banks, the matter being left to the call of the chairman of the committee, though at the request of members a meeting can be called at any time.

The following banks were represented:

Continental and Commercial, George M. Reynolds; First National, J. B. Forgan; Corn Exchange, E. A. Hamill; National City, D. R. Forgan; National Bank of the Republic, W. T. Fenton; Fort Dearborn, W. E. Tilden; Live Stock National, W. A. Heath; Drovers' Deposit, John Fletcher; La Salle National, William Lorimer; National Produce, E. L. Wagner; Monroe National, E. L. Brown; First National of Englewood, V. E. Nichols.

Bank Statement Forecast.

Known movements of money for the week indicate the New York banks have lost in cash $3,089,000. Of this $880,000 was by shipments to the interior. The loss to the subtreasury amounted to $2,209,000.

Direct shipments to the interior totaled $3,989,000, while the receipts from that source aggregated $3,107,000.

Interesting Comparison.

Something of an index to the comparative stability of shares of important eastern and transcontinental railway lines may be found in New York stock exchange figures giving declines in the recent slump.

The following table shows the high and low prices of the year, the percentage of the decline, the margin over dividend rates earned in the year of 1909-1910, and the yield at the low figure of 1910. Comparison is made of four typical dividend payers of the eastern and transcontinental divisions. The figures compare:

	High.	Low.	Pct. decline.	Div. margin.	Yield at low.
New York Central	128	105¼	17	.3%	5.7%
Pennsylvania	138¾	122⅝	11	3.9	4.9
Boston & Maine	152	134	11	2.7	4.9
N. Y., N. H. & H.	162	147	9	1.9	4.9
Atchison	124⅜	91	26	4.4	6.5
Union Pacific	204⅝	162½	25	8.2	6.5
Southern Pacific	138¾	103⅝	24	5.8	5.8
Northern Pacific	145¾	111¼	23	2.6	6.3
Average			24.5	5.2	6.2

The table shows that the eastern roads, with a safety margin average of only 1.9 per cent, and an average yield at the low figure of 4.9 per cent, showed a per cent decline of just half that shown by the granger roads with a safety margin of 5.2 per cent and an average yield of 6.2 per cent.

Wells-Fargo Earnings.

The May report of Wells, Fargo & Co., as filed with the interstate commerce commission, shows a gain of 41.2 per cent in net after a considerable decrease in gross. The figures compare:

	1910.	Increase.
Total operating revenue	$1,164,583	*$176,665
Total operating expenses	896,535	*98,259
Net operating revenue	268,048	78,406

Contracts for 20,000 Automatics.

It was announced yesterday that contracts for 20,000 automatic telephones had been signed. This is the full amount required to be in operation by June of next year, in accordance with the company's ordinance.

It is intended to continue securing contracts. The success which has been met with in getting subscribers has been beyond the expectation of the receivers.

Sanitary District Bonds.

The sanitary district of Chicago will receive proposals for $1,000,000 4 per cent bonds of the district until Sept. 28. The bonds will bear date of Oct. 1, 1910, with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum payable semi-annually, April and October.

FURTHER GAIN IN POTATOES; INCREASE OF 8C FOR A WEEK.

Tomatoes Are Held Firm, but All Other Green Vegetables Only Moderately Active at Weak Figures.

A further advance of 3c was made in prices of potatoes at Chicago yesterday, bringing values to 8c a bushel higher than a week ago. The strength of the market was attributed to lighter arrivals and a more active consumptive demand. Buyers followed the appreciation closely and the market rested on sound footing at the close. Tomatoes were held at strong prices, but all other green vegetables were in large supply and moderately active demand at weak figures.

MAC VEAGH PLANS SMALL BANK BILL

Treasury Head Practically Has Decided to Reduce the Size of Paper Money.

TELLS OF ADVANTAGES.

Changes in U. S. Notes That Will Save $600,000 a Year Are to Follow.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special]—Secretary MacVeagh, in an interview given out at the treasury department today, advances many reasons why the size of paper money now in circulation should be reduced from 7.28 by 3.04 inches to 6 by 2½ inches.

The secretary also makes the statement that the department, having considered all questions involved, has practically decided to put the reform into effect. He says no additional legislation is needed for that purpose.

Advantages of Smaller Bills.

"Many advantages are to be expected from the proposed uniformity in design and reduction in size of national bank notes," says the secretary. "In times of panic or stringency the proposed uniform currency would be particularly helpful. The banks could then send the necessary amount of bonds to the nearest subtreasury and get their equivalent in currency. This could be done within the short space of time required for counting the bonds and making the book entry. In 1907 banks sending to Washington for their own notes had to wait sometimes three or four weeks before the currency could be supplied.

"The main advantage, however, of making these changes in bank notes is the fact they will render possible changes in our other forms of paper money which will save the government more than $600,000 a year. This will give the people a cleaner, more convenient, and more artistic currency.

Smaller Notes Handled Easier.

"On the popular side I am inclined to think the change would cause little if any inconvenience and would be quickly commended by the people. The smaller notes could be carried flat and, being preserved in shape, would not wear from folding and would be more readily handled by cashiers, tellers, and clerks.

"It will not be necessary to change the dimensions of cash drawers, tills, compartments, etc., which now hold the present size money, as they will hold also currency of the size proposed. This would not be true, of course, if the suggestions were to enlarge the size of the notes.

"I believe the people have a right to be consulted when the department is contemplating plans like this—which in their execution may affect every person in the country—and the right to feel no arbitrary action will be taken in matters of this kind."

Prices Break After Opening, but Later New York Market Rallies Sharply—Three Things Cause Rise.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The cotton market showed continued nervousness and irregularity today, but on the whole ruled firmer with prices closing easy at a net gain of 11@12 points as a result of covering for over the week end, renewal of bull support, and reports of a better spot demand.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN HEAR TALK ON SALESMANSHIP.

Hugh Chalmers Is the Principal Speaker Before National Association of Underwriters at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—[Special]—The leading feature of today's proceedings of the annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters was the address of Hugh Chalmers of Detroit.

Mr. Chalmers adapted as far as possible the general principles of salesmanship to life insurance. The latter, he declared, was more difficult to sell than commodities, because its proceeds are deferred. It may never benefit the purchaser. It appeals to a man's responsibility to protect his dependents.

C. W. Orr of Fort Wayne, Ind., chairman of the prize essay committee, reported that the first prize was awarded to E. L. Williams of Omaha, and the second of F. A. Hilton of Detroit.

The association adopted resolutions condemning present stock selling methods in organizing new companies. These were characterized as deceptive and extravagant. The association held that the maximum expense ratio to organize new companies should be 5 per cent of the total funds contributed.

At the close of the session the visitors were taken on a boat ride, as guests of the Detroit agents.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Money was plentiful and easy today. Discount rates were steady on the prospects of gold exports. The aproach of the settlement and the week-end restricted business on the stock exchange. Home rails and copper shares declined, while kaffirs, foreign bonds and Mexican rails hardened slightly. American securities opened quiet and above parity, but there was a lack of support, and the prices declined during the first hour. The Wall street opening failed to stimulate the market, which closed dull, but steady.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—Prices opened generally lower on the boerse today. Later the market improved and closed steady. Exchange on London, 20 marks, 44½ pfennigs for checks. Money 3 per cent. Private discount rates, 3⅝ per cent.

The weekly statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany shows the following changes:

Cash in hand decreased	8,110,000 marks
Loans decreased	25,526,000 marks
Discounts decreased	22,632,000 marks
Treasury bills increased	5,061,000 marks
Notes in circulation decreased	39,465,000 marks
Deposits increased	6,082,000 marks
Gold in hand decreased	10,068,000 marks

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Prices were firm on the bourse today. Closing: 3 per cent rentes, 97 francs, 77½ centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs, 24 centimes for checks.

OUTING PLANNED BY REALTY MEN

Chicago Real Estate Board Will Hold Fall Meeting at Homewood Country Club.

APARTMENT HOUSE SOLD.

Property at Southeast Corner of Sixty-sixth Street and Monroe Avenue, Changes Hands.

Following the example of a few years ago when the first fall meeting of the Chicago real estate board was made the occasion of an outing at the Midlothian Country club, the first meeting of the present fall will be held at the Homewood Country club, Flossmoor, Sept. 21. A special train for the accommodation of the members of the board and their guests will leave the Randolph street station of the Illinois Central at 10:40 a. m., while a return special will leave Flossmoor at 5:38 p. m. Luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock following which a brief business meeting will be held.

The afternoon will be devoted to sports in which golf will be a conspicuous feature. Other games will be provided, such as baseball, croquet, and quoits.

Golf will be the feature, however, and two handsome prizes have been provided. One of these will be a cup presented by President Wallace to the winner in a blind bogey contest. Another cup will be presented by the directors of the board to the player bringing in the lowest net score. The committee having the outing in charge consists of Frank G. Hoyne, chairman, and Charles O. Goss and James A. McLane.

The twenty-one apartment building on Sixty-sixth street at the southeast corner of Monroe avenue, with lot fronting 101 feet and a depth of 131 feet, has been sold by John C. Kreitenstein to William Dilley. A consideration of $1 is named in the deed, but the transfer is subject to an incumbrance of $40,000, which the grantee assumes.

Transactions in Lot Tracts.

Several transactions in lot tracts were among the most interesting developments of the day, in one of which Frank J. Kahn, who is connected with the Schlitz Brewing company, acquired from Mrs. Lavina D. Barnum a tract of 264x582 feet, comprising altogether forty-nine lots, located between Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth streets and Kimbark and Chauncey avenues. A nominal consideration is given in the deed.

In another transaction of a similar character David H. Palmer purchased from Wilbur P. Graff 100x125 feet in Sherman avenue 122 feet south of Eighty-fourth street and fifty other lots in the same block. A consideration of $10 is given in the deed.

Mrs. J[illegible] F. Porter, who about a year ago purchased the property in Commonwealth avenue 178 feet south of Fullerton avenue, has sold the same to Mrs. Catherine H. Propach, the consideration being withheld. The lot is forty-five feet, east front, with a depth of 222 feet, and is vacant. It is reported the purchaser will improve with a handsome dwelling.

Charles T. Hutchinson of Peoria has purchased from Walter E. Emery the apartment house property in Racine avenue 190 feet north of Montrose avenue, with 60x125 feet of ground, west front, the consideration appearing at $1, subject to an incumbrance of $12,500.

New Theater Building Planned.

The Jones, Linick & Schaefer Co., have leased for a term of five years from Michael F. Schiavone, a two-story brick theater building to be erected by the lessor in South Fortieth avenue, 84 feet north of Lexington street, 40x125 feet ground dimensions. The term rent is $25,000.

Joseph Phillips has purchased from Aaron Salzer the property in Western avenue, 24 feet south of Potomac avenue, 24x124 feet, west front, with brick improvements, for $10,250, subject to an incumbrance of $5,500.

E. F. Keebler & Co., have leased for David Mayer to E. W. Rieck, the store at 97½ Van Buren street, Van Buren and Federal streets, for ten years from May 1, 1911, at a term rent of $42,000. Keebler & Co., have also leased for David Lipsey to the Ernst Tosetti Brewing company, the north half of the store, 310 State street, for five years, at a term rent of $20,000.

RALLY OF 15C IN HOG PRICES

Packers Fight Advance, but Fail to Gain an Advantage

CATTLE MARKET IN A RUT.

Values Weakly Held at Decline of 15c to 20c for Most Grades.

Disappointing receipts of hogs at Chicago and at all other important markets of the country yesterday imbued local traders with confidence enough to force a general rally of 15c in prices. Packers fought against the advance, but they could gain no advantage, and finally met the inevitable by amassing their droves at an average cost of $9.05, against $8.91 Thursday.

Receipts here were 9,000 head, and there were 7,261 hogs left from the preceding day. The moderate arrivals indicated that the country was too bullish to market hogs at materially reduced prices, however, and local owners no sooner had this intimation that farmers would stand by them than they returned hogs carried from Thursday to their pens, and refused to liquidate until buyers raised their bids to a satisfactory level.

Many loads of heavy packing hogs, which were almost unsalable on the foregoing session, cleared readily at an appreciation of 15c, and there were instances where even more advance was obtained. Prime light hogs sold up to $9.65, topping the market at 20c higher than on Thursday. Speculators showed less hesitancy than previously in taking on liberal supplies, and the eastern shippers had good orders, taking 4,000 head. Quotations:

Bulk of sales	$8.85@9.25
Common to good mixed	8.65@9.00
Fair to choice medium weights	8.90@9.20

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $9.05, against $8.91 Thursday, $9.01 a week ago, $8.25 a year ago, and $6.90 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 34,000 hogs, against 41,000 a week ago, 37,500 a year ago, and 48,000 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date, 13,559,000, against 16,348,000 the same period in 1909.

CATTLE.

Receipts of 2,500 cattle did not contain a sufficient supply of native steers to test the strength of the demand, but evidence of an unusually narrow outlet for beef stock was seen in the apathy shown by buyers in the offerings. The market appeared to be in a rut, and prices were weakly held at a decline of 15@20c for practically all grades of steers as compared to last week's closing values.

Arrivals included thirty loads of Texas cattle direct to packers and fourteen loads of South Dakota rangers. Most of the latter were cows and heifers, and they found a clearance at steady prices. Native butcher stock trade was slow and barely steady at a decline of 25@35c for the week; bulls were unchanged, and calves firm, with best vealers at $9.50 and good killers at $9.00@9.25. Stockers and feeders were closely taken, and the market finished the week in good condition, although values showed a net loss of 10@25c for the week. Quotations:

Beef steers, fair to good	6.00@7.00
Beef steers, common to fair	4.75@6.00

Cattle at six western markets, 11,600, against 10,700 a week ago, 10,800 a year ago, and 12,700 two years ago. Total for 1910 to date, 5,223,000, against 5,160,000 the same period in 1909.

SHEEP.

Market for live muttons had a firm undertone and higher prices would have been obtainable if the quality of the offerings had been more desirable. The general demand was unusually broad for a Friday and the supply of 10,000 head found a clearance early at the best prices of the week considering the sort.

All the leading packers wanted sheep and lambs and there was a good call for the latter from independent city butchers. Country buyers also were after their usual quota of feeding stock and pens were emptied almost as soon as a trading basis was decided upon. City butchers paid up to $7.10 for prime native lambs, while packers bid up to $7.00 for natives and bought Utah rangers at $6.85. Range yearlings sold at $5.60, with 2 year old wethers at $4.65. Most of the feeding lambs cleared at $6.60@6.75, with sheep at $4.25. Quotations:

REAL ESTATE—CENTRAL.

VERY SPECIAL

Have you $2,500 in cash that you haven't any special use for—a little idle money, so to speak—add a little nerve to this—the kind of nerve the Fields and Palmers used a few years back. To come to the point, we want you to buy a $40,000 corner close to downtown, containing two stores and 22 apartments, unheated, renting for $5,700 per annum. The ground under this bldg. in less than ten years ought to sell for $60,000. All you need now is $2,500 and $500 every six months, leaving you a handsome net yearly income. See us today.

on our usual terms—10 per cent down and $[illegible] per month. NO INTEREST.

No sales will be made until Sept. 11, at 10 a. m. Adjoining acres are held at $5,000 per acre. Hundreds of people will attend this sale and the firstcomers will get their choice of lots. I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 minutes from loop district], and my being the president of a large wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing] and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings where money lenders congregate. My customers' name and address are known only to me; my employes know accounts only by serial number. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges for any time are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, often less, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. Ask for WILLCOXE, care the Englewood Co., 1101-1103 E. 63d-st., corner Greenwood-av. Telephone Hyde Park 4383.
